Inventor creates specialty product for Beanie Baby craze

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

If you ever meet one of Santa's elves, he is sure to look like Woody Wood. Beanie Baby® shelving is only the most recent product out of the workshop in back.

Between his Christmas spectacles of Santa's Workshop, Woody Wood builds and repairs an unending list of toys, inventions, custom wood craft for cabinets and shelves, small boxes for hospitals and research laboratories, and millwork.

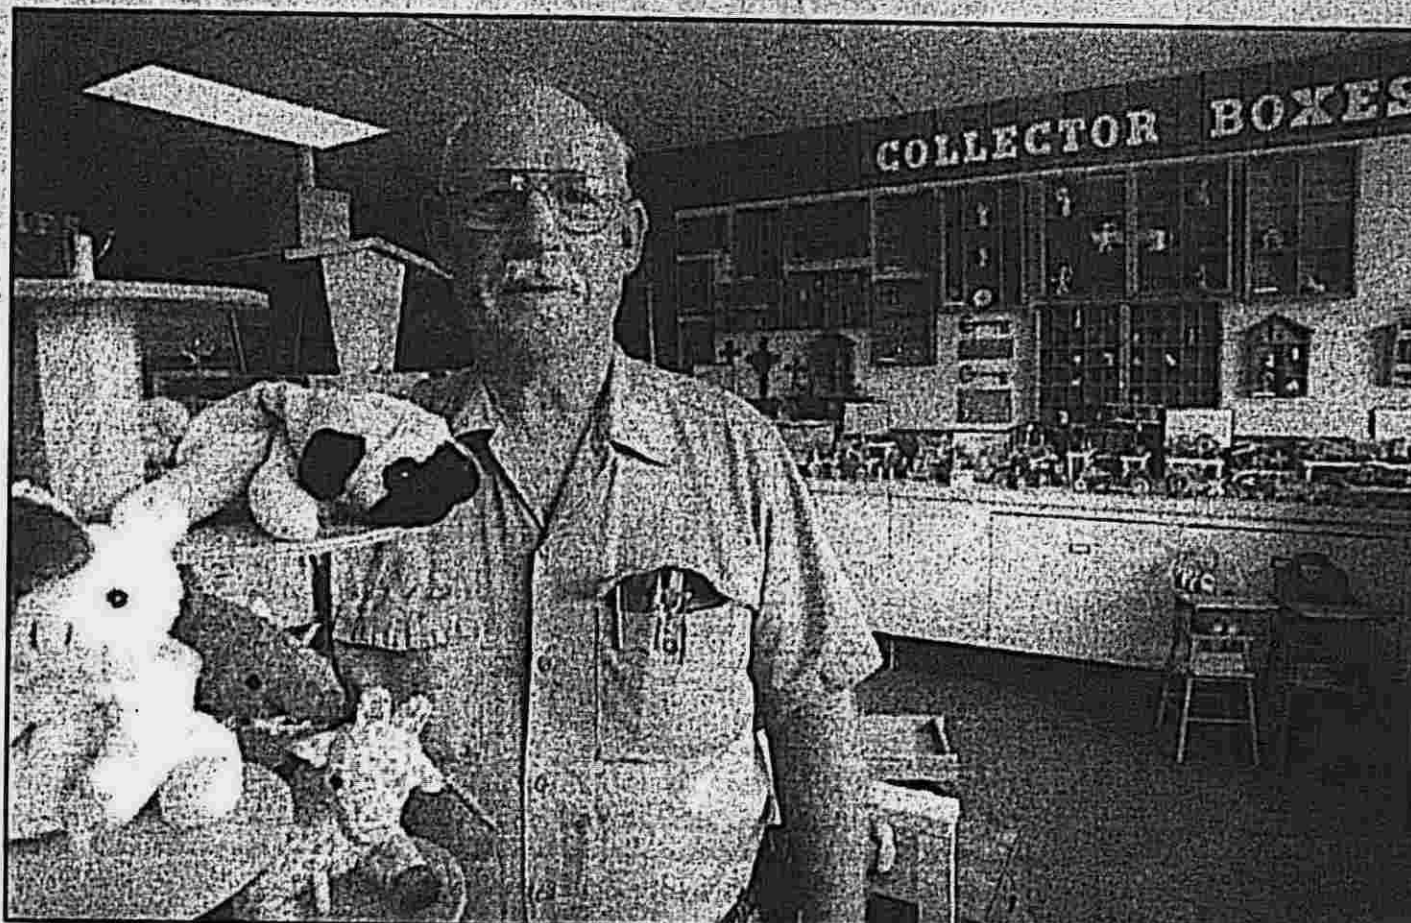

Wood owns Mueller-Wood Kraft, Inc. on Route 83 and Wall Street. He is just north of Petite Lake Road in Lake Villa. He builds beautiful toys and crafted materials cut from beautiful woods, specialty woods, and exotic woods.

Right now, his sign by the highway promotes shelves he created to hold popular Beanie Baby children's toys.

"We started building them just before Christmas," Wood said. "We sold a number of them."

Wood thought that people might like to have a special shelf on which to display their Beanie Babies.

Although he could build any type of shelf wanted, Wood adopted a design with round, compact, disc-sized shelves spiraling up an octagonal center post. The tallest model was five feet. There are smaller units available, such as a two-foot high unit.

"We did the first one on a spiral," he said. Then they doubled-up on it to increase the holding capacity.

"We make it all from scratch," he said. He uses Baltic birch wood from Finland and Russia for the units.

The shelves are as unique as the product they can hold.

Wood said that grandparents buy them for their grandchildren. "That's why we're called the grandparent's toy store."

People stop by every day to check the retail store as a result of his sign by the road. "We think sometime we'll run out of people who drive by and don't stop," he said. His wife, Shirley Wood, is manager of the retail store.

Mueller-Wood is a small precision wood-working shop with specialized equipment and specialized inventions for specialized products. For example, Wood builds three sizes of boxes used by hospitals and research centers to make dry ice at

Buried cables create parking

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village and utility company workers have started to bury utility lines behind stores on the east side of Main Street. Burying utility cables will then permit construction of a parking lot.

These two projects further implement construction of the William E. Brook Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center.

Completion of utility and parking phases this fall will permit village officials to begin improvements to Main Street and its sidewalks next spring.

This summertime construction work is in addition to creation of wetlands and ongoing efforts to raise funds in the community for the memorial area project.

"That's the first step: burying the utilities," said Claude LeMere, Antioch community development director.

"The utility work is a joint effort by village crews and utility crews. This whole project has been one of cooperation between property owners, the village, and utility companies," said LeMere.

"We will get all trenching and underground conduit in place. (Commonwealth) Edison will come

High winds leave path of destruction in Antioch

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

A few minutes of intense wind on Monday evening caused extensive damage to several Antioch area homes.

Linda Rawlins, who lives on Grapevine Avenue in the Channel Lakes subdivision, doesn't know whether her house can be saved after a tree crashed through her chimney and roof.

While she was out of the house at the time, her two sons, 15 and 13, were watching television in the family room when it happened.

"They thought they heard a gunshot and ran outside," she said. "Then they realized what happened and called the fire department and me."

When Rawlins returned home she saw a tree, which was approximately 4 feet in diameter, embedded in the second floor of her house. The chimney was keeping the tree in place and preventing it from causing more damage. "You could see the sky from the second floor," said Rawlins.

She is thankful that her sons were in the family room when the tree hit, instead of upstairs on the computer where they had been only moments before the tree struck.

"If they had still been on the computer it would have hit them," she said.

Rawlins and her family quickly moved to a nearby hotel.

"The only thing you think about are the kids and photos," she said. She left innumerable items, such as clothes and toothbrushes, behind.

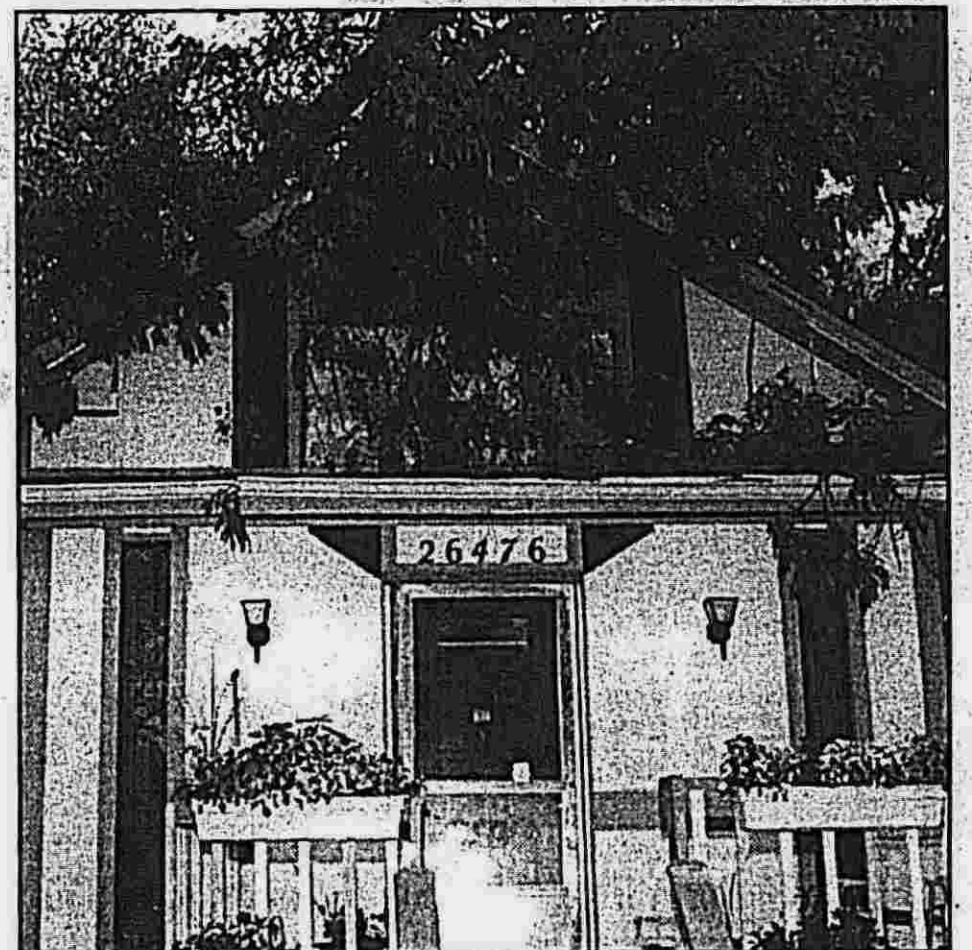

Trees also fell in the yard of Rawlins' neighbor, Birnida Johnson. She was lucky that they missed her guest house by about four feet.

"The trees didn't hit any of my property," she said. "They just fell on all my new plantings and landscaping that I completed only three weeks ago."

Johnson said she didn't hear the trees come down. "It happened just like that," she said. "I could hear the wind and I looked out the window when a fire truck went by."

She saw that the wind had knocked over about four 50-foot ash trees. The trees were at least 60 years old.

Johnson said the wind was so strong that it also blew a neighbor's above-ground swimming pool into another yard.

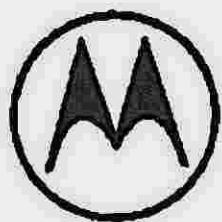

Linda Rawlins doesn't know if her Grapevine Ave., house can be saved after a tree crashed through her chimney and roof during Monday's storm. The damage has forced the family to evacuate. The family is staying in a local hotel. —Photo by Fred Chapman

Allendale plans golf outing benefit Aug. 17

The Allendale Golf Tournament will be held at Exmoor Country Club, in Highland Park, Aug. 17. A buffet luncheon will begin the event at noon. Shotgun starts begin at 1 p.m.

Cost of the benefit including lunch and the dinner reception is $400 a person.

"Last year, we raised through this tournament over $35,000, net, for programs that directly benefit the children," said F. Quinn Stepen Jr., chair of the benefit. "Our goal this year will be to surpass that amount and, to do that, we need more participants and sponsors."

Following the golf games will be a dinner reception, presentation of awards to the winning team, and a raffle drawing featuring two round-trip, business class tickets from Chicago to London on British Airways.

The tickets are provided by British Airways.

People who wish to attend or become a sponsor can telephone William R. O'Toole, Vice-president, Development, at 847-356-2351, extension 279.

Allendale is a 130-bed residential, therapeutic and educational treatment center that provides a school-home type learning environment for boys and girls 7 to 18 years old. Many of these children have been physically and sexually abused or neglected and suffer from a broad range of serious emotional and behavioral disorders.

their facilities. He sells lumber to other woodworkers. He makes toys and collector boxes sold in his retail store. He makes products for three national brokers.

"We're so multifaceted—that is why we're still here," he said. "You have to be versatile."

He has invented a downdraft sanding table. He has a large one that he uses in his own production area, but he also has one he sells for home shop use called "The Eliminator Jr." Dust from a piece of wood that is sanded on its surface is pulled into a container by an air-draft that keeps it out of the room.

The 4-foot square table unit connects to a shop vacuum. It eliminates sanding dust in a shop area. "Somebody will make a mint with that box because it is the only one that works."

It is not the only invention he has created. He has just created a wood device to make it more comfortable for people to use a Nordic Track® exercise unit.

"If they like the concept, we'll broker it," he said.

"We have all the 'toys'," he said, referring to his wood shop equipment. A vacuum pump, three-band saw, overhead pin-router, two table saws, a double miter cutter, a horizontal boring table, power feeders, overhead sander, horizontal sander, and, of course, a very large dustless sanding table are some of the 'toys' he uses to create toys for toddlers.

He is careful about dust. "I happen to be allergic to ash dust," he said. He has an entire room for staining, spraying, and finishing his creations. It has filtered air.

He said that it is always busy at Mueller-Wood. When they are not turning out products for businesses or the retail store, they build toys for Christmas.

"We're building train parts right now," Wood said.

in and set the transformers. And Edison and Ameritech will set utility pedestals," he said.

"Then they will pull the wire through all utility conduits and begin hooking the new system all together from transformers to buildings."

LeMere said, "Following removal of the (utility) poles, the grading, adding of stone, compacting of stone, and asphaltting will occur."

"Our target is to have all the parking lots and asphaltting done by the end of October."

"We've got to have this project in place prior to tearing up Main Street," he said.

The new parking lots behind stores on the east side of Main Street will provide parking when sidewalks are redone and Main Street is resurfaced next March, 1999.

"That way, you have a full parking area on the west side and east side of Main Street so you can keep the commercial district pumping," said LeMere.

While utility lines are buried and a parking lot is constructed this summer, work to restore the wetlands will continue.

"We'll also be working on the entrance way." That would include addition of gravel to the path area from Orchard Street and planting creeping juniper on the entrance berms.

"The removal of bushes and vegetation that threaten natural wetland plants will occur in order to create a better habitat," he said.

Species such as reed canary grass and mustard plant, as well as others, will be removed to improve habitat quality.

"We'll work to get an environmental group together to remove that type of vegetation," LeMere said.

Antioch Police receive award for child service

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Police Department has received an award from the Community Youth Network for its work and commitment to children.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug and Trustee Dorothy Larson attended the Annual Dinner and Award Ceremony of the Grayslake based Community Youth Network to see Antioch Police Chief Charles Watkins accept the award for the department.

Shineflug said, "The Antioch Police Department was chosen by the staff of Community Youth Network to be honored for the exceptional efforts of the whole department on behalf of children and families within their community."

Watkins: Honored by Community
Youth Network

Her statements were made to village trustees at the Monday, June 1 council meeting.

"Bruce Ramsey, executive director of Community Youth Network stated that the Antioch Police Department was made up of dedicated individuals who through their actions show that they truly care about children and families."

"Mr. Ramsey stated that the Antioch Police Department and Community Youth Network have a long history of working together with runaway youth, family conflicts and community crisis," she said.

"Community Youth Network acknowledged the fine work and commitment to children that is continually evident within the Antioch Police Department," Shineflug said to village trustees.

Golf outing includes beanie raffle

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Three of the most currently sought Beanie Babies are being raffled to help raise money to send children to burn camp in Ingleside.

The raffle is one aspect of an Aug. 1 golf outing and dinner at Round Lake Golf Course in Round Lake Beach which will also raise money to benefit the Illinois Fire Safety Alliance Burn Camp.

"This is our second raffle for the burn camp," said Liz Kehrer, auxiliary president for the Military Order of the Cootie Pup Tent 81.

Kehrer said that funds raised by both the golf outing and the Beanie Baby Raffle help children and teenagers who have experienced injuries from burns requiring hospitalization. The winner need not be present to win the Beanie Baby Raffle.

The Military Order of the Cootie Pup tent #81 and its women's Auxiliary and the Lake Villa Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary are sponsoring the golf outing and two raffles.

In association with the golf outing, there is a second raffle. The proceeds from that second raffle will be donated to the North Chicago Veterans Administration Hospital. Kehrer said that the prizes for the second raffle are $100, $75, and $50 for the first, second, and third place winners.

The golf outing and dinner is $50 per person, which includes the cost to play golf, a cart, dinner, and prizes. People who do not wish to play golf may attend the evening dinner for only $20. Checks should be made payable to M.O.C. #81 and sent to Kehrer, 389 Dakota Court, Round Lake Beach, 60073.

The cost to sponsor one of the golf outing holes is $75. Donations of golf prizes, financial contributions, and hole sponsorships are very much encouraged, according to Kehrer. People who wish to sponsor holes can contact Dennis Kehrer at 847-546-0426.

Wizard Computers of Round Lake Beach will sponsor a hole-in-one contest. The prize is a $5,000 computer system.

Golf outing tee times start at 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The steak dinner is served at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Lake Villa at 130 East Grand Avenue.

Tickets for each raffle also are available at the Lake Villa VFW 4308 Post on Grand Avenue.

The burn camp is held at Camp Duncan in Ingleside, Illinois. The staff includes people and professionally trained individuals who help the children enjoy the experience. There is one counselor for every two burn camp participants.

Assessor will help storm victims

Owners of homes and businesses that have suffered substantial storm damage this past week should check with Heather Kufalk-Marotta, township assessor.

Damage may serve as a basis for a change in assessment value. Roofs that were removed, fireplaces torn down, barns and garages that were blown down may justify a change in property assessment.

Damage to landscaping and trees or branches that blew down are not sufficient for a change, however. If people have assessable damage, call Kufalk-Marotta at 847-395-1545 at the Antioch Township Office at 99 Highway 173.

Taste moves dancers, merchandise and food

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Kristen Kessell, 12, knew where the best place to sell Kool-Aid on a mid-July weekend would be. The result was that she was the youngest person to be selling food at Taste of Antioch.

"We sell Kool-Aid in front of the house during the summer," she said, "but we don't get many people."

She moved her Kool-Aid stand to 902 Main Street and set about the task of refreshing the large crowds that came to hear the music, eat the food, and buy the merchandise on sidewalk tables.

Taste of Antioch unfolded last Thursday through Sunday under sunny skies in warm weather. By all accounts, it was a success for everyone present. The music was danceable, the food was tasty, and merchandise sales were good.

"This is our first year," Kessell said. "We've been here the last three days, and we've sold cherry and strawberry."

"We all like these. If people don't like that, we can (offer) lemonade."

Kessell was selling the 25-cent cups of Kool-Aid with other friends. "The last two days, we've had my neighbor Katelyn Howell and my sister Gretchen. Today we had a neighbor, Kelly Inman, and sometimes Keri Larsen."

To broaden the product sales base, the young entrepreneurs also were selling merchandise. "Me and my friends made the Gecko bead key chains," she said. The key chains were set out on the table for people to see.

"We sold a lot of them," she said. People treated her well. Customers were polite. "We try to be polite to the people," she said.

Kristen Kessell was not the only non-traditional place during Taste of Antioch for people to obtain refreshment. Also handing out juice was LifeSource Blood Services in the State Bank of The Lakes community room. Of course, to obtain a cup of juice there, people were donating a pint of blood to help the area through a seasonal blood shortage.

One of the immediate advantages of donating blood was that Larry Mondle, owner of Baskin-Robbins on Orchard Street, had provided coupons so blood donors could buy one cone at the regular price and get a second free ice-cream cone in addition.

Overall, the Taste of Antioch was a successful event. "Almost everyday we've met or exceeded records," said Barbara Porch, president of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. "A majority of merchants exceeded last year (sales) on Thursday and Friday."

The crowds have been very positive and very good, according to Porch. "We had more dancing than I remember seeing in the past," she said of Saturday night. The music to which people dance was provided by the St. Peters Church Grease Band.

"People were standing around having a nice time," she also said.

"It's nice to think that people in our area can support this," Porch said.

Late Saturday afternoon, Lost Childhood was on the entertainment stage with their rock-blues-country mixture of songs. Although they covered Bruce Springsteen, Van Morrison, Pink Floyd, Big Head Todd and the Monsters, and Moody Blues, and Eric Clapton, band member Rich Warnke played his own composition which he dedicated to his wife.

Friday night was reported to be a strong evening for the many restaurants selling food at Taste of Antioch. Families lined up to buy calamari from DiMarco's. They also could choose from rich offerings by Jensen House, JT's Road House, Szechwan Palace, Dairy Queen, Antioch Pizza, Wunder Bar Restaurant, Triple J, Steak House, TNT & Pizzeria, and JC's Pizzeria. For drinks, there was water, juice, beer, fresh lemonade and the many flavored coffees by Novel Coffee.

One of three new participants this year was Something Sweet. A new shop in the downtown area near PM&L Theater, the fresh fudge store and taste booth locations were busy with sales.

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Speeding leads to arrest on warrant

Antioch Police Officers stopped Delise M. Hutcheson, 38, of Trevor, Wis., on July 14 at 9:42 a.m. traveling westbound on North Avenue at Hillside Avenue in a gray 1986 Plymouth Horizon.

She was charged with speeding and released on her own recognizance pending a court date of July 28 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan. She also was found to be wanted on a Lake County Sheriff's Office warrant. She posted $500 cash bond on the warrant charge.

Warrant arrests

Antioch Police Officers stopped Mark J. Rambert, 18, of Antioch, at Taste of Antioch on July 16 at 8:20 p.m. He was wanted on a warrant by the Lake County Sheriff's Office.

Antioch Police Officers arrested Daniel K. Kantak and John P. Gollon, both 18 of Antioch, on July 17 at 3:18 a.m. They were each wanted on a Lake County Sheriff's Office warrant. Unable to post bond, they were transported to the Lake County Jail.

Juvenile alcohol consumption

Antioch Police Officers arrested seven underage juveniles on July 19 at 12:49 a.m. in the 900 block of White Road and charged them with consumption of alcohol as a minor.

All seven were released on bond pending a court date of Sept. 9 at 9 a.m. in Grayslake. Bradley G. Hessler, 19, of Lindenhurst, took a breathalyzer test (0.17). Joshua J. Ruth, 19, of Antioch took a breathalyzer test (0.04). Wayne P. Enquist, 19, of Antioch, took a breathalyzer test (0.08). Robert E. Wido, 18, of Lindenhurst, took a breathalyzer test (0.10). Joseph A. Lownders III, 18, of Antioch, took a breathalyzer test (0.04). Michael J. Johnson, 20, of Antioch, took a breathalyzer test (0.09). And Donald J. Roszak, 19, of Grumee, took a breathalyzer test (0.04).

LINDENHURST

Charged with DUI

Lindenhurst Police Officers stopped Gregory M. Wozniak, 22, of Lake Villa, on July 15 at 2:09 a.m. traveling south bound on Deep Lake Road at Fourth Street in a brown 1978 Ford pick-up truck. He was charged with not having insurance, DUI-alcohol, and DUI for alcohol above 0.08. He took a breathalyzer test (0.13). Wozniak posted bond and was given a court date of August 11 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

Charged on warrant

Lindenhurst Police Officers arrested Christopher G. Neubanes, 23, of Twin Lakes, Wis., July 16 at 10:15 p.m. in the 500 block of Northgate Road in a 1983 Oldsmobile. He was arrested for an outstanding warrant and remanded to the Lake County Jail.

LAKE VILLA

Possession of a controlled substance

Kenneth R. Kuzmicki, 37, of 40826 Route 83, Antioch, was arrested on a warrant and charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance on July 10.

At approximately 11 p.m. officers spotted Kuzmicki's car in front of the Grand Tracks Saloon in Lake Villa.

Lake Villa officers entered the saloon and advised Kuzmicki he was under arrest for the warrant.

At that time Kuzmicki reached into his left front shirt pocket and tossed a bundle wrapped in brightly colored paper over the bar.

The package held a white powdery substance later identified as cocaine (approximately .07 grams).

Kuzmicki was transported to Waukegan and held on $700 bond.

No valid license

On July 13 at 9:24 p.m., Daniel

M. Salmoran, 25, of Waukegan was stopped for driving with no visible registration.

He was charged with having no valid drivers license and driving an uninsured motor vehicle.

He was released pending a court date of Aug. 12 in Grayslake.

William Albert Dax, 20, of Round Lake Beach, was stopped on Deep Lake Road, after a routine check of his license plates showed that his Geo Tracker was impounded by the Lake County Sheriff's Office on June 6, 1998.

He was charged with driving with a suspended license, and the car was impounded.

He was released on I bond pending a court date of Aug. 12 in Grayslake.

THE UNITED STATES ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

H.O.D. LANDFILL SUPERFUND SITE ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (U.S. EPA) completed a review of the Remedial Investigation/Feasibility Study (RI/FS) for the H.O.D. Landfill Superfund site in Antioch, Illinois. U.S. EPA has prepared a Proposed Plan identifying the preferred alternative for addressing surface soils, landfill gas, leachate, and groundwater monitoring; along with the rationale for the preference.

U.S. EPA evaluated 15 alternatives for addressing site contamination:

Capping Alternatives

Alternative C1: Landfill Cap Restoration and Maintenance

Alternative C2: Augmentation of the Existing Landfill Cap

Alternative G1: No Further Action

Alternative LC1: No Further Action

Alternative LC4: Active Leachate Extraction

Alternative LT2: Pretreatment and Discharge of a Publicly Owned Treatment Works

Alternative LT3: Treatment of Leachate and Surface Discharge

Alternative GW2: Monitored Natural Attenuation

U.S. EPA proposes Alternatives C1 Landfill Cap Restoration and Maintenance, G3 Active Site Upgrade of the Landfill Gas System, LC4 Active Leachate Extraction, LT1 No Further Action, and GW2 Monitored Natural Attenuation. This combination of alternatives comprising the U.S. EPA recommended alternative compares more favorably to the evaluation criteria than did the other combinations of alternatives. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency also supports the recommended alternative.

PUBLIC MEETING

U.S. EPA will sponsor a public meeting to explain its preferred alternative. The meeting will give the community a chance to learn more about the alternative and other alternatives, ask questions, and to submit written and oral comments:

Date: Tuesday, August 11, 1998

Time: 7:00 p.m.

Place: Antioch Village Hall

874 Main Street

Antioch, Illinois

PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD

U.S. EPA will accept written comments on its recommendation to change the cleanup decision during a 30-day public comment period:

July 22 to August 20, 1998

Comments may be sent to U.S. EPA Community Involvement Coordinator Gordon Blum at the U.S. EPA address below or through e-mail to blum.gordon@epa.gov. Comments must be postmarked no later than August 20, 1998. Based on new information, U.S. EPA may modify its recommendation.

Antioch High School creates alumni directory

Antioch Community High School is looking for all its graduates.

The school is creating the first alumni directory and wants to hear from all graduates so information about them may be included.

"We need your help," said Publicity Coordinator Charlene Davenport.

The directory will be published by Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc. of Norfolk, Virginia.

"In order for this project to be successful, we need to find as many Antioch Community High School graduates as we can," Davenport said.

The purpose of this directory is to contain current residential and work information on each school graduate. This will help classmates rekindle old friendships, make new ones, plan social gatherings, set up mentoring programs for current students, or reminisce.

Information wanted includes: current names, addresses, and telephone numbers. Former students from all classes are asked to submit information.

"If you have a reunion list, class newsletter, or any other resource containing this information that has been released since your graduation, we would like to hear from you," said Davenport.

Graduates can mail information to Antioch Community High School Alumni Directory Project, Attn.: Charlene Davenport, c/o Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, 22 Kroger Center, Norfolk, Virginia, 23502.

People may also contact Davenport by calling 1-800-654-4548, by faxing 1-800-829-4142, or by e-mailing cdavenport@bcharrispub.com.

Burgess to discuss barns

Local author Nancy Burgess will show a slide presentation and discuss her books at the new location for the Lake Villa District Library on Monday, August 24 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Burgess presently is working on a project to save barns in Lake County from loss by development. The project is called the "Barns of Lake County."

Burgess also is author of "Gardens and Other Sanctuaries in Long Grove."

No registration is required for this program.

If special accommodations are needed for a person to be able to attend any library program, the public services office of the library should be contacted two weeks in advance at 847-356-7711.

NO TAXES--NO PROBLEM!

Tax reform has eliminated or phased out many popular tax deductions, but owning a home still offers significant tax benefits. If you are renting, it may be a good time to sit down with a professional Realtor to see how much you can save each year by owning your own home.

You save in two ways when you purchase a home. Even though most interest deductions have been phased out, home mortgage interest and state and local property taxes can be deducted. The interest on a home equity loan may also be deductible.

Your Realtor can show you how these savings will apply in your situation. You may be pleasantly surprised when you compare the tax savings you will receive as a result of owning your home, and you will build up equity as your home appreciates in value. Also, first-time buyers will see expanded rules for Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) and 401(k) plans, allowing penalty-free withdrawals to purchase a home in the Taxpayer Relief Act passed in August, 1997. Consult your tax advisor for your particular circumstance.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

TENNIS, ANYONE?

The smashes, lunges, and slides that make racquet sports exciting might also seem to make these sports off-limits to someone with back problems. There are moves in all racquet sports that can put a weak back in danger, but surprisingly, the stance used in tennis protects the spine by encouraging the use of legs and hips.

Shattering your opponent with an overhead smash or catching him off guard with your stunning serve might win you honors on the court, but these moves could put you on the sidelines. Both can cause the back to hyperextend; so when hitting overhead shots, be careful not to arch your back excessively.

You should pay attention to the playing surface because hard courts, even rubberized ones, take a toll on backs, as well as hips and knees. Try to play on grass, clay, or Astroturf, which allow the feet to slide and, therefore, minimize possible trauma to the body.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Our clinic is located at 314 Rollins Road, Round Lake Beach (Eagle Creek Plaza - corner of Cedar Lake and Rollins Roads.)

NEIGHBORS

Name: Susie Soukup

Home: Antioch

Occupation: I work for the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service (located in Grayslake). I'm the Unit Educator for Youth Development and I'm the Family Nutrition Program Coordinator.

I'm originally from: Nebraska, and all the family still lives in Nebraska.

I graduated from: I went to college in Kansas.

My family consists of: My husband, Scott, and our son, Todd.

My pets are: We have a dog named Toto, which we got in Kansas.

What I like best about Antioch: It's still considered a small town. I love the quilt store, Quilter's Dream. I enjoy substitute teaching at the high school and have made many friends there.

What I like best about my job: It's flexible. I'd get too bored if I had to do the same thing every day.

I relax by: I quilt. I make quilts and wall hangings. I do machine quilting because I need completion in my life.

Favorite TV show is: "ER," "Chicago HOPE," and "Home Improvement."

Favorite video is: "Grease," "Jerry Maguire," and "Sound of Music."

Favorite movie is: Any of those I bought [above].

Favorite restaurant: We like the Chicago Oven Grinder and Pizzeria. I'll eat anywhere.

Favorite band or musician: I like Neil Diamond, "Chicago," Garth Brooks.

My life's motto is: To enjoy life. You should enjoy what you are doing.

If I could be anyone in history, I would be: I'm pretty happy where I am at.

If I won the lottery, I would: I'm a practical person. I don't even buy a ticket. If I did win, I would spend it.

I want to be remembered as: Enjoying life.

People who know me in high school would say: They can't believe we're still married (26 years). They'd probably think I hadn't changed.

My pet peeve is: "Inflexible people."

Most interesting person I ever met was: I think my husband is pretty interesting. He's the calm, thinking side of the family.

My dream job would be: I'm not sure I'm not in it.

People would be most surprised to know this about me: Occasionally I do think through things. When the situation calls for it, I really can sit still and think things through. I don't do everything at the last minute.

If I had a plane ticket to anywhere, I would go to: Hawaii or Florida. I like to go where it's warm and sunny, especially in the winter.

If you have a "Neighbor" that you would like to see profiled in this column, call Rhonda Hetrick Burke at 223-8161.

Market Day saves the summer

Just when you thought you flipped your last Ed Debevic burger, or your teenager ate the remaining Sausage Pizza Mate, or the Chick 'n Steak box sits empty—your prayers have been answered. St. Peter Religious Education Program will be sponsoring a July/August Market Day.

The deadline to place your order is Friday, July 31. You can either pick up a market day form from the St. Peter Rectory, or you can place an order by calling the Religious Education Office at 395-0246. Either leave your order on the answering machine or leave your name and number and someone will get back with you as soon as possible.

The pick-up date for Market Day is Tuesday, Aug. 11 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. at St. Peter School. Now is a good time to stock up for the end of summer picnics and those first few weeks of school lunches and snacks.

Pet owners take note

In a recent column, I relayed our family's tale of woe regarding a stray dog that was temporarily adopted by the Pringle children. The dog was a Dalmatian, wearing a collar, but with no identifying tags attached.

We reported our find to several local agencies and eventually the dog's owner contacted us.

Unfortunately, we have no clue as to whether or not this canine ever reached the safety of his own home as he had taken his leave of our residence 10 minutes before his rightful owner made that contact with us. We can only hope he is safe at home.

Since that incident has taken place there has been five other stray dogs that have wandered onto the Pringle premises, and two stray cats. Two of the dogs were wearing collars, but only one had tags containing a name and number of someone to contact if he had been found wandering. A phone call was made and dog and owner were happily reunited.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE
Lynn Pringle

After the incident with the Dalmatian and the rain, the mud and the skunk, I vowed our garage would no longer become a haven for strays.

Folks, it doesn't take much to put a "If I'm lost, please call—" tag on your pet. It would certainly alleviate an awful lot of worry and wonder.

It's a known fact that pedigree dogs who are found by unsavory characters are sometimes retained for their own family pets and the rightful owners are never sought and in this case an identifying tag would serve no purpose. But for the most part we have to believe that there are still some honest people out in our neighborhoods that would certainly call the number on the tag and a lot of tears could go unshed.

So, before you find yourself searching the shoulder of the road for Fido—please put an identification tag on him.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Ramos: Rotary Exchange excellent program, experience

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Exchange student James Ramos leaves Antioch a different person than when he arrived a year ago.

Ramos gave up a year of college in Brazil to be an exchange student and was surprised to find that Antioch was smaller than he expected. He had a good time, but his best time was in a bus traveling west of the Mississippi River. His second best experience also was out west.

Ramos described his experiences as an exchange student to the Antioch Rotary Club on Thursday, July 9. The local club had served as his host for the past year.

"I think I'm less shy now," Ramos said of the major change he has noticed about himself in the past year. "I'm a little more independent than what I was."

When he returns to his home state of Paraná, Jaime Ramos Filho will have lost a year of high school. However, he will have an opportunity to take tests to provide entry to college.

"I'm going to try to be an industrial designer," he said of his career aspirations.

During the past year in the United States, Ramos has been staying with families of Antioch Rotary Club members, including Stan Livermore, Rick Kuehn, and Kevin Lyons. Ramos has made presentations to club members about Brazil and about his home state in Brazil.

He knew that Antioch would be a small community near Chicago, but he was surprised at how small it was.

"Much smaller" is how he described Antioch.

"But, it's not smaller in the sense that there's nothing to do," he said. "It's small but you can do a lot of stuff. That's what's nice. It's not very crowded," he said. "You're not in the middle of nowhere."

For him the south entrance to Antioch is what he will remember. The exact spot is along Route 83 as you come into town between the Shell gas station and the high school. For him, that will be "Antioch."

During his year long-stay, Ramos took a bus trip through western United States with 88 other exchange students. He told Antioch Rotarians, "It was just the best. I had the time of my life."

It was easy for all the exchange students to become fast friends. "We were exactly in the same situation," he said. They were not at home nor were they with their host families. It just was students learning about, and seeing up close, the western United States.

He took two trips west. "When I went to the west, with Rick (Kuehn), elk hunting, that was such an experience—the experience of being there and hiking all the mountains looking for elks. It was a very intense thing. It was something very unique," he said. "I really enjoyed it."

Ramos said that he did not write a journal of his exchange student experience. Instead, he collected pins. "You can tell a little story from each pin," he said.

The quarter-sized pins cover both the front and back of a jacket he dedicated to the collection. It includes the red Antioch Community High School pin. The colorful, metal-enamel pins are for sale all over the United States.

He did keep a list of the different things he saw and experienced, however.

He said that for the trip out west with the exchange students, he did write a diary. It was just three weeks and so many things were going on. "It would be hard to remember all the details later."

Ramos acquired a few impressions of people in this county. "Americans like to be very patriotic," he said. "They like to be Americans and are proud of it."

"(There is) lots of fast food. But, that I kind of expected," he said. What was his favorite? Subway sandwiches.

"We don't have that in Brazil. Pizza sub is best."

Another "best" for him is the Rotary Exchange Program itself.

"I think it's the best," he said. "Here in the central states, holy cow, they treat you very very well."

"They find lots of things to put the exchange students together and have them meet each other," he said. The program is well organized, according to Ramos.

"I was sponsored by a Rotary Club in Brazil," Ramos said. "My Rotary will expect me to do a presentation on America and what I learned, my experiences, and what is America all about."

He "totally" recommends that other young people come to Brazil. "They would have a great time in Brazil," he said. "They will love the country and the people."

He told the Antioch Rotary Club, "I'll miss you very much. Thanks for all the good times."

Jordan makes headlines at Kemper Lakes

Two local golf courses were in the news recently. First, Kemper Lakes hosted the Ameritech Senior Open, preceded by a celebrity Pro-Am featuring Michael Jordan.

Jordan played his usual round of golf—looking like a lock for the senior tour when he's old enough to qualify on some shots, and looking like he's playing with the wrong end of the club on others.

He finished with a respectable 77, but that's not the Jordan we all know and love. He's too inconsistent to be taken seriously on the golf course. But he was relaxed and having a good time in front of the mob-like galleries.

The senior event itself was somewhat anti-climactic after Jordan's appearance and press conference, in which he reiterated that he is essentially retired—he just hasn't made the formal announcement.

Jordan reiterated that he will not play for any coach but Phil Jackson (or Dean Smith, he joked), and since Jackson has retired from coaching, at least for next year, it seems obvious that he will never play for the Chicago Bulls again.

Jordan's main reason for not yet announcing his retirement, is to add his considerable clout to the NBA Players Association during the NBA lockout. Once that is settled, he'll announce his retirement officially, ending all speculation of his possible return.

The Merit Club also hosted a national golf tournament, with LPGA stars in town to compete in the Field's Classic.

Nancy Lopez, one of the most likable and outgoing personalities in the tour's history, was on hand and played in the two-day event. Annika Sorrenstam, one of the tour's up-and-coming young players, also competed and signed autographs.

The Grayslake Rams 15-16 year old team qualified for the Mickey Mantle State Tournament. The Rams play Thursday, July 23 at 11:30 a.m. at the Gurnee Legion Field against the winner of the Rockford/Beach Park game.

If Grayslake wins, the boys will play at 7:30 p.m. at Bowen Park in Waukegan. If they lose, they play at 5:30 p.m. at the same field.

The tournament goes through Saturday, July 25, and the winner of the tournament advances to regionals at Coldwater, Mich. the following week.

Two of the Grant Township Amateur Athletic Association (GTAAA) traveling teams qualified for state competition recently.

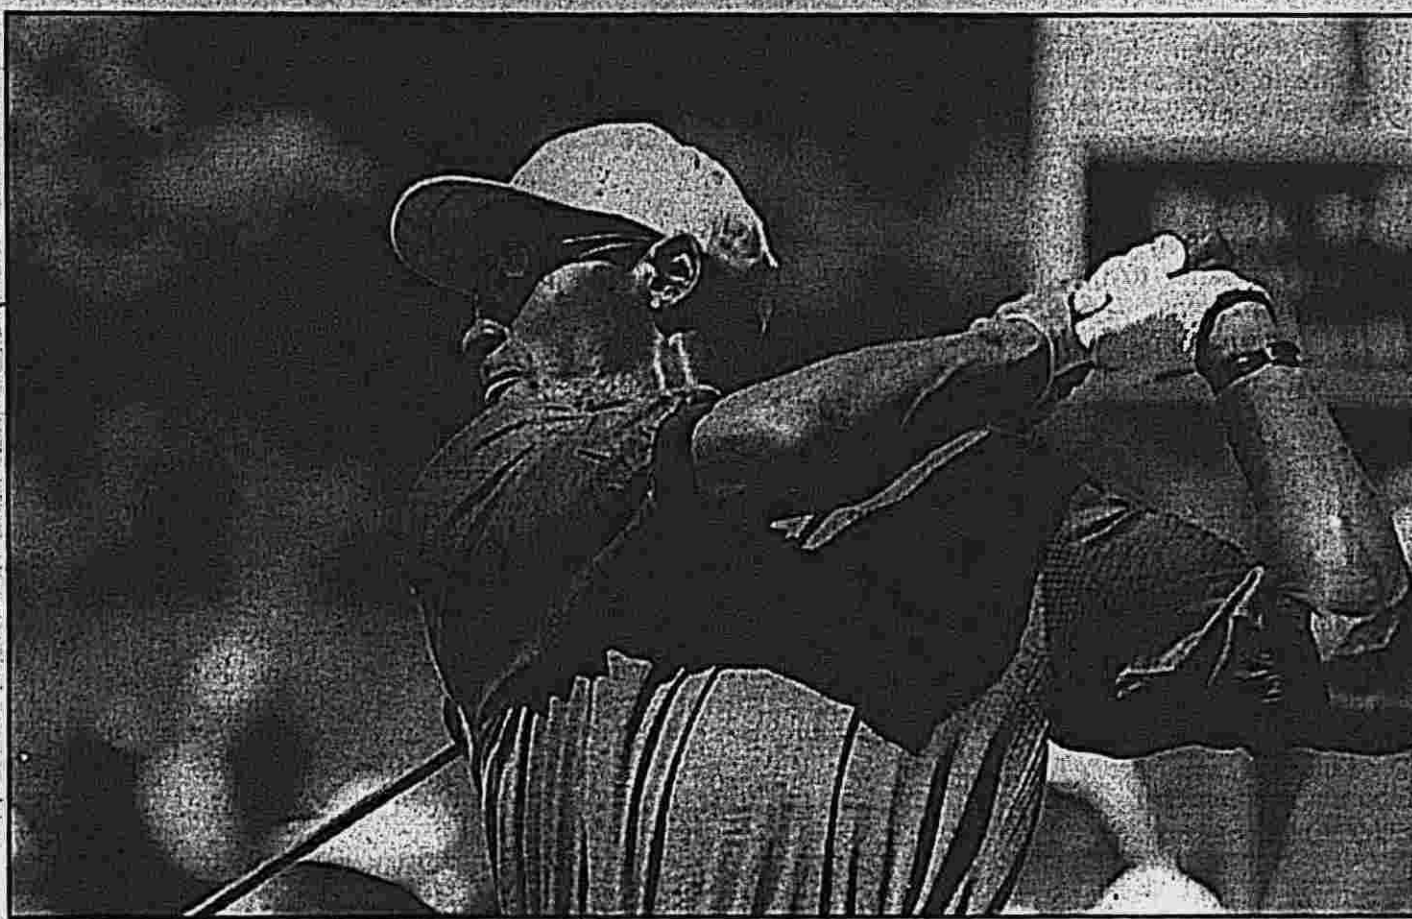

The GTAAA Pony team, coached by Larry Lutz, plays Palatine July 22 in Winthrop Harbor. The GTAAA Colt team, coached by Jim Lutz, play their first game Wednesday, July 22 in Waukegan.

Groth, Gurnee reach final four

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The note on the Gurnee scorebook said it all.

"Final Four" was written in the column of the eighth inning after Gurnee secured the spot with a dramatic comeback win over Vernon. The eighth inning was never needed this late Saturday afternoon.

Chris Groth had some problems at a place where he has called his baseball office for several years—shortstop.

Dismissing a three-error game, Groth was the hero as Gurnee American Legion Post 771 rallied for a 12-11 win over Vernon. The victory advances Gurnee Post 771 (13-13) to the legion district playoffs this weekend in Barrington.

"The adrenaline was flowing. I was not thinking about the past. What is past is past. I was looking for a fastball over the middle of the plate. It feels pretty good (to win). We knew we could do it," said Groth.

That is what Groth got in his seventh inning at-bat. His double scoring Tim Zorich and Nate Hadsell scored the winning run. Groth will play shortstop or third base next year for Illinois State University after an All-North Suburban Conference career at Antioch High.

Gurnee was trailing 11-8 entering the final frame thanks to Vernon's Pete second home run. Ogilvie had five RBIs on the game.

Brian Horner, who struggled as the Gurnee starting pitcher, doubled. Lance Johnson got his only hit of the day, an RBI single. He moved to second on a wild pitch before leadoff man Zorich walked.

Hadsell's bad-hop single closed the gap to 11-10 off reliever Drew Demarco.

"If there was a team which could come back, it is us. We have good enough pitching and we battled back," said Gurnee coach Rick Hill.

Lost in the 20-run game easily could be the on-mound effort of Mike Gildea. Except for Ogilvie's home run, Gildea had the visitors guessing. Gildea, a 1998 Warren High grad, will attend the College of Lake County this fall.

"He had them totally off stride. He was outstanding. He was used mostly in relief for us, but it was tough to find him innings," said Hill.

"Our offense is very good," said Gildea.

Gurnee led 5-0 early on. Gurnee batted through the order in the third inning. Horner, who was on base three times, had a two-run double.

Back-to-back doubles by Groth and Jake Hanson gave Gurnee a four-run lead, 7-3, after Vernon's offense started to get going off Horner.

Nine runs over two innings gave Vernon momentum. Ogilvie had three RBIs in the fifth inning where Vernon secured a 9-7 lead.

Vernon had defeated Gurnee in round one 9-8, and Gurnee needed three wins in 24 hours to advance.

A 10-4 Gurnee win over Lake Zurich got the team back on track. Karl Richter was credited with the win on the mound. Brett Hill was 3-4 and Groth 2-4.

"They did not want their season to be over. We wanted to be in control," said coach Hill.

Gurnee shutout Highwood 4-0 in the first game Saturday. Jon Savage fanned three and surrendered six hits.

"Jon did a nice job and moved the ball around," said Hill.

Sequoits reach quarterfinals

The towering homer may be something to see, but singles or doubles by the handful also may get the job done in baseball.

Antioch used the single and double offense while Wauconda relied on the homers of Kevin Shipbaugh. Antioch outlasted Wauconda 10-8 in a first-round playoff game.

"We dodged a machine gun. We're lucky to play Tuesday," said ACHS coach Paul Petty.

Ryan Clutts pitched six plus innings to get the win for Antioch.

"Give him credit. He had three pitches going for him well. I liked the way our hitters swung," said Wauconda coach Jim Van Fleet.

Ray George, the Antioch lead-off man, reached base four times on singles and scored three runs, including the game-winning RBI single.

Jason Schuler had a two-run double in the sixth the Sequoits would need to hold off the Bulldogs.

Home run watchers "oohed and aahed" at Shipbaugh's blasts, which brought home five RBIs. Scott Super singled twice and walked.

"He makes contact. He is a good leadoff hitter with power," said Van Fleet of Shipbaugh.

"It is the experience. We had 18 players who were committed to playing baseball and they played a lot. We are very excited about next spring. We have 13 seniors back and the five juniors are good as well," said Van Fleet.

Antioch survived, advancing to the regional quarterfinals at Stevenson.

Summer baseball squads turn it up for tournament

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The experimenting may come to a close for the summer as the intensity increases for next week's start of the high school summer league post-season tournament.

Who will step up and be the Libertyville or Warren—two teams which have had success in Illinois Baseball Coaches Association tournaments? Libertyville won the tournament last year. Warren was in the final four in 1996. Most area teams compete in the Stevenson regional.

Round Lake comes into the final week off a 4-2 win over Libertyville and an 8-7, eight-inning win over Stevenson. Evan Bull walked and scored, stole a base and scored on a hit by Albert Lozano.

Lozano is having a strong summer for the Panthers, according to Round Lake coach Howard Conkling.

"He is hitting .400, can catch, pitch and is playing short stop," said Conkling.

Doug Bundy, a senior, takes over the catching duties. Brian Calhoun notched the win on the mound as Round Lake improved to 6-6.

Warren Heir, who had three hits against Stevenson, shut down Libertyville hitters.

"Heir has been pitching well as we try and replace Joe Miller," said Conkling.

Round Lake has 34 players competing on two summer teams. The sophomores, coached by Bill Thomas, had their post-season tournament this week. Wins for the Round Lake varsity include McHenry and Prairie Ridge.

For Antioch, without the likes of graduated stars Chris Groth, Reggie Hughes and Karl Richter, opportunities exist for others to make their mark.

"It has been an interesting summer. We have 22 players and we divide them into two teams and they work out their time between football, baseball, and basketball," said coach Paul Petty.

Lakers capture national championship

The Lake County based Lakers Youth Basketball eighth grade basketball team won the North American Youth Basketball Association National eighth grade championship. The Lakers defeated the Lakota Blackhawks of suburban Cleveland, Ohio 41-37 in the championship game. It was the Lakers seventh national championship in the 30 year history of the program. In 1992, their last national title, they were led to the title by Waukegan's Dominique Jones and Highland Park's Seth Harris.

In the championship game, the Lakers never trailed and led by 13 at half. Laker guard Jake Molgaard hit two crucial three-pointers down the stretch and finished with nine points and six assists. Antioch's Justin Mehaffey played an excellent floor game with six assists and five steals. Center Tom Purcell grabbed eight rebounds and blocked four shots and forward Drew Jacobsen had seven rebounds, scored six points and blocked three shots in the championship win.

The Lakers were equally impressive on both the offensive and defensive ends of the court. They were dominant with their aggressive man-to-man defense. Guard Joe Mariani was the key player on defense. In each of the eight national tournament games, Mariani was assigned the opponents top scorer and held each opponent in check. Center Chris Zimmerman led the team in rebounds averaging seven per game. Zimmerman was high scorer in four of the games played. Forward Tony Moyano is the Lakers high scorer this season with over 700 points thus far. Moyano averaged 10 points at the National finals.

The Lakers defeated Dubuque, Iowa, 60-32 in the quarter final game as Zimmerman scored 20 points and forward Jermaine Clark had 11 rebounds and four blocked shots. Forward Pete Jacobsen grabbed eight rebounds, blocked two shots and scored 5 points in the victory. Center Joe Skora had 8 rebounds and two blocked shot in the win.

The Lakers close out their 1998 season at Mentor, Ohio a Cleveland suburb, at the North American National Basketball Classic. The team's current record is 64-19. The team is coached by Denny Porter and assistant coaches Robin Jacobsen and Dick Zwirgdsas.

The Lakers celebrated their 30th anniversary as the oldest traveling youth program in the state. The program has teams at both boys and girls sixth, seventh, and eighth grade levels along with a ninth and 10th grade high school boys team.

Antioch wins district title

Antioch youth baseball captured its first ever 9 to 10 year old Little League Baseball Illinois District 16 title, with a 26-16 win over Palatine. In a double elimination tournament, held in Mundelein—Antioch lost its first game, then went on to win its next five games beating Palatine twice in finals.

Antioch had great contributions from all 12 players, scoring 70 runs, and getting great pitching when it counted most.

This is a group of All-stars that have been together for two years doing very well last year also.

Antioch will go to Cary for a weekend tournament July 25 to 26, then will continue on to the Sectional State Tournament in Norridge, starting Aug. 1 versus District 13.

Exterminating the Millennium Bug takes a global effort

When we awake every morning, we naturally expect the power will be on, the faucets will work and the telephone will function. We rarely give a second thought about whether the stoplight at the intersection will be operating or if we can access our checking account.

And we certainly don't consider the possibility of all those systems going out, citywide, statewide or nationwide, all at the same time. Yet, when the clock strikes midnight on Jan. 1, 2000 ushering in the next millennium, the world may find itself in a twilight zone episode in which the year 2000, or Y2K, computer bug wreaks havoc with all modern amenities from our phone service to our microwave ovens.

FROM THE CAPITAL

Congressman Philip Crane (R-Dist. 8)

The Y2K problem stems from the inability of computers, which only store a two-digit number for the year, to process dates beyond Dec. 31, 1999. Unless rectified, modern civilization, dependent on technology, may come to a screeching halt as confused computers, unable to distinguish the year 2000 from the year 1900, start generating erroneous data or stop running altogether. Credit cards, ATM machines, hospital equipment, air traffic, security systems, water, power, telephone and postal service could all be affected by the year 2000 bug.

But don't panic yet. Fixing the year 2000 problem is a straightforward albeit time-consuming matter of replacing the more than 15 billion computer chips world wide. To date, the House of Representatives has held 29 congressional hearings to examine how best to manage our resources and fix the most essential systems to minimize year 2000-related disruptions. With the widespread reliance on computer systems by federal, state and local governments, it is essential that congress continues to take an aggressive role in the conversion process. Taxpayers should feel comfortable that when they wake up on New Year's Day everything will be running as usual. While progress has been made in addressing our readiness, serious vulnerabilities remain. In May, the President's office of management and budget issued a report stating only nine out of 24 Federal agencies were making adequate progress.

Since most computers of the world are interconnected, every country, every business, and every individual has a responsibility and role to play in mitigating the Y2K impact. As a private citizen, there are steps you can take to prepare for potential millennium complications, including contacting your bank or financial institution and asking if they are Y2K compliant. Also, make copies or request copies of important medical and financial records, receipts and documents, including credit reports.

The year 2000 problem is real, but the risks can be mitigated and disruptions minimized with proper attention and management. As Congress continues to take an aggressive role in solving this national problem, I am confident that if everyone works together, we can ensure a Happy New Millennium. The clock is ticking.

Moose award scholarships

Women of the Moose Antioch Chapter 735 awarded scholarships to Jennifer Gussarson and Julia Koval, both graduates of Antioch Community High School.

Each year, scholarships are awarded to two students pursuing careers in medicine.

Gussarson was recipient of the Health Scholarship Award. She will undertake pre-medical studies in college this fall. Gussarson represented the Youth Drug Awareness Program in Decatur last fall.

Koval will attend University of Illinois at the Chicago campus in the fall. She ranked 8 in her graduating class with a 5.47 grade point average.

The awards were presented by Mary Bush, Senior Regent.

AARP officers elected

Officers for the 1998-1999 year have been elected by the Antioch Chapter 387 of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Elected President is Sharon Nowak.

Delores Ramsdell was elected vice-president. Janice Hunt will serve as secretary and Lois McDonna as treasurer.

Coverlet commemorates history of Lake County Fair

The Lake County Fair coverlet was commissioned by The Lake County Fair Association and created by "We Love Country." It is 100 percent cotton, two and a half layers, jacquard woven in the USA preshrunk, colorfast and machine-washable. It is handsome and practical, measuring approximately 48 by 68 inches, and fringed on all four sides. The design captures the history and spirit of the past 70 years of the Lake County Fair with the depiction of farming, family and fun.

It is the perfect gift for family members and friends both near and far, it will become an instant keepsake.

This unique, custom woven coverlet is available in Cranberry Red with natural as a second color.

The price is only $45 but the perceived value is much higher. Coverlets can be picked up at the Fair office.

Lake County Fair celebrates

For many Lake County residents and visitors their first trip to Grayslake may be to visit the Lake County Fair. The Fair moved to its current location in 1956. Today it occupies 92 acres and hosts more than 200,000 visitors a year.

"Mr. Swan, the old man, being now about 62 years of age, did plowing in good style, much to the delight of the committee." So reads the report of the Committee on Farms of the Lake County Agricultural Society in 1860. Hurlburt Swan won first prize at a time when individual farms were entered into competition against others in Lake County.

An entry in the "miscellaneous" category in 1959 earned the comment "Elconah Tingley entered a lot of home made cigars, made from tobacco of his own growing. They took very fair but we must confess to having smoked better ones, in our day."

Still in its infancy, the ancestor of the Lake County Fair got off to a dubious beginning, going through name changes and popping up in all corners of the county.

The first halting steps were taken when the Waukegan Horticultural Society first became the Lake County Horticultural Society in 1851 and soon changed its name to the Lake County Agricultural Society "to encourage better farming and live stock raising by holding annual exhibitions of all sorts of farm produce." Other offerings, such as dairy products, home made items, and poultry and livestock were added along with the farm competition.

The first fair was held in what is now downtown Waukegan in 1852, but when farmers to the west complained it was moved to Libertyville. For several years the location alternated as the east and west squabbled over turf. The western section, growing in population, finally became the site of a permanent fair-ground, complete with a race track, at the County Farm complex in Libertyville.

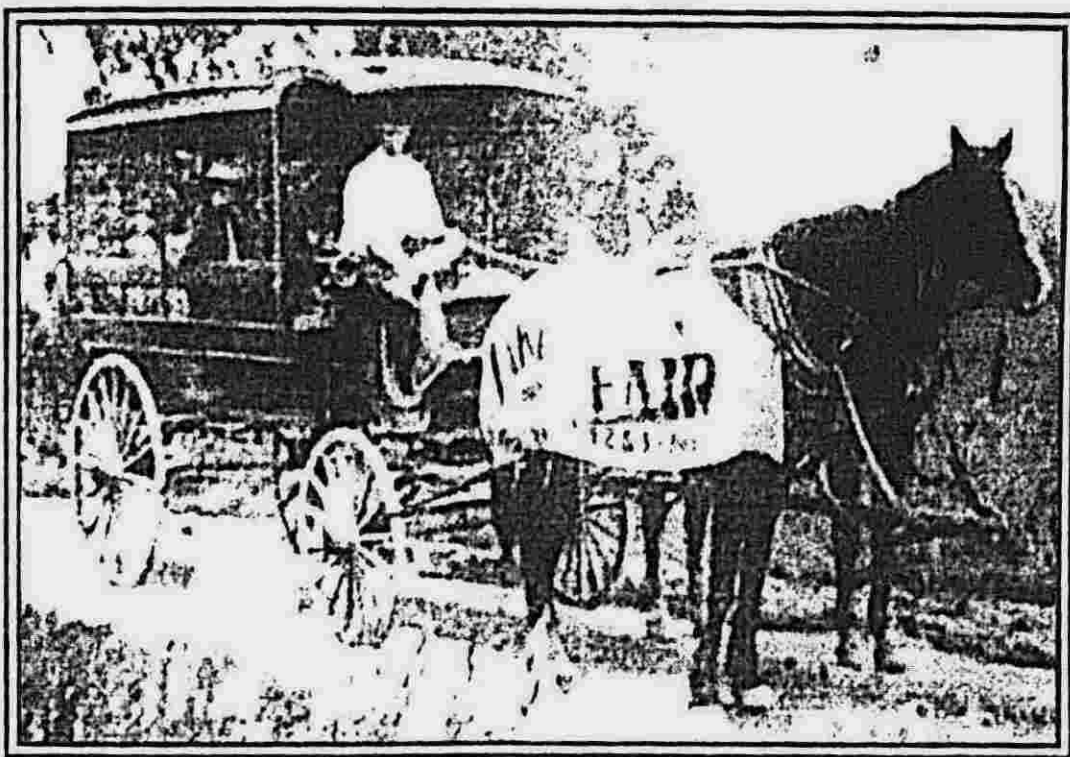

Profits during those early years were dismal: $3 in 1858, $6 in 1859, and $8 in 1860.

The fair grew from an agricultural exhibition to include entertainment with horse racing, shows and a carnival midway. Special features such as hot air balloon rides drew large crowds.

The tradition continued on and off and finally landed up north. The Antioch County Fair was an annual event from 1928 to 1941, undergoing a name change to the Lake County Fair in 1940. The fair was discontinued during World War II and didn't get going again until 1948 back in Libertyville for a couple of years, moving to Wauconda in 1950 and finally to

70 years of fun

Horses in 1915 carried advertisements to Lake County Fair

Grayslake in 1956.

Events for July 28, 1956, included judging of cattle and sheep, a 4-H horse show and organ music. The queen was crowned at 8 p.m.

The original 60-acre site has grown to include 92 acres and 19 buildings.

The fair now brings in about 200,000 visitors. Any profits are held for the improvement of the grounds. Four of the buildings are heated and can be used year-round for special interest shows.

His fair memories include a night years ago when the lights went out. At that time the fairgrounds were not surrounded by development as they are now.

Talent on tap at Lake County Fair

If you're not scared of the spotlight and feel perfectly at home on center stage, then the Lake County Fair has a place for you with its annual talent contest. From baton twirling, comedy, singing, dancing and variety entertainment, the contest is an opportunity for anyone in the county.

This is the 13th year for the still growing contest.

Preliminary judging for all talent entrants is July 25 for the Junior Division (ages 14 years and under), and Senior Division (ages 15 to 21 years old) and Adult (22 years and older) Divisions. Performances for the top ten finalists will be on the Mainstage July 31, Aug. 1, 2.

Junior and Senior Division winners will then represent Lake County in the state competition held in Springfield in January of 1996. That will not be the end of the road for Senior contestants.

Entrants will be judged on the four criteria—ability, stage presentation, costume/appearance and audience appeal. Contestants must reside in Lake County, Illinois. Only prior winners of the contest are excluded until they move into a higher age bracket.

Ten to 12 finalists will be chosen in each division. These finalists will perform in final competition on the Main Stage. Junior and Senior Division winners will represent Lake County in the State competition in Springfield in January.

For more information call contest director John Lynn, 566-6594.

Royalty to be crowned at Lake County Fair

Young ladies from across Lake County will compete for the chance to earn the pageant queen titles at the Lake County Fair.

The county fair will hold two pageants one for the Miss Lake County Fair Queen and one for the Little Miss Lake County Fair Queen.

"The Lake County Fair Committee has changed their scoring procedures to coincide with those at the State Level," said Pageant Director John Lynn.

Miss Lake County will be crowned on Tuesday, July 28, Junior Miss Lake County will be crowned on Wednesday, July 29 and the new Little Miss Lake County will be crowned on Thursday, July 30 all taking place on the Mainstage.

In order to participate in the competition all the young ladies will must reside in Lake County and have won a village crown.

For those young ladies who live in villages and towns who do not sponsor a queen pageant, a pageant-at-large was organized to allow them to participate in the queen contest.

Illinois County Fair Queen

to visit Lake County

Natalie Jeckel, Miss Illinois County Fair, will be the special guest at the Lake County Fair Queen Pageant on July 28. She will speak at the Pageant and help with the coronation of the 1998 Lake County Fair Queen starting at 7:30 p.m. on the main stage at the fairgrounds in Grayslake.

Natalie is a 21 year old from Lincoln, and is a senior at Millikin University, majoring in English with a minor in dance. After graduation, she wants to write and publish children's books. In fact, during her junior college studies at Lincoln College where she was co-valedictorian, Jeckel produced a children's magazine that included interviews with community leaders and celebrities.

Jeckel's fair pageant ambitions began in 1992 when she followed another Miss Logan County Fair around the state. Jeckel said she was in awe when her sister, Laurie, won the Logan County contest and went on to the first runner-up in the Miss Illinois County Fair Pageant.

Young sister, Natalie, took her own shot at the crown in January of this year and bested a field of 70 County Fair Queens competing in four categories; Interview, Beauty of Face and Physical Condition, Stage Presence and Speech and Communication skills. She has since addressed the General Assembly, numerous civic and school groups and will be the official hostess of both the Illinois State Fair and the DuQuoin State Fair.

She is only the third state Queen to visit the Lake County Fair since 1980.

Country's top cyclists debut at motorcross

Ready for some adrenaline-pumping excitement.

Back by popular demand and now in its 13th year, the stadium motorcross will open the 76th annual Lake County Fair July 29 and July 30.

Dubbed the "fastest two and four wheel action in the Midwest," the motorcross will treat fair-goers to three hours of intense motorcycling on both days beginning at 7 p.m.

"The wide-open, intense, high-flying, handle-bar to handle-bar action draws them in. People like that stuff," boasted promoter

Bill Sparks of Mendota-based Up Front Promotions.

More than 100 of the top riders in the Midwest will compete in six divisions for cash, awards and the title "Champion of the Lake County Fair."

The Lake County Fair attracts the country's top riders because of its compact, ultra fast and challenging track. It is the only (county) fair in Illinois to do a stadium motorcross successfully year after year.

There is no admission fee to view the performances.

Get a BIG BANG from the demolition derby

It's smash 'em and bang 'em up time again at the Lake County Fair.

This year fair goers can witness the non-stop action in four different demolition derbies including the first ever pick up truck demolition derby.

Pick up truck demolition is first out of the gate, Tuesday, July 28 at 7 p.m.

Witness the non-stop metal curdling, car rearranging excitement of demolition derby action on July 29, July 30th and Aug. 2 again at 7 p.m. in the traditional demolition derby. There were more than 200 entrants who finished off their cars in style last year and expect even more to compete this summer.

This demo derby is among the most hard fought and competitive. With so much action, it's a shame to miss any of it.

The object is simple, try to keep your car running as long as you can while your smash other cars and take a beating yourself.

Each event will have qualifying heats and a final competition. Usually there are about eight heats with at least 20 cars in each heat on the afternoon competition.

All winners of each heat will receive an award and the grand prize winner will earn $300.

Part of the fun is watching how the cars are decorated. In past years, a competitor turned his vehicle into a dinosaur, others paint their cars up like ambulances and some put items on top such as stuffed animals and figures.

General admission to the fair is $5 per day. Children under 12 and adults (65 and older) are admitted for $3. There is no cost to view the demolition derbies.

Daredevils will master the curves of a track shaped in a figure 8. The race will show no-mercy—especially in the center of the figure 8 where competing cars will meet head-to-head.

"To enter the event the car must be a 4-cylinder with a 104 inch wheel base or less," said George Sims, of Auto Race Promotions, Inc. The company has ran the Lake County demolition derby for the past 20 years and is offering the mini-car event as well.

Drivers must be 16 years or older to compete. Drivers under 18 must have a parental consent form signed at Pit Gate.

The Mini-Car Figure 8 Demolition Derby will be held Wednesday, July 29 at 7 p.m. Car check-in begins at 2 p.m. Any running car can compete in the event. Entries are limited to the first 36 pre-entered cars.

The show will consist of heat races, trophy dashes, consolations and a feature. A guaranteed purse will be paid to drivers and trophies will be awarded.

Tractor pulls add nostalgia, high-powered action

Back in the days when the family farmer and his trusty tractor were the common silhouette dominating the scene in Lake County, the tractor pull in the town square was a form of entertainment for the locals, and an opportunity for both farmer and tractor to prove their prowess.

Lake County farmers who have survived suburban sprawl will once again be able to re-live the age-old, rural sport of tractor pulling at the 70th Lake County Fair.

Fair-goers looking for a bit of nostalgia or moms and dads hoping to show their children a bit of Lake County history can watch the Antique Tractor Pull July 31 at 7 p.m. Immediately following the antique tractor pull event, the Super Stock 4 wheel drive trucks and 10,000 pound smoker tractors take to the track.

Spectators looking for a little more excitement, more power, and more special effects should plan for the two-wheel drive and four-wheel drive truck pulls Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. Also included this year will be 12,000 pound super stock farm tractors and modified hot rod tractors.

Diesel engines, black smoke and sparks will add to the entertainment with these mean machines.

On Aug. 2 at 1 p.m., even more powerful engines, more smoke and more noise will be exhibited as the tractor versus truck challenge tears up the track along with 6,000 pound smoker tractors, modified 4 x 4 trucks and 9,500 pound tractors join the heat.

The antique tractor pull is just as entertaining as the sanctioned pulls. The tractors will pull just as much weight, but it won't be as quick as the hot rods, and there will be less special effects.

Nevertheless, the tractor pulls—whether antique or four-wheel drive monsters—are entertaining for the whole family.

Fill the freezer while raising funds for education

Attention bidders! The sound of the auctioneer's gavel is almost here.

Fair goers can fill their freezer while helping a youngster pay for college by bidding on live animals during the Livestock Auction which features animals from both 4-H members and non-members or open class.

This year the Livestock Auction will be held Saturday Aug. 1 at 2 p.m. in the Show Barn.

Auctioneer Gordon Stade is once again donating his services to the livestock auction. 4-H'ers always auction their livestock first, starting with the goats, then the sheep, steers and swine or "barrows" as they're known.

Each year more than 200 animals are auctioned during the sale. Most 4-Hers use the proceeds for higher education.

The following businesses supported the 4-H program through purchases at the Lake County Fair in 1997.

Buyers of goats: 4-H Grand Champion—Centrisys Corp.; 4-H Reserve Champion—Kirschoffer Truck

Service

Buyers of sheep: 4-H Grand Champion—Tempel Farms; 4-H Reserve Champion—Temple Farms; Open Grand Champion—Bobby's Golf Center; Open Reserve Champion—Landscape Concepts, Inc.,

Buyers of Beef Cattle: 4-H Grand Champion and Open Reserve Grand Champion—Tempel Farms; Open Grand Champion—Campanella & Sons; Open Reserve Champion—Landscape Concepts, Inc.

Buyers of Swine: 4-H Grand Champion—Provident Mortgage; 4-H Reserve Grand Champion—Landscape Concepts; Open Grand Championships—Northern Illinois Mach; Open Reserve Champion—Thelen Sand and Gravel.

Those interested in bidding during the auction can register beginning at 1 p.m., Aug. 1.

For more information, call the Lake County Fair Office at (708) 223-2204, or the 4-H Office at (708) 223-8629.

Ag-Expo can't be missed

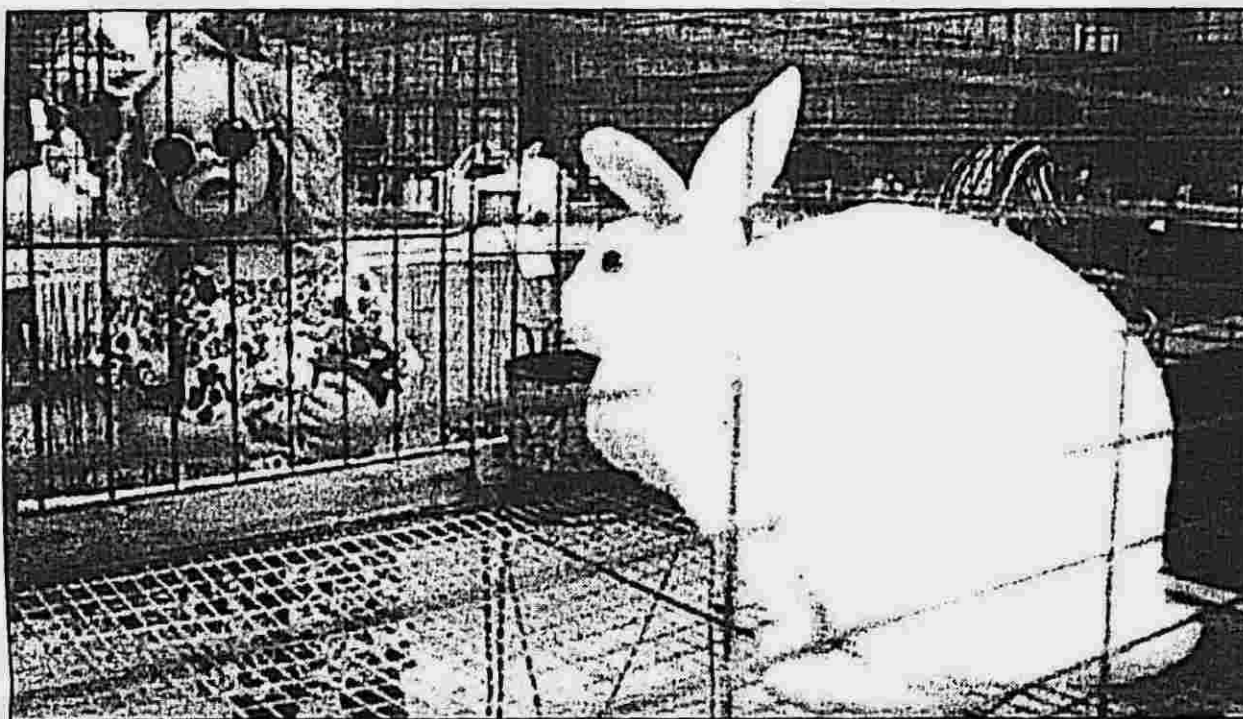

The annual Ag-Expo exhibit offers Lake County Fair visitors an educational look at the world of agriculture. Taking place in the Ag Education Center Building, located at the south end of the fairgrounds by the livestock buildings, this year's Ag-Expo will provide Fair visitors with the opportunity to develop a better understanding of agriculture. This year the Fair is running for an extra day, beginning July 28 to Aug. 2. The Fair is located in Grayslake, at Routes 45 and 120.

Displays showcasing American agriculture, including horticulture exhibits, livestock judging demonstrations and hands-on activities for families like butter churning and rope making will entertain and educate fairgoers of all ages. Visitors can compare the farms of yesterday and today and learn about the future of agriculture.

General admission to the fair is $5 per day, per person. Children age 12 and under free, and citizens (65 years and older) are admitted for $3. A season pass can be purchased for $15.

For more information about the Lake County Fair, call the Fair Office at (847) 223-2204 or the Lake County, Illinois Convention and Visitor's Bureau at 1 (800) 525-3669.

Variety artist Charles Stron thrills and entertains

He will be at the Fair daily to amaze and entertain children as well as adults. He will appear four times daily in different costumes. Be sure to keep your head up. Not only does he stiltwalk, he also juggles, does various comedy routines, and makes balloon animals for the kids. You definitely won't be able to miss him if he happens to walk your way.

Rodeo

one of fair's most popular attractions

The biggest thrills and coolest chills at the Lake County Fair can be found at the rodeo. Known for many years as the most well-known events at the fair, this year will be no exception.

"It is popular," said Mary Gunia of the Lake County Fair Association, "and it is something that goes back for years and years."

That popularity has made the rodeo one of the hottest attractions at the fair, Gunia said. "The grandstands hold approximately 5,000, and not one performance out of three was not a sell-out (in 1994)," she said. The stands are usually filled 60 to 90 minutes before each show, making it a wise decision to arrive early, Gunia said.

The International Professional Rodeo Association, which sanctions professional rodeos in the United States, has called the Professional Contest Rodeo held at the Lake County Fair one of the "oldest and most prestigious rodeos in the IPRA."

Many of the top cowboys and cowgirls in the International Professional Rodeo Association will compete against some of the toughest livestock this country can produce in three performances on July 31 at 8 p.m. and Aug. 1 at 2 and 8 p.m.

The rodeo has been a long time favorite of cowboys and cowgirls who seek large prize money and great conditions, said Lenora Calzavara Nolan, promotions director for Big Hat World Championship Rodeo Co., of Morengo.

The Calzavara family has produced the Lake County Fair Rodeo for 56 years, originally from their farm in Libertyville.

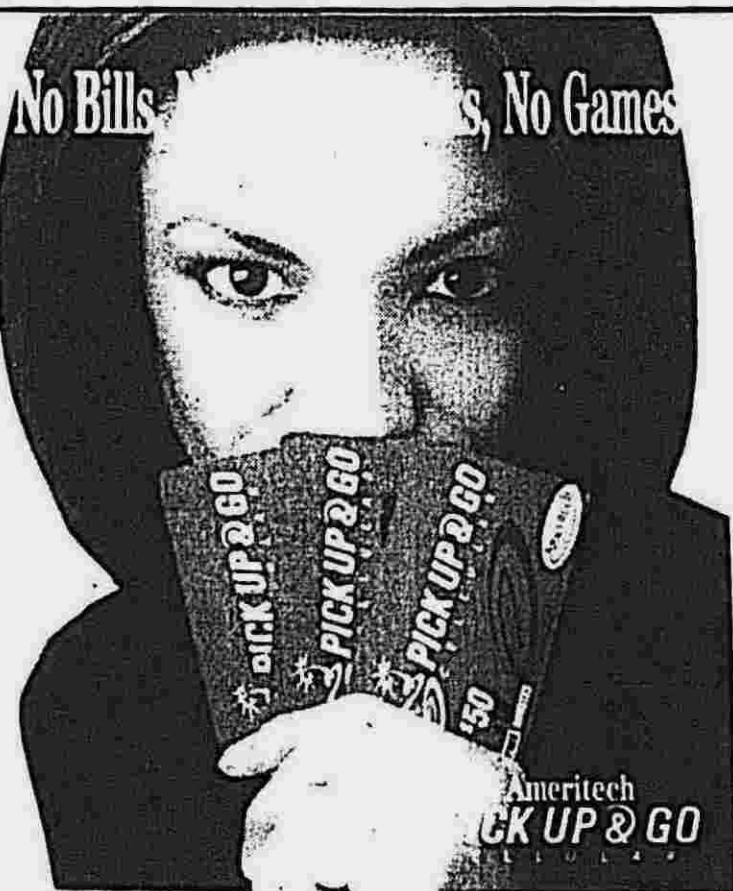

The rodeo goes back to the start of the fair 70 years ago, and has not lost any of its grandeur.

This year approximately 150 cowboys and cowgirls will compete for nearly $20,000 in prize money. "Because of the large winner's purse and the quality of the animals, this rodeo attracts top cowboys," Gunia said.

The best thing about the Lake County Fair Rodeo is the change between each performance.

Other rodeo activities include trick riders, a variety of specialty acts and the rodeo parade before each performance, this year featuring the Lake County Mounted Posse.

The shows take place in the rodeo arena at the northeast corner of the fairgrounds on Friday at 8 p.m., and Saturday at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. There is no extra charge for attending the rodeo beyond the general admission fee.—

Playing for the right reasons

Some sports are measured in smiles, hi-fives and hugs rather than goals, runs or baskets

By BRENDAN O'NEILL
Sports Editor

So often kids of all ages and ability levels are pushed into sports by their parents, or by youthful peer pressure. Many times children are taught to win at all costs; that finishing second means losing. Not enough is said about having fun, giving your best, good sportsmanship and performing up to your ability.

But there is a segment of the population that has realized the importance of having fun in sports—that understands that winning truly isn't everything. They are called challenged athletes, and they have the same competitive fire burning within them as any other athlete, but realize that sports is just a game—nothing more, nothing less.

Around Lake County, there are a number of organizations geared toward offering challenged people an outlet for their competitiveness—sports. The most notable of these is the Illinois Special Olympics, but many other smaller groups go seemingly unnoticed.

Two Lake County programs that have been growing in recent years, helping kids with disabilities play the sports they love. One is called Buddy Baseball, the other is the American Hearing Impaired Hockey Association, Inc. (AHIHA).

'Thank you for putting our team up a few hugs'

Buddy Baseball

Buddy Baseball is a program throughout Northern Illinois that pairs challenged athletes with able-bodied athletes on the same baseball diamond.

David Kuriniec, 12, of Buffalo Grove, said that the kids involved enjoy playing baseball, and are grateful for the chance to play.

"It's really fun. It's good to see these kids be able to play," said Kuriniec. "I'd like to thank Mike Katz (league director) for giving us a chance."

Kuriniec has cerebral palsy, and has been involved with the REASONS: AHIHA teaches sportsmanship in addition to hockey fundamentals

Buddy Baseball program since its inception. His mother, Lynn, played a major role in getting David involved.

Lynn's neighbor was interested in starting a challenged baseball league, and when that came to fruition, the Kuriniecs were the first in line. The first year, Buffalo Grove had just one team, now there are two teams of 22 players each. Lynn became a manager in the second year of the program's now six-year existence.

Each challenged player is paired with an able-bodied "buddy" and the buddy is there to assist the player and protect him/her from any errant hits. The players range from 5-16 years-old and the buddies range from 11-20 years-old.

"The kids are really great," said Lynn. "Without them (the buddies), we wouldn't be able to do it."

"They (the players) get comfortable with the people they've been with...sometimes change is hard," said Lynn. "They develop a familiarity, and we try to keep the kids together."

One key to the success of this program, and programs like it, is each player plays at a different skill level, and the score is not important.

"They do what they can within their ability level," said Lynn.

Kris Dzik, 12, of Deerfield, just completed his first year as a buddy, and will continue helping out in the future.

"I think it's great to see kids like Dave play out there," said Dzik.

Dzik noted that involvement in the Buddy Baseball program is a learning experience for him as well.

"I can help the kids learn how to field, and I learned about all kinds of different disabilities," said Dzik. "I was amazed at some of the kids with disabilities who throw really hard."

David and Dzik are friends on and off the field, and both know the importance of fun in sports.

"It's not about baseball skills, it's about having fun," said Dzik.

"Try your best, and if you don't get a on base, big deal," added David.

"It's fun to help people and see them get a smile, a high-five or a hug," said Dzik. "Sometimes we'll say 'thank you for putting our team up a few hugs.'"

Buddy Baseball is not the only up-and-coming sports program for challenged athletes in the area, and the American Hearing Impaired Hockey Association is experiencing some success of its own.

Jesse Davis, of Grayslake, was playing hockey with his friends, doing well in school and had all of the same ups and downs that any other kid in his class had. Or at least that's how it appeared.

Jesse struggled to do well in school, and always had to be in front of his teachers and coaches. He was bright and attentive, but as he grew older, it became obvious that something was not quite right.

When Davis was in fourth grade, he was playing with his hockey team when his mother, Nicola, noticed he was not responding to his coach's requests during play. With the help of another player's mother whose son was hearing impaired, Nicola had Jesse's hearing checked, and found that he was mild to moderately hearing impaired.

Jesse, now 14, had struggled to do well in school and sports because of his partial hearing loss.

"He had to read lips, and he'd come home exhausted," said Nicola. "He could compensate real well, so we didn't notice until he was older."

But once it was determined that Jesse needed assistance, things became better—on and off the ice.

"It has (benefited me)," said Jesse. "I just thought it'd be hard to get used to playing with deaf people."

Jesse adapted very well, and has been involved in the program for three years. But, as Jesse's mother will attest, the American Hearing Impaired Hockey Association (AHIHA) has meant more to Jesse than just your average hockey club.

"It's given him a sense of maturity! It's a more accepting environment," said Nicola. "It's amazing. The caliber of coaching—it's not the typical 'dad' coach...they're professionals."

The professional coaches have brought in special guests from the Chicago Wolves and Chicago Blackhawks, including Chris Chelios.

"They teach the kids to be open and accepting (of all levels of ability/disability). When they're younger, their feelings get hurt. We're not battling that anymore," added Nicola.

One of the most important things that is stressed at AHIHA is sportsmanship.

"Their whole philosophy is to be good to each other, be respectful and polite," said Nicola.

Jesse has higher goals for his future, on and off the ice.

"I want to play hockey. I want to play on the (World Winter Olympic Hockey Team)," said Jesse. "When I'm older I might want to coach."

With his involvement in the program and the considerable development he has made as a person and a player, Jesse would offer young hearing impaired hockey players some advice:

"I'd encourage kids of different (skill) levels to get involved with the program. Even if they're just starting out—they can learn to skate, move up (through the program) to the varsity and maybe make the Olympic team. You can come all the way up (through the system) and even teach at AHIHA when you're done playing," said Jesse.

The involvement in programs like AHIHA and Buddy Baseball is growing, with 140 kids already signed up to be buddies for next year's season. With this added growth comes an increased awareness that those around us may have some high hurdles to clear, and some may need our help.

But through all of the programs out there for challenged athletes, one idea seems to be central to all of them:

Be courteous, competitive and congenial—and most of all, have fun.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

When it comes to a business deal, you're in control, Aries. Don't settle for less than you want. If you stand your ground, you're sure to get more than what you ask for. A loved one has a minor accident late in the week and calls on you for help. Be there for him or her.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't say too much at an important meeting early in the week. Let others do the talking; you do the listening. You stand to gain the most this way. An acquaintance asks for your help with a personal problem. Before you say yes, think of how your actions could change the relationship. Are you really ready for this?

Gemini - May 22/June 21

With so many people asking you for help, Gemini, your head will be spinning by the middle of the week. Do what you can, but don't forget to take care of yourself. Spend some time alone to collect your thoughts and relax a little. It's the only way that you'll make it through the week.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Don't let business associates force you to do something that you really don't want to do. Hold firm to your beliefs, and stay true to yourself. Don't fall prey to peer pressure. A family gathering late in the week turns out to be more fun than you anticipated. Relax, and enjoy yourself. Leo plays a key role.

Leo - July 23/August 23

It will be smooth sailing for you this week. You get everything done at work, and you have a lot of free time in the evenings. Pamper yourself; you deserve it. A loved one wants to take you out late in the week. Say yes, because it's sure to be a good time. Capricorn is involved.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

A business situation turns chaotic early in the week and people look to you to restore order. Don't be nervous. You're more than capable of resolving this situation. That special someone has a surprise for you. Before you accept it, think about your true feelings.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let a minor disagreement get to you during the middle of the week, Libra. It's not worth getting upset over. By Friday, everyone involved will have forgotten about it. An acquaintance asks to borrow money. Don't do it, because there's something strange going on.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

A profitable financial opportunity arises this week. It has great potential, but before you make a big investment, look at all of the facts. Things aren't always as they appear to be. A close friend is in trouble and needs your help. Do what you can for him or her.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

You have a busy schedule this week, Sagittarius. Don't worry—you can get it all done and have some time for yourself if you just stay focused. Don't let an acquaintance's problem sidetrack you from the tasks at hand. A loved one gives you an important piece of advice. Listen to him or her.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Take an active part in an important family discussion early in the week. You have a point that others really need to hear. Don't let loved ones make a decision without you. The person whom you've been seeing wants to take a break. Even though you don't want to, it really is the best thing for your relationship.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Be observant at work this week, Aquarius. Something is going on, but the higher-ups aren't saying a word. A loved one asks for your help with a family friend. Do what you can, but don't bite off more than you can chew. Libra plays a key role late in the week.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

A close friend introduces you to a powerful business executive. Be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. He or she might even offer you an exciting opportunity. Pay attention to that special someone this week. He or she needs your help.

'Ask Cooking Light' tour coming to Jewel in Gurnee

Lake County residents are invited by "Cooking Light" magazine to enjoy sizzling summer cooking ideas, including fun grilling options to keep the heat out of the kitchen. For the sixth consecutive year, "Cooking Light" has taken to the road to spread its healthy living message in the annual "Ask Cooking Light" (ACL) tour. It will continue to travel for seven months, crossing the country and logging in over 20,000 miles.

ACL is designed to educate consumers nationwide on health, nutrition, and fitness. The customized 18-wheeler offers hundreds of recipe cards, coupons, and low-fat samples, as well as state-of-the-art kiosks and interactive displays. This year, there will also be cooking demonstrations using sponsor's products. Consumers can enjoy Near East couscous, Northland cranberry juice, and french baguettes dipped in Good Seasons dressing.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 consumers visit the exhibit daily, which is parked in major super-market lots in both suburban and urban areas. "Ask Cooking Light" is free and open to the public.

The Jewel supermarket chain will be the sponsors while the tour is in the Chicago area, and will be at the Jewel in Gurnee, 6509 W. Grand Ave., on Wednesday, Aug. 12 and Thursday, Aug. 13. Hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Launched in 1987, "Cooking Light" is the nation's largest food and fitness magazine, reaching 5.4 million consumers.

THEATRE

'Grease'

Coinciding with the 20th anniversary of the release of the popular movie starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John, PM&L Theatre will present the musical comedy "Grease," that is continuing for a four weekend run at 877 Main Street Theater, Antioch.

Rob Findlay of Trevor, Wis. is playing Danny Zuko and Jacklyn Bigalke of Ingleside is playing Sandy Dumbrowski. "Grease" is directed by Mickey Mandel of Antioch and Barbara Russell of Gurnee is the music director. Linda Hachmeister of Antioch is the choreographer.

Production days are July 24, 25, 31 and Aug. 1 at 8 p.m. There will be matinee productions on July 26 and Aug. 2 at 2:30 p.m.

PM&L Theatre musicals have typically sold out all seats for their runs, so those who wish to reserve tickets for "Grease" may call the theater at 395-3055 or stop by the box office, Monday through Thursday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. (also 90 minutes before curtain time on production dates).

'The Meeting'

Bowen Park Theatre Company will hold auditions for Jeff Stetson's play "The Meeting" on Dec. 5 and 6 from 1-4 p.m. at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Dr., just off N. Sheridan Rd., in Waukegan. Call backs are scheduled from Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. "The Meeting" will be directed by guest director Debrah Neal.

Needed are three black male actors to portray Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X, and Rashad, Malcolm X's bodyguard. Production dates are Feb. 5, 6, 12, 13 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 7 and 14 at 3 p.m. There is a possibility of an additional run out performance.

"The Meeting" is about a fictitious meeting between the two great civil rights activists, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Malcolm X. It is poignant, witty, sometimes humorous, and catches the spirits of these two historic figures. Because the length of the play is just over one hour, additional materials will be used by the actors before the actual play.

Auditions will be by appointment only and actors are asked to call 360-4741 to set a time for their individual audition. Bowen Park Theatre Company is a professional, non-union, non-equity company. There is pay.

'I Love You...'

It takes place anywhere and deals with issues anyone living on this planet has experienced. It's a musical about everyday life...it's "Seinfeld" set to music! Kary M. Walker, executive producer of the award-winning Marriott's Lincolnshire Theatre, presents the Midwest premiere of "I Love You, You're Perfect, Now Change." The show runs through July 26.

"I Love You" is a musical that celebrates our complicated world of dating, relationships, marriage, child rearing, and old age through a series of comedy sketches that will have you laughing hysterically at yourself...and everyone else.

For show times, ticket prices and reservations, call 634-0200. The Marriott Lincolnshire Theatre is located at 10

Marriott Drive, Lincolnshire.

'Cabaret'

Step back into 1930s Germany and experience Berlin's most decadent cabaret. It's thought-provoking, poignant and provocative. This American musical classic ensures an outstanding evening in adult theatre. The show runs through Aug. 30 at Pheasant Run Resort's Theatre, 4051 E. Main St., St. Charles.

For show times, ticket/dinner prices, or reservations, call (630) 584-MEGA.

The New England Fall Foliage Express

by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

It's time to talk about trains again. Not just any trains. It's those private trains that are bringing luxury back to rail travel, (but at a price within reach of the middle classes) that excite me.

The New England Fall Foliage Express is offering an eight day tour of the New England area during the height of the fall colors. Four days of sightseeing will be by deluxe motorcoach (that's travel agent talk for bus), but the other four days will be by private luxury train.

The best part of train travel is the scenery. Trains often pass through countryside unreachable by road. Crossing over a waterfall on a trestle bridge or entering a tunnel to pass through a mountain is an experience known only to train travelers. On the New England Fall Foliage Express you'll get the bonus of seeing the passing landscape afire with fall colors.

The tour begins where much of our country began, in the town of Boston. On the agenda is a visit to the famous "Old North Church" where Paul Revere did the "one if by land" thing, as well as a visit to the Boston Tea Party Ship.

Then it's on to Maine through the seaside communities of Kittery, York and Kennebunkport and an overnight stay in Portland, the boyhood home of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

From there it's on to the quaint community of North Conway via the little town of Gorham, the gateway to the White Mountain National Forest.

The rail journey continues along the 120 year old train route between Crawford Notch to Fabyan Station and includes some of the most spectacular scenery in the East featuring sheer bluffs, steep ravines, cascading brooks, streams and mountain vistas. Truly a major photo op.

Among the many stops are some of the famous estates of New England including Hammersmith Farm, the oceanside estate which was the summer "White House" of John F. Kennedy, and Vanderbilt's mansion, "The Breakers".

The tour includes travel through all six New England states. (That's Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. I had to look at a map).

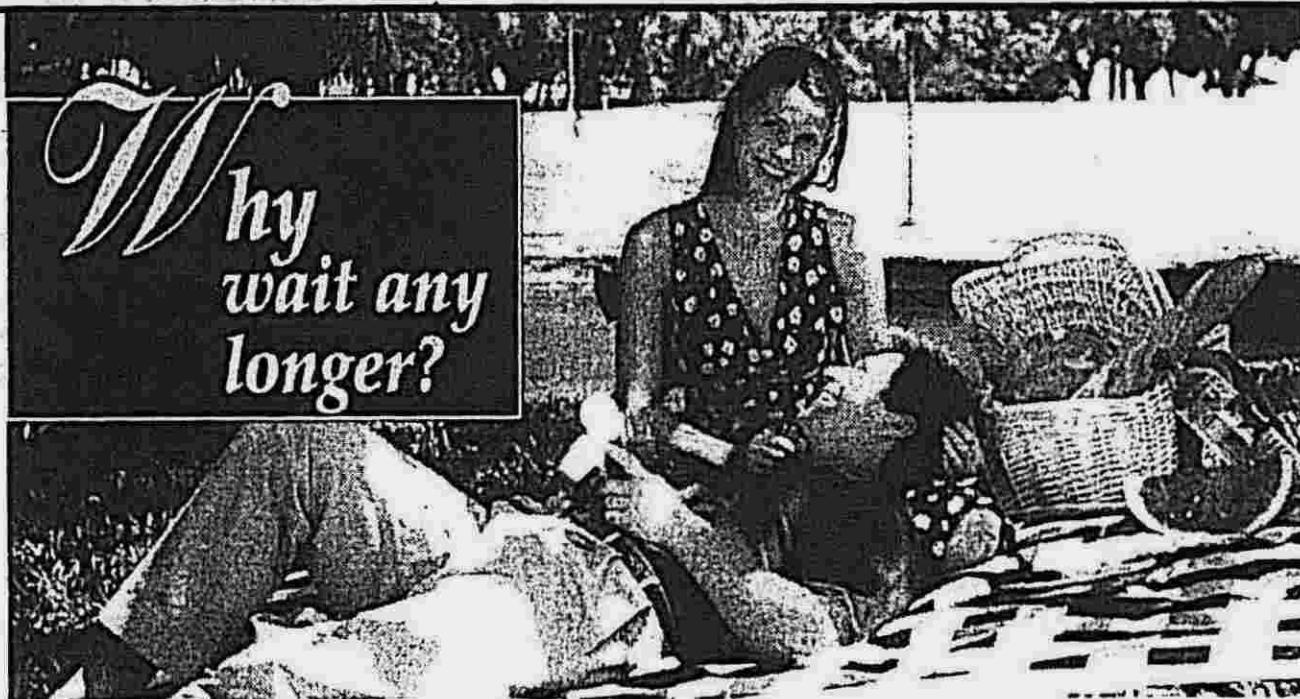

Meals, including local favorites like New England Lobster, are all part of the prices as are hotels, tour guides, guest lectures and even strolling musicians.

Since there are only six departure dates in the fall, these tours do sell out very quickly.

ADDITIONAL LABELING INFORMATION: The Summit Technology SY5 Apex laser is approved to perform photorefractive keratectomy (PRK) for the correction of mild to moderate myopia (1.5 to 7.0 diopters) in eyes with <1.5 diopters of astigmatism. Summit Technology's approval is based on clinical trials of more than 1,600 eyes together with safety information through 3 years of follow up. Alternatives to PRK are contact lenses, eyeglasses and radial keratotomy. Studies using a 6mm treatment zone in 341 eyes have found that at 6 months after treatment, uncorrected vision was 20/40 or better in 95% of eyes and 20/20 or better in 64% of eyes. In 7% of eyes, best corrected vision with eyeglasses declined more than one line with more than 20/40. Transient complications up to several weeks included pain (14-48 hours), corneal swelling, double vision, halos, shimmering in the eye, shadowing, light sensitivity, tearing, and pupil enlargement. The following adverse effects occurred in at least 1% of eyes within 6 months of treatment: night vision difficulty (11%), elevation of intraocular pressure (13%), heavy cornea affecting vision (13%), overcorrection or hyperopia (13%), undercorrection or still myopia (13%), mild haze (10%), and minor glare (10%). Long term risks of PRK beyond three years have not been studied. This laser is not indicated to correct high myopia (near-sightedness > -7.0 D), astigmatism, hyperopia, or procedures not described in the System User's Manual.

remaining concerts are: July 28, 7:30 p.m., at Lake County Building, and Aug. 4, 7:30 p.m., also at the Lake County Building.

Fans of the Municipal Band are encouraged to pack their own refreshments to enjoy, along with a lawn chair to sit comfortably during the performance. All Waukegan Municipal Band concerts are free. SPECIAL EVENTS

CLC presents international art

Twenty-two paintings by artists from France, England and the United States are featured in the College of Lake County's first international exhibit, open through Aug. 14 in the Community Gallery of Art.

The artists represented in the show studied under Patrick Betaudier, a master painter and professor at "The Atelier Neo Medici," a classical painting studio founded and directed by Betaudier. Most of the paintings in the show have been brought to the United States from "The Atelier," which is located in Monflanquin, a 13th century medieval town in southwest France.

Betaudier uses a rare painting method known as "technique mixte," which combines tempera emulsion and oil glazes to achieve an intricate level of detail and vivid color. The technique, which demands expert craftsmanship, has been the core of Betaudier's teaching for more than 20 years.

The exhibit includes four French, one English and eight American artists as well as painting by Betaudier. Among the American artists are Steve Jones, CLC's curator, and Nancy Whitmore Smith, a CLC graduate.

Betaudier will demonstrate the "technique mixte" in a workshop at CLC from July 30 through Aug. 7. A public reception honoring Betaudier will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on July 31.

The gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon. through Thur. and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Fri. through July 31, and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mon. through Fri. from Aug. 3 to 14. For information, call Steve Jones at 543-2240.

Open ballroom dancing continues

Richard Burnett will continue leading Open Dances at Gorton Community Center, 400 East Illinois Road, Lake Forest, one Friday night of each month. The next dance are set for Aug. 14, from 8 to 11:30 p.m. The cost is $10 per person, and a half-hour lesson will introduce the class.

The sessions are designed to accommodate not only couples, but the many singles in the area—of all ages. The music has been selected to please the most advanced dancers, and encourage beginners to improve their skills and take part in the fun of ballroom dancing. Dancers will enjoy the music of the world's most famous bands, including The London Pops Orchestra, Nat King Cole, and the Tropical Sounds Orchestra. All types of music and dances are featured: Quickstep, Fox Trot, Viennese Waltz, Rumba, Tango, Cha Cha, Samba, and Swing.

Richard Burnett is owner of Burnett's Ballroom and Performing Arts Center in Villa Park, and is opening a second location in Waukegan. He is an accomplished dancer who trained at the Fred Astaire Studio in the late 70s and 80s.

Interested participants should register and pay in advance. For more information, or to receive a program brochure, call or stop by the Gorton office at 234-6060 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., weekdays.

Holiday craft workshop set

Do you enjoy creating unique gifts and decorations while helping your community? The 7th Annual Festival of Trees Craft Workshops could be just what you are looking for. At the free workshops, supplies and instructions will be provided to create painted tee shirts, holiday wreaths, miniature trees, picture frame art, decorated baskets and pine cone art. Participants are asked to bring scissors, pencils, glue gun and a ruler.

Four free workshops have been scheduled. They will begin at 7:30 p.m. on July 30, Aug. 27, Sept. 24, and Oct. 22. To register or for class locations, call Connie Stine at 872-6767 or Jan Knobbe at 623-7278.

Crafts made during the workshops will be donated to the Festival of Trees Marketplace. The Marketplace houses the holiday craft fair portion of the annual Festival of Trees pre-holiday celebration. Proceeds from the sale of these craft items will assist in making a wide range of women's health services available at Victory's Surgical Centers in Lindenhurst and Waukegan.

Kids cheerleading camp set

The cheerleading club at the College of Lake County will conduct a cheerleading camp on Aug. 15 and 16 for children in grades K-5. Two sessions will be held each day from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the physical education center, building 7. Participants may attend one of the sessions.

Activities will include tumbling, cheers, jumps and dance routines. Participants also will receive camp souvenirs. Cost is $15 per child. To register, call Laurel Wels, at 543-2222.

Even travel can be an education

It's hard to believe, but this is my third week of "travel" writing and we're only on Day Two of our Pacific Northwest vacation. If this keeps up, it will take three more weeks to get through the rest of it...

HEY—where'd everybody go? I was just kidding folks—don't leave me! This is the last week. Honest!

So, here we are in Oregon with my dad and stepmom, as we spend a day of sightseeing along the wild, breathtakingly beautiful Oregon coast. The entire coast is practically one state park after another, mostly free to the public, and in one day, you can visit several of them. Let's begin with a park called...I forget...but it used to be owned by some rich guy...I think his name was Simpson, no relation to Bart. Made his money in the lumber and shipping trades in the early 1900s. Talk about some gorgeous waterfront property.

The mansion burned down years ago, but there is still a huge formal garden to walk through, with a maze of perfectly-manicured hedges and prize-winning rose gardens. Unfortunately, my stepmom is a gardening fanatic, and has a problem with seed kleptomania. As we walk through the garden, she is removing seed pods from various plants and sneaking them into her pocket. Don't worry, stepmom—I won't tell a soul.

Speaking of gardening, here's an interesting (?) fact for you readers to jot down in your travel notebooks. Due to the wet climate, the Pacific Northwest has slugs the size of a zucchini, only slimmer. I did learn a "slug tip" from the Pacific Northwest residents, which I am happy to pass on to you: If you have a problem with slugs destroying your garden, simply place a large dish of beer in the garden. The slugs will crawl in, drink themselves silly, and drown. (Note: Before any of you slug lovers start sending me hate mail, let me state that Pacific Northwest residents merely serve the beer—they have no control over how much these slugs drink.)

Well, folks, I could go on and on about the flora and fauna of Oregon, except I don't know what those words mean. So, let's move on to Washington, shall we? After all, the real purpose of this trip, besides mooching off—I mean, visiting relatives, is to see my oldest son graduate.

By the way, the last time I was in the Pacific Northwest, President Clinton and Vice President Gore happened to be visiting the area. Wouldn't you know it, but on this trip, the same thing happened—if I didn't know better, I'd think these two were following me.

Fortunately, we will manage to avoid them both completely. After all—this is a vacation. The last thing I want to do on vacation is to discuss sports with Vice President Gore, who thinks "Michael Jackson" plays for the Bulls. Nor do I want to spend time with the President, and find my picture plastered on the front of the National Enquirer with the caption, "Bill goes Whale Watching".

So, instead, let's go watch my eldest son graduate. Which, on reflection, is quite a sight in itself.

Let me explain, first of all, that my son attended a "very liberal" arts college in northern Washington, about two hours north of Seattle. I am not sure what the textbook description of a liberal arts college is, but from personal observation I would guess that it is a school unlikely to produce a graduate like, say, Dan Quayle. Although I suppose the record will show that Mr. Quayle did exhibit some individualistic tendencies when it came to the spelling of the word, "potato".

Potato spelling aside, individuality is prized above all at this school, as was evident by the cap and gownless attire at the very laid-back graduation ceremony. Some graduates were barefoot, some wore shorts, one girl wore what looked to be a hat made from her vegetable garden on her head. As I took pictures, I wasn't sure if I was photographing a graduation or a '60s love-in.

Actually, the emphasis on individuality was apparent even before the ceremony began, as I read the program which listed each graduate's name and their degree. For example, one graduate received a Bachelor of Arts in "Mysticism and Music: A Cross-Cultural Study and Practicum on the Use of Sound to Effect Consciousness". I assume that in order to get a degree like that, you have to spend a lot of time researching issues like "How long can you practice yoga while chanting 'I do believe in Mary Worth' and listening to heavy metal music with friends from other countries, before passing out?"

My son's degree is, luckily for my aging memory, a little shorter. Specifically, it is a Bachelor of Arts in "Sustainable Living through Art, Ecology and Communication". So what does that mean? I don't know—but the good news is that it does not say "Sustainable Living through Art, Ecology, Communication and mom and dad".

And here's the bad news—now that my son's "formal" education is complete, so is this three-week series of travel columns and, hence, your travel education. But cheer up—you may be able to use your newfound knowledge as credit towards the following degree:

A Bachelor of Arts in "Slugs and Beer: An Insectual Study and Practicum on the Use of Miller Lite to Affect Slug Consciousness".

No need to thank me now—call me if you find a job.

WALLEYE TOURNAMENTS ON THE CHAIN O'LAKES

Despite the Heat - 33 Teams Compete in CWS Tourney

Tournament #4 of the Chain Walleye Series was held on June 28, 1998. It was a scorcher, yet 33 teams of walleye anglers showed up to compete that day. John Lass, from Antioch and Gary Steinhof, from Carol Stream, ended up with four large walleye, between 14 and 18 inches, that totaled 5.80 pounds. Their great effort brought them a payout of $1,000 for first place.

John and Gary's first place finish also moved them to the top of the yearly standings. They are tied for first with Paul Lehecka and Aaron Warning, both with 565 points. Jim Lass and Mike Gofron were bumped from first place to third place, but are still only three points behind the leaders, with 562 points. It will be a close race for "Team of the Year," which pays $1,000, with three qualifying tournaments remaining.

Other top finishers included: 2nd: Paul Lehecka and Aaron Warning - $500; 3rd: John Roscop and Dan Machnik - $360; 4th: Joyce and Randy Mogtych (husband and wife team) - $260; 5th: Tony Klepacki and Joe Majewski - $210; 6th: Jamie Hawley and Rudy Riemer - $190; 7th: Ray Wirtz and Steve Balliu - $120; Ray and Steve also brought in the biggest walleye of the day, weighing 1.94 pounds, which brought them an additional $300.

The fifth qualifying event of the season will be held on Sunday, July 26th at Steitz's Resort. The tournament entry fee is $120 per team, plus a membership fee. Come compete with the fishermen or join us at the weigh-in, which will take place at 2:00 pm on Sunday. For more information, call Scott or Tammy at (815) 675-6447.

Only good fortunes at China Palace

The China Palace offers some of the best Oriental food in the northern suburbs. Maybe it's because of their six years of experience in the business or because of their great service and even greater food.

After entering the restaurant you are greeted by a friendly staff and seated quickly. The staff is very attentive, but not bothersome. Start off your meal with an appetizer of pot stickers and roast beef Chinese Sauté. The spring rolls are similar to an egg roll. All are very popular and very tasty.

For your main course, choose from the onion and ginger sautéed lobster or marinated plum shrimp with fruit in a bread nest. The fresh lobster, from the aquarium in the lobby, is prepared with a peanut oil and has a sweet-sour taste. The marinated plum shrimp, served with a fried potato string basket, was the biggest surprise. The shrimp is deep-fried and served hot in a fruity sauce with melon and cherries. It is very unique and a must when visiting the China Palace. Both entrees were beautifully presented with blooming water chestnuts and fresh sliced strawberries.

The lunch buffet is very popular at The China Palace. Everything is top quality including fresh seafood. The buffet features a different special everyday. Mussels are often featured. Regular buffet items include: Governor Zhou chicken, crabmeat Rangoon, egg rolls, beef in a delicious brown sauce, fresh fruit and two flavors of soft serve ice cream. The buffet is all-you-can-eat for $6.50.

On Sundays you can enjoy the brunch buffet. It is only $7.95 and it expands on the lunch buffet with more than 30 items including additional fresh seafood entrees.

The China Palace invites groups to hold their special occasions at the restaurant. Wedding parties, showers and groups of 10-100 are welcome. Special menus available if desired.

The China Palace is open seven days a week. Hours are Monday - Thursday, 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday,

'There's Something About Mary': extreme laughs

There are few movies that live up to the previews. For the most part, the best parts of a movie are included in the advertising trailers. But for "There's Something About Mary," this is not the case.

The creative team that brought us the outrageous comedies "Kingpin" and "Dumb and Dumber," the Farrelly brothers (Peter and Bobby), has out-done even those hilarious films. "There's Something About Mary" is a comedy with a fresh look movie review

at a somewhat standard plotline, with shocking, disturbing, and unbelievably funny exchanges at every turn.

The film opens with Ted Strohmann, played by Ben Stiller, lusting after Mary Jensen (Cameron Diaz) leading up to their high school prom in the early '80s.

Stiller's Ted is a nerd with bad hair and braces who is asked to the prom by Diaz's Mary—the most desirable girl Strohmann could ever imagine.

As Ted is picking up Mary for the prom, he gets into a hilarious scuffle with Mary's mentally challenged brother, Warren, who beats Ted senseless. While composing himself in the bathroom, Ted accidentally catches himself in his zipper—eliciting riotous laughter from the audience—and his prom night is ruined.

Ted never saw Mary again, and has had a crush for 13 years, until he hires a private investigator, Pat Healy (Matt Dillon), through mutual friend Dom (Chris Elliot).

Healy finds Mary in Florida, and begins to spy on her, getting details about her life and what she wants in a man so that he can scam his way into her life.

Ted finally realizes Healy is a scam artist, and goes to Florida to find Mary for himself. Ted and Dom plot to get Ted back with Mary. Elliot's Dom, though a minor character in the film, has many memorable moments, especially when he begins to break out into a stress-related rash.

The story gets more and more twisted as everyone Mary comes into contact with is plotting to get close to her, including a pizza delivery boy who poses as a respected architect.

The interaction between the luscious Mary, the accident-prone Ted and the sneaky-yet-bumbling Healy make for a number of wacky situations and extreme laughter.

Much of "There's Something

About Mary" contains the truly tasteless and shocking humor that was a staple of "Kingpin," but taken to a much more adult level.

This movie clearly earns its "R" rating, with some of the humor bordering on "offensive" for those not familiar with the Farrelly brothers' work. It is definitely not a children's movie, but the laughs are so big that the tastelessness turns into uncontrollable laughing so quickly that you don't have time to contemplate what you've just seen.

And for you football fanatics, waiting for the NFL to start its season, you can get your fix here with a bit cameo from Green Bay quarterback Brett Favre.

Knowing what type of humor I was going to see before I sat down to watch this film, having been a fan of both "Kingpin" and "Dumb and Dumber," and noting the raucous, packed house of the theater, I have

This is the first film ever to receive five popcorn boxes in my short career as a movie critic, but the extreme hilarity of this film earned every single box.

HOME & GARDEN

July 24, 1998

Lakeland Newspapers/ B9

Dog days of summer are here

Hot enough for you? With the mercury way over 90 degrees this past week, we certainly need to pay attention to how much water our garden needs. Although gardens and gardeners love sunshine—the heat can be intolerable—to both. Many flowers do not hold up well under this heat. Gardeners have to be wary when the humidity and temps are very high. Use common sense, limit gardening to early evening or very early morning hours. Do not stay out too long, 10 minutes of weeding a day, and you will be surprised what a big difference it will make.

Try to keep up your fertilizing schedule and water—water—water. The best method of watering your garden is the drip hose or just placing the hose in the garden to thoroughly soak the soil. Germs and viruses often strike plants through moisture on the foliage, so it's risky to use an overhead sprinkler to water the garden. Besides unnecessarily drenching leaves, the water emitted by overhead sprinklers takes a long time to reach and then soak into the soil where it is needed.

GARDEN JOURNAL

Lydia Huff

For future reference, annuals that thrive in hot weather include love-in-a-puff (Cardiospermum halicacabum), cup and saucer vine (Cobaea scandens) California poppy (Eschscholzia californica) globe amaranth (Gomphrena globosa) strawflower (Helichrysum bracteatum) moonflower, poppies, black-eyed susan (Rudbeckia hirta) verbena and vinca. Drought-tolerant perennials include yarrow (Achillea millefolium), butterfly weed (Asclepias tuberosa) blanket flower (Gaillardia aristata) and showy sedum (Sedum spectabile).

To enjoy your blooms for a longer period, bring them inside. Cut flowers in any container will brighten your mood. Remember to cut stems in the evening for optimum longevity or early in the morning. Cut stems at a 45 degree angle, and after you bring them in place them in a cool room to adjust. Some cut flowers notably poppies, tithonias, hollyhocks, hibiscus, dahlias, oleanders and snow-on-the-mountain-bleed sap when they're cut.

Before arranging them in a vase, seal the stems by quickly passing the cut ends over an open flame. Spiky flowers pair well with soft, feathery ones (such as Queen Annes lace, baby's breath, and dahlias) Pick contrasting colors or all of one group.

I put a little vinegar in the water to fend off bacteria, and make the blooms last longer, or you can use a commercial product made just for this purpose. You don't have to be a florist to arrange a beautiful bouquet.

Until next time, stay cool.

Kill weeds before they destroy your garden

Unightly weeds that invade a garden compete with plants for water and nutrition and can even stunt slow growers like onions and carrots.

In the war on weeds, timing can be critical. An early start on weed eradication means less effort later. If the weeds you're fighting are annuals, like ragweed, it's critical to eliminate the parent plants before they go to seed—and distribute the problem even more widely.

New nonsystemic weed killers (such as 2 HR Weed Eraser™) offer gardening enthusiasts both a less-toxic alternative and amazingly fast results. Just spritz the weed, and sit back. In about the time it takes to run to the mall or take in a leisurely dinner, that thriving green annoyance will be reduced to a crispy brown skeleton. Best of all, there's no lingering residue to contaminate your soil.

Caution: Lawn grooming can ruin your trees

There's nothing like the din of lawn mowers and the smell of fresh-cut grass to signal summer. For trees, though, lawn mowers can signal impending doom. When a lawn mower collides with the base of a tree, the resulting trunk wound can be hazardous to tree health—making the tree susceptible to what some tree-care experts call "lawn mower-itis."

"These trunk wounds can be quite serious, in some cases eventually killing a tree," says Larry Hall, senior vice president of Wheeling-based Hendricksen the Care of Trees. "Sometimes one or more branches begin to die shortly after the damage has occurred. Other times, years may pass before the tree shows any sign of trouble."

"We're seeing a growing number of incidents of law mower-itis as mowers become bigger and more powerful," says Hall. "Self-propelled mowers can be particularly destructive, since they can get away from you. And what might seem like a slight nudge can indeed injure a tree."

Hall points out that thin-barked trees, such as lindens, birches, maples and magnolias, are more vulnerable to trunk damage than those with more rugged bark, such as oaks, elms, and ashes. All young trees, regardless of species, are at risk.

Lawn mowers are not the only type of maintenance equipment that can damage tree trunks. Shovels, "weed-whackers," and out-of-control fertilizer spreaders can bump into trunks and/or cut nearby roots, which is also injurious to trees.

The best way to prevent lawn mower-itis is to spread a layer of mulch around the base of your tree. Mulch made of organic materials such as wood chips, ground corn cobs or composted leaves not only keeps lawn mowers and other maintenance equipment away from trees but enhances the growing environment as well. It conditions the soil around the trees, retains moisture and helps tree roots absorb water and nutrients.

Ideally, mulch should form a circle around the base of the tree that extends out as far as the branches do. But if you do not want to sacrifice that much grass, a tree-healthy compromise is to mulch from the base of the tree outward at least a few feet.

If a ring of mulch is not an option, be sure to use landscaping equipment around your trees with care.

With roots dating back to 1946, Hendricksen the Care of Trees provides complete tree care, including pruning, fertilizing and pest management, for residential, commercial and municipal properties. As well as maintaining trees and shrubs, Hendricksen's certified arborists work with developers to preserve trees at new developments. They also conduct tree appraisals for tax, insurance, and legal purposes. The company has eight Chicago-area offices and offers 24 hour emergency service.

Easy-to-Install Outdoor Lighting Shows Off Landscape at Night

Up until a few years ago, creating a beautifully illuminated nighttime garden or a brightly lit path to your front door required a large budget and the help of a professional electrician. Today, with Toro's Outdoor Lighting kits, spectacular lighting design projects now can be achieved by any homeowner.

Low-voltage outdoor lighting is relatively easy and inexpensive to install—complete kits start at just $30. The real fun, however, is deciding on an overall lighting effect and then getting the appropriate outdoor lighting products to match.

Study Nature First

To begin with, it's always a good idea to study natural light. Look at the area you wish to light both during the day and again in the moonlight. Decide which effects you prefer and plan to duplicate or enhance them. Also, study basic lighting techniques. Up-lighting, or shining a light upward from below, is good for accenting tall or hanging objects, casting shadows, or making a small area seem larger. Downlighting imitates the natural light of the sun or moon, and is preferred for creating moods or adding depth and dimension. Sidelighting is excellent for illuminating low shrubs, paths or walkways. Used for work or play, area lighting provides soft light over a wide space. You can experiment with each technique using a flashlight to determine which best suits your needs.

Choosing the right type of lights allows you to achieve the effects you desire. There is a wide range of styles available from Toro that can aim light in just about any direction or degree of intensity. For example, floodlights can cast a wide, bright beam to highlight points of interest. Tier lights project a soft, round beam downward over a wide area, useful for path or ground lighting. New Toro Solar Powered and Metal Outdoor lights also are available this year.

For homeowners wishing to customize their layout, Toro lights are available from open stock bins at many retailers—you can pick the fixtures, power pack and cable that suit your needs.

If you choose Toro Solar Lights, no wiring is needed, just a southern exposure so the solar panels receive full sun. Toro Metal lights are a good choice if you want to create a professional-looking nighttime environment for your home. They're available in black, antique green and white finishes. Toro offers a free booklet, "Bright Ideas" that illustrates these techniques.

Don't Let Allergies Keep You From Enjoying Your Garden

For many people, gardening season also is sneezing season. If allergy anxieties have kept you from bringing the beautiful bounty of your flower garden indoors, you may be relieved to learn that garden flowers rarely are the cause of allergies, says Sean McCarthy of Research Products Corp., the maker of Space-Gard® High Efficiency Air Cleaners.

According to research by the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology, plants with brightly colored, fragrant flowers are unlikely to cause allergies because they have large pollen grains with waxy, sticky coatings and are primarily carried by insects, not the wind.

However, be careful about adding weeds, grasses or blossoming tree branches to your floral arrangements, McCarthy says. Because they are much smaller, the pollen of weeds, grasses and trees is more likely to get into your eyes and nose where it can trigger allergies. So, if you love flowers but hate allergies, there are a number of things you can do to help keep your home pollen free.

- Stick to large bright flowers for your bouquets; avoid decorative touches like flowering branches, dried weeds and grasses.

- Keep your windows closed to keep pollen outside. Use an air conditioner to help you stay comfortable.

- Install a whole-house air cleaner to clean the air that circulates through your home's heating and cooling system. A media air cleaner removes up to 99 percent of pollen, and unlike electronic models, doesn't produce ozone, which can aggravate breathing problems.

- Never bring flowers with mold or fungus indoors.

- Leave your gardening shoes outside to keep grass and tree pollens out of indoor air.

For more information about how a high efficiency air cleaner can help you keep pollen and other irritants out of your indoor air, call the Consumer Information Department of Research Products Corp. at 1-800-545-2219. Ask for the free booklet, "Air Cleaners for Allergy Relief."

Plant care provides benefits in the later years

A new study says that the lives of older people are enriched by the University of Illinois researchers.

Working with plants provides physical health, a sense of well-being and an increased capacity to pay attention," said William Sullivan, assistant research professor in the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Sciences.

House plants and gardens allow elderly people to exercise arthritic fingers and joints as well as provide opportunities to be creative and useful. Evidence supports studies indicating reduced blood pressure, less stress and lower instances of depression in older people as a result of cultivating plants.

Plants offer social benefits as well. Older people often grow plants together in their communities which provides a setting for social interaction and companionship.

"Research shows that social ties are established with neighbors through gardens, trees and lawns and those social relationships grow through taking pride in maintaining plants," said Byoung-Suk Kweon, graduate student. "In this way, elderly people feel useful and helpful. They interact with each other and make new friends."

Kweon said creativity and manual performance increase as a result of working with plants.

"It is not the type of plant being cultivated that really matters," she said, "but the physical act of caring for and nurturing the plant that helps the elderly."

Horticultural therapy researchers say people who care for and tend to the needs of plants rediscover a sprig of usefulness and vitality in their own lives. Horticulture therapy has been used in nursing homes, hospitals, jails and other institutions.

Researchers also feel older individuals find a sense of pride in their communities by sharing in gardening and plant maintenance.

Physical disabilities, such as arthritis and fatigue, often ease with the sense of pride and comfort they felt in raising children, and that eases feelings of usefulness and weariness, said Kweon.

Most importantly, working with plants passes the time with friends and eases the feelings of loneliness.

Striving & surviving cancer support group

The Lake County YWCA has announced the formation of the Striving & Surviving Breast Cancer Support Group, which cares for the needs of young women diagnosed with breast cancer. The group is facilitated by Tanya Johnson and Beverly McCray and is sponsored by the Midwestern Regional Medical Center and Cancer Treatment Centers of America in Zion.

There are hundreds of young women diagnosed with breast cancer every year. These breast cancer patients have unique needs, for example, who will care for their young children while they recover? The goal of the group is to provide support to the young breast cancer victim (diagnosed before age 45) that will include peer support, child care resources, and educational services.

Cancer does not have to be a death sentence. "There is life after chemotherapy and radiation."

For more information on meeting times and dates, call 662-4247.

Keeping Well Club helps prevent cancer

Keeping well and living long are among the greatest pleasures in life. Helping you keep well is what the Keeping Well Club is all about. It's a membership program for people who are concerned about cancer. It costs nothing to join, but the benefits are tremendous:

- Annual low cost mammogram
- Annual prostate cancer screening (PSA blood test and digital exam)
- Annual low-cost cancer screening physical
- Classes and workshops on nutrition, mind-body medicine, and many other subjects
- Quarterly newsletter on cancer prevention, detection and treatment
- Computerized personal history and lifestyle questionnaire which determines your cancer risk and what you can do to lower it

The Keeping Well Club is a free service of Cancer Treatment Centers of America. More than 500 men and women from northeastern Illinois and southeastern Wisconsin are currently members.

To learn more about the program and to receive a membership application, call the Cancer Resource Center at 1-800-940-2822.

Mammograms offered for $49

For just $49, women can have mammograms performed—including reading and interpretation by a Board-certified radiologist—at Midwestern Regional Medical Center, 2520 Elisha Ave., Zion.

A mammogram can help detect cancer before you can see or feel anything. Our caring and conscientious imaging specialist will fully explain the procedure, answer questions, and complete the mammogram, usually in less than 30 minutes. Results from your mammogram will be sent to your personal physician.

For more information, or for an appointment call Midwestern at 731-4100. Medicare, commercial insurance, credit cards and personal checks are welcome.

HEALTHWATCH

It's as easy as putting one foot in front of the other. In fact, it is just putting one foot in front of the other. Walking is one of the most popular forms of exercise in America.

The reasons are obvious—walking doesn't cost any money, and it can be done by almost anyone, almost anywhere, at just about any time. But is something as simple as walking really beneficial to our health? Absolutely, say health experts.

Walking helps burn fat and calories, relieves stress, strengthens the heart and decreases the risk of some forms of cancer, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research. All great reasons to put a little spring into your step, or, being that it's April, a little step into your spring.

While there's an endless variety of exercise options available today, taking a daily walk is one of the simplest, making it an especially good way for people who aren't accustomed to regular exercise to begin. The American Institute for Cancer Research recommends getting at least one hour of moderate physical activity every day.

An hour's brisk walk each day is a great way to fit this in. And brisk hill walking for at least one hour each week is equivalent to the hour of weekly vigorous exercise that the Institute also recommends.

Not only can walking regularly help lower the risk for heart disease, diabetes and cancer, it can also be a key to healthy weight loss. A 150-pound person, walking at a moderate pace, burns about 5.4 calories per minute. Multiply 5.4 by sixty minutes, and that's 324 calories burned in just an hour of walking. Grab a pair of free weights while you walk, and you can also strengthen and tone your arm muscles.

If it's difficult to find one hole, uninterrupted hour during your day, or if you're just beginning a walking regimen and want to start slowly, break your walk up into half-hour or fifteen-minute increments. Shorter sessions of exercise can just be as effective as one long session, and are always better than no exercise at all.

You can probably fit more walking into your everyday lifestyle than you realize. For instance, do you usually drive around a parking lot looking for the closest spot to the door? Start parking further away. The time you save searching for the "perfect spot" can be spent walking instead. And make it a goal to start taking the stairs instead of the elevator whenever possible. It'll be good for your heart and waistline, and less frustrating than waiting endlessly for the chance to be crowded into that little moving closet with a bunch of strangers.

The main message? Get moving! Staying physically active, even in small ways, can mean a healthier, trimmer you, and less risk of chronic illness.

Safe treatment available for Carpal Tunnel sufferers

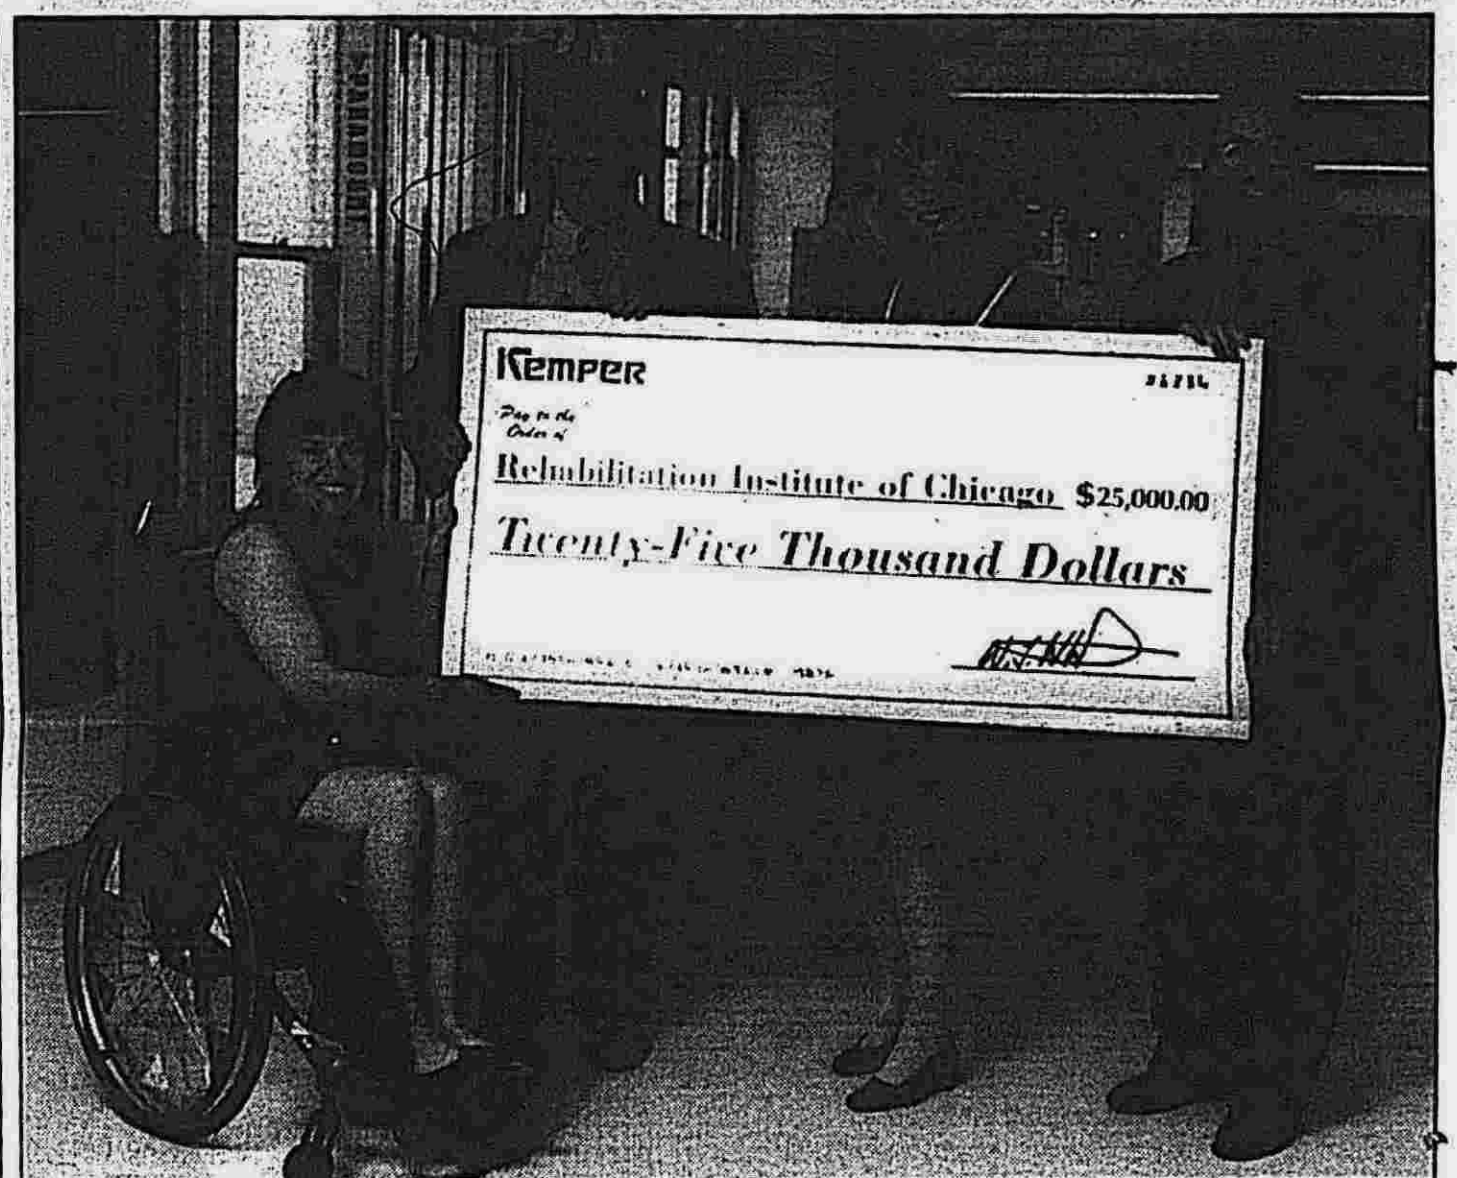

People who say that you should leave your work problems at the door before you step into the house have probably never experienced a work related injury like Carpal Tunnel Syndrome. The thousands of people that suffer from this condition wish they could just turn off the symptoms and pain for good.

Carpal Tunnel Syndrome is an injury to the wrist that is caused by repetitive hand and wrist actions. Symptoms include tingling in the wrist or palm, numbness, decreased grip strength, forearm fatigue, and pain. Some of the high-risk people are hair stylists, secretaries, computer programmers, dog groomers, piano players, construction workers, and nail technicians.

There are two forms of treatment for this condition: conservative and surgical. Most orthopedic surgeons and medical doctors recommend that patients with this condition seek out conservative care first. This is the most invasive and in most instances, the best method of care. The best form of conservative care that many orthopedic surgeons are recommending is chiropractic care.

The reason that so many surgeons are recommending chiropractic care first, is that through surgery, they can only guarantee a 50 percent chance of improvement in the relief of symptoms. Also, after the surgery has been performed, there is the risk of infection and the generation of scar tissue that will cause the condition to come back, which means that another surgery is necessary.

On the other hand, a chiropractor can effectively and safely treat the exact same condition through manipulation of the wrist bones and other supportive structures. There are eight bones that make up the wrist. These eight bones form an arch or bridge in which the nerves from the neck and upper arm travel beneath much like water would do under a bridge. In most instances the Lunate bone, a wrist bone in the center of the wrist, becomes locked out of position and causes irritation and inflammation to the nerves that enter the wrist. The inflammation that surrounds the nervous tissue causes the pain, tingling, and weakness. A chiropractor will evaluate and adjust the fixated or misaligned wrist bone and relieve the irritation that surrounds the nerve. Treatment may take a bit longer with a chiropractor, but it has been proven to be more effective and in pain relief and cost effectiveness.

Use of pill can lead to dry socket in females after tooth extraction

Women who use birth control pills are twice as likely to develop dry socket after a tooth extraction, according to the Chicago Dental Society.

Dry socket, the most common post-operation complication from tooth extractions, delays the normal healing process and results when the newly formed blood clot in the extraction site does not form correctly or is prematurely lost. This blood clot lays the foundation for new tissue and bone to develop over a two-month healing process.

"For women who take oral contraceptives, the likelihood of developing a dry socket is twice as likely because of their increased estrogen levels," says Vicki Grandinetti, DDS.

A study published in the journal of the Academy of Dentistry reports that women who take oral contraceptives experienced a 31 percent of dry socket after molar extractions performed in the first 22 days after their menstrual cycle. Within two to three days after estrogen use was discontinued, the extraction site tissue began the healing process. For women whose molar extractions were performed on days 23 through 28 of their cycle, no incident of dry socket occurred.

"Unless there is an emergency, women using birth control should try to schedule their extractions during the last week of their cycle," says Dr. Grandinetti. "The healing process can then begin immediately."

Any person who has had a tooth extracted should avoid smoking and drinking through a straw because the suction will interfere with healthier clotting.

'Love starved' educator awaits sentencing on delinquency charge

Former LCHS teacher Warfield acquitted of battery charge

By JASON J. KING
City Editor

The former Libertyville Community High School English teacher charged with kissing a 16-year-old student he had taken off campus was acquitted on the charge of misdemeanor battery but was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, in a Lake County courtroom last week.

While he may be off the hook on the battery charge, Andrew G. Warfield, 46, will face up to one year in prison and up to a $1,000 fine when Associate Judge John T. Phillips hands down his sentence on the delinquency charge on Sept. 4.

The charges stem from an October 1997 incident where Warfield took the student off campus after writing her a pass to get out of her last period class, allegedly placed his head in her lap as the two talked and kissed the student on the neck after which he supposedly apologized.

The incident was reported to the Department of Children and Family Services in December, and Warfield was relieved of his teaching duties shortly thereafter. He had been an 11-year teacher at LCHS.

Phillips said the state did not prove without a doubt that Warfield knew his behavior would offend the student.

"There is no showing that the defendant knew his action would be insulting to the student which the

"He said, 'I'm sorry. I am not sex starved I'm loved starved,'" she testified.

Warfield said during his testimony that the remark was directed at society and not at himself.

"As we were walking along the path I recall talking about how the world is love starved and I clarified that by saying not sex starved because I think people have a lot of sex but there's not a lot of love in the world," he said.

When asked if he kissed the girl, Warfield said, "When I first learned that had been alleged, I had no recollection of kissing her anywhere. I thought that it was possible that when I drove her back to school I might have given her a goodbye hug or a peck on the cheek."

The student returned to the stand briefly to restate her previous testimony.

"When we were on the bridge, after he kissed me, he said, 'I'm sorry, I'm love starved,'" she said.

County Fair fine tunes at ripe old age of 70

By LEE FILAS
Staff Reporter

With 69 years of fairs coming and going through Lake County, the people behind the scenes of the Lake County Fair decided to make a few changes.

"We are celebrating our 70th anniversary this year," said Mary Gunia, spokesperson for the Lake County Fair. "In honor of the celebration, we made a few changes."

In the past, the fair came and went in five days flat. Not this year, however, as Gunia and the Lake County Fair Association slated an extra day, giving people six days full of festivities to give the people of Lake County more of what they want, as the fair opens on July 28 and runs through Aug. 2.

"We have a few first-time events that will also take place," Gunia said. "Including the first ever pick-up truck demolition derby."

According to Gunia, the event will be held on July 28 at 7 p.m. This first-time event pits pick-up truck vs. pick-up truck, just like in the normal demolition derby.

"We surveyed the crowd last year during the demolition derby, and the crowd responded that this is what they would want to see," Gunia concluded. "We aim to please."

For drivers, entry fees for any of the demolition derbies is $20, and all registration times are at 10 a.m. the day of the race.

Each competition will have qualifying heats and a final competition. The winner of each heat will win an award, while the grand prize winner will receive $300.

Other events on the track in-

"That's really a fun race," Gunia said. "The crashes are always in the middle."

Other new, exciting things for the fair this year include a night when kids can come out to meet and greet their favorite motocross stars and the special "municipality" cook-off, where the different village governments in Lake County are cooking their favorite dishes in competition against one another.

"We currently have three municipalities enrolled," Gunia said. "But, we are waiting for responses from five others."

And as always, the mainstay events will be happening during the week, including the Miss Lake County Pageants, the kids petting zoo, the kids agriculture center, the Lake County goat milking competition, hundreds of rides and games, food and refreshments, craft shows and much, much more.

The Lake County Fair promises something for everyone, so come out and help celebrate the 70th anniversary of the Lake County Fair.

Admission for adults is $5, while children under 12 are free and senior citizens 65 and over is $3.

Times for the fair are: 1-10 p.m. on July 28, noon till midnight between July 29 until Aug. 1 and noon till 10 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 2.

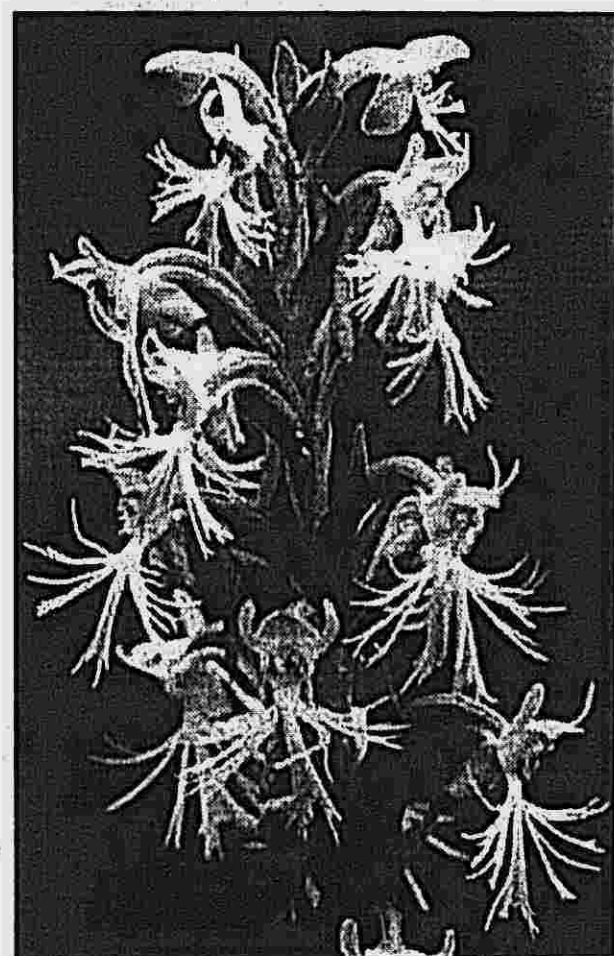

For more information on the event, please contact the Lake County Fair Association at (847) 223-2204.

Habit improvements yield rare orchids

Experts conclude evidence that controlled burns in forest preserves are working

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Habitat improvement efforts in Lake County Forest Preserves may have revealed new locations for two unique species of orchids.

Endangered Ragged Fringed-Orchid

The Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid (Platanthera leucophaea) was found at Independence Grove Forest Preserve near Libertyville by Lake County Forest Preserve Natural Resource Manager Jim Anderson. The orchid is a state-endangered and federally-threatened species.

Also, a Ragged-Fringed Orchid (Platanthera lacera) was found at Spring Bluff Forest Preserve near Winthrop Harbor by the preserve district's natural resource crew.

Both orchids were found in locations where preserve district personnel have used the technique of controlled burning to restore habitats.

The discoveries are credited to the inter-agency Orchid Recovery Program to protect Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid habitat.

In addition, another location for the Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid has been found in a high quality sedge meadow at Middlefork Savanna Forest Preserve near Lake Forest by district volunteer Jim Johnson.

The Lake County Forest Preserve District is now the steward for two of the largest populations of the Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid in north-eastern Illinois.

"The Orchid Recovery Program was initiated by the Nature Conservancy, Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of Natural Resources, and Lake County Forest Preserve and other agencies," said Anderson. It is a seven-year old program developed by scientists to figure out how to improve the habitat for these species.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Illinois Department of Natural Resources work closely with the Forest Preserve District to protect the Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid.

"One thing we wanted to do was get a handle on how many orchids are out there," Anderson said. "It changes from year to year. This species is really persnickety."

Who? Husko eyes State Rep. seat

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

Bill Husko. Don't know the name? You will by November.

Husko, 69, is a Democrat candidate from Mundelein running for election as State Representative in the 52nd District, against incumbent Mark Beaubien Jr., (R-Barrington).

Husko won the Democratic primary in March unopposed. He had help kicking off his campaign earlier this week at a fund-raiser held at the Gale Street Inn in Mundelein, attended by Glenn Poshiard, Democratic governor candidate, Jesse White, Democratic secretary of state candidate, and various other state legislators, candidates and local officials.

"It is the beginning of my campaign," Husko said. Husko has contemplated running for state representative for the past two years.

"I am at the point where I am ready to move on it," he said. "I feel I am a better man than him, and I can do better things than him," referring to his opponent Beaubien, a first-term state legislator.

Husko has operated his own company, W.V. Consulting, of Mundelein, for nine years, after retiring from a 45 year career as a union electrician. He worked in the field for 27 years as a foreman, superintendent and general foreman for two large Chicago firms. The remainder of his career in the Local Union 134 IBEW (International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers) was spent as a business representative.

"I have helped people all my life," he said. "I have helped people find jobs for 30 years."

Husko has held several elected and appointed union positions, and is a precinct committeeman.

He served in the 82nd Airborne Division, and is a member of the American Legion Post 769 and Veteran of Foreign Wars/Tioga Post 2149. He received the Port Council "Man of the Year" award, the "Chicago Medal of Merit" from past Mayor Richard J. Daley, and the Robert P. Connelly Medal from the Kiwanis Club for saving three people from drowning.

Husko has lived the past 10 years within Dist. 52, eight years in Hawthorn Woods and the two most recent years in Mundelein. He has resided in Lake County for 26 years.

Husko said he is looking forward to the campaign, speaking with citizens and presenting his platform.

He recently appeared in parades held in Mundelein, Wauconda and Lake Zurich.

ORCHIDS: Rare species found

The recovery program helps the agencies determine how the plant grows and how many there are. It also helps propagation through hand pollination to assure development of seed.

The orchid is usually pollinated by the Hawk Moth.

"We're acting as a Hawk Moth," Anderson said. District volunteers work with June Keibler to collect pollen and to pollinate flowers using toothpicks.

With natural conditions, the two-inch tongue of the Hawk Moth would be pollinating the plants. Restoration Ecologist Kenneth Klick said, "It only happens for a brief time as the sun is setting."

The sweet, vanilla-like scent attracts the moth. "It only smells for brief moments in the evening when the Hawk Moth flies around," said Klick. There is not much scent at other times.

In hot weather, the flowers only may last four days. In four or five days, district personnel have to find the plant, pollinate it, and tag it, according to Klick.

From the pollinated plants, eventually, seeds are collected and dispersed in areas where they are expected to grow.

Another part of the recovery program includes habitat restoration.

"Our goal as a district is to try to restore the entire ecosystem," said Anderson. The district does not try to manage habitat areas for a specific species. Restoration efforts of an entire habitat allows many species to return and that restores biodiversity.

"As plants come back, the insects come back, and then birds come back," he said.

The discovery of the Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid has been very exciting for district and recovery program personnel. "It gives us hope for other sites on district land," Klick said. "It is, in a sense, validation of the work that is going on—the prescribed burning, the habitat restoration."

"That's why this orchid is so exciting. It shows that this is working," Klick said.

First comes the process of burning the prairie areas. A few years later there is incredible biological diversity in those areas.

"We're seeing that now," Klick said. He said that there are more species of higher quality. In addition, the existing collections of plants out there are beginning to coalesce.

"It's encouraging and exciting. The discouraging thing is that the process is so long."

Klick said that children will reap the full benefit. They will have the opportunity to see pre-settlement vegetation. It is what Lake County looked like before the 1830s.

Now the recovery program is seeking additional information about details of Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid growth. District personnel will gather information about the ecology of the plant itself, its height, width, bloom pattern, and how long it lasts.

"We permanent-marked all the orchids we saw this year with a metal tag," Anderson said. District personnel eventually will know more about the year-to-year continuity of species after they re-examine these sites next year.

"With this year's effort, we'll be able to follow these plants forever," said Klick.

Detailed studies of the Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid by Marlin Bowles are also underway at the Morton Arboretum in Lisle, Illinois for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"The effort is to get this species off the federal endangered species list," Anderson said. However, that has to be done in conjunction with reintroducing the actual pollinator of the plant, the Hawk Moth.

To determine if the Hawk Moth can be brought back is one task of the project. Another aspect is to determine why Hawk Moths disappeared.

The Ragged-Fringed Orchid, the second major district discovery, is not a threatened species. It is found in the beach sand dunes complexes of Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. However, this new site of the orchid species is the first on Lake County Forest Preserve District property. Illinois Beach State Park in Zion contains the only other known northern Illinois location of this plant.

The Eastern Prairie-Fringed Orchid is 3 to 4 feet tall, is common in sedge meadows and wet prairie areas, and has 10 to 30 bright white flowers about 1 inch in diameter in a flower head 6 to 7 inches tall.

The Ragged-Fringed Orchid, a native of sandy prairies, stands 1 to 2 feet tall. It has short, wide leaves with greenish-yellow flowers in tight clusters.

Recovery efforts are not focused only on these two species. "We're looking at several different species," said Anderson.

There are many state-listed species in trouble. "We try to monitor some of them."

Two species the district also monitors are the Purple-Fringed Orchid and Karner Blue Butterfly.

The Purple-Fringed Orchid is counted and tagged. It is listed as endangered in Illinois and occurs in flat-wood openings and mesic sand prairies. The populations of Purple-Fringed Orchids are known to fluctuate widely from year-to-year, possibly associated with rainfall patterns. Deer over-grazing has had a negative impact on some known populations in the state.

'LOVE STARVED': Teacher acquitted

In closing arguments, Warfield's attorney Joshua Sachs, argued that while his client could have exercised better judgment, the victim's story had holes in it.

"There are serious credibility problems with our complaining witness," said Sachs. "She perceives some sort of attempted seduction."

"I feel very sorry for her," Sachs continued. "she's obviously a desperately unhappy young woman."

Sachs later went on to characterize Warfield as a "good and devoted and committed veteran high school teacher."

Assistant State's Attorney Marykay Foy argued that Warfield preyed on the girl's sensitivity and should have known better.

"We have a minor, she has known Mr. Warfield for two months. She relies on him, she looks up to him, she thinks he's a friend," Foy said. "That's fine. But he crosses the line when he drives her out to a wooded area she doesn't even know and kissed her. She found it gross. She felt violated."

"It was very offensive," Foy said. "After 11 years we should expect our teachers to understand that our children look up to them."

"We shouldn't expect them to kiss a student on the neck."

Philips, in handing down his verdict, said he believed the victim's testimony to be very credible.

"I found Mr. Warfield's testimony to be inconsistent," said Philips.

Warfield is appealing his firing by the school board and will appear before the Illinois State Board of Education, who will hear the appeal, in the coming months.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

ACHS to create alumni directory

Antioch—Antioch Community High School is looking for all its graduates.

The school is creating the first alumni directory and wants to hear from all graduates so information about them may be included.

"In order for this project to be successful, we need to find as many Antioch Community High School graduates as we can," Publicity Coordinator Charlene Davenport said.

The purpose of this directory is to contain current residential and work information on each school graduate. This will help classmates rekindle old friendships, make new ones, plan social gatherings, set up mentoring programs for current students, or reminisce.

Information wanted includes: current names, addresses, and telephone numbers. Former students from all classes are asked to submit information.

Graduates can mail information to Antioch Community High School Alumni Directory Project, Attn.: Charlene Davenport, c/o Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, 22 Kroger Center, Norfolk, Virginia, 23502.

People may also contact Davenport by calling 1-800-654-4548, by faxing 1-800-829-4142, or by e-mailing cdavenport@bcharrispub.com.

Fox Lake Budget Approved

Fox Lake—After tornado-like weather delayed the opening of the Fox Lake village board meeting 30 minutes Monday night, village officials breathed a sigh of relief when the meeting finally ended.

And, it wasn't because the village hall was almost picked up and thrown to Oz.

The anxiety ended for village officials because they passed the 1998 appropriation ordinance, allowing the village to stay in business for another year.

"The appropriation ordinance, essentially, is designed to allow the village to spend money for the next year," said Kevin Hunter, Fox Lake trustee and head of finance for the village. "It needs to be put out before the end of the first fiscal quarter by a village, and we did it."

According to Hunter, the ordinance would have been completed the first week of May, but due to the changes in the village hall finance department, the budget was delayed.

"We changed the hardware [computers] in the village hall in November, and the software came in February," Hunter explained. "Our first meeting for the budget was in January, so we got it out as quick as we could."

According to the appropriation ordinance, the village estimates it will spend around $17 million this year. Provisions are in the budget to build two new water towers, purchase a new phone system for the village hall, to hire a parks and recreation supervisor and replace assorted sewer and water lines that are in need of repair.

Also, $500,000 has been allocated to start repaying the Northwest Region Water Reclamation Facility to which the village owes an estimated $2.5 million.

Residents desire benefits from plan

Gurnee—Gurnee residents and plan commission members came to voice a common view regarding Six Flags Theme Park's expansion plans.

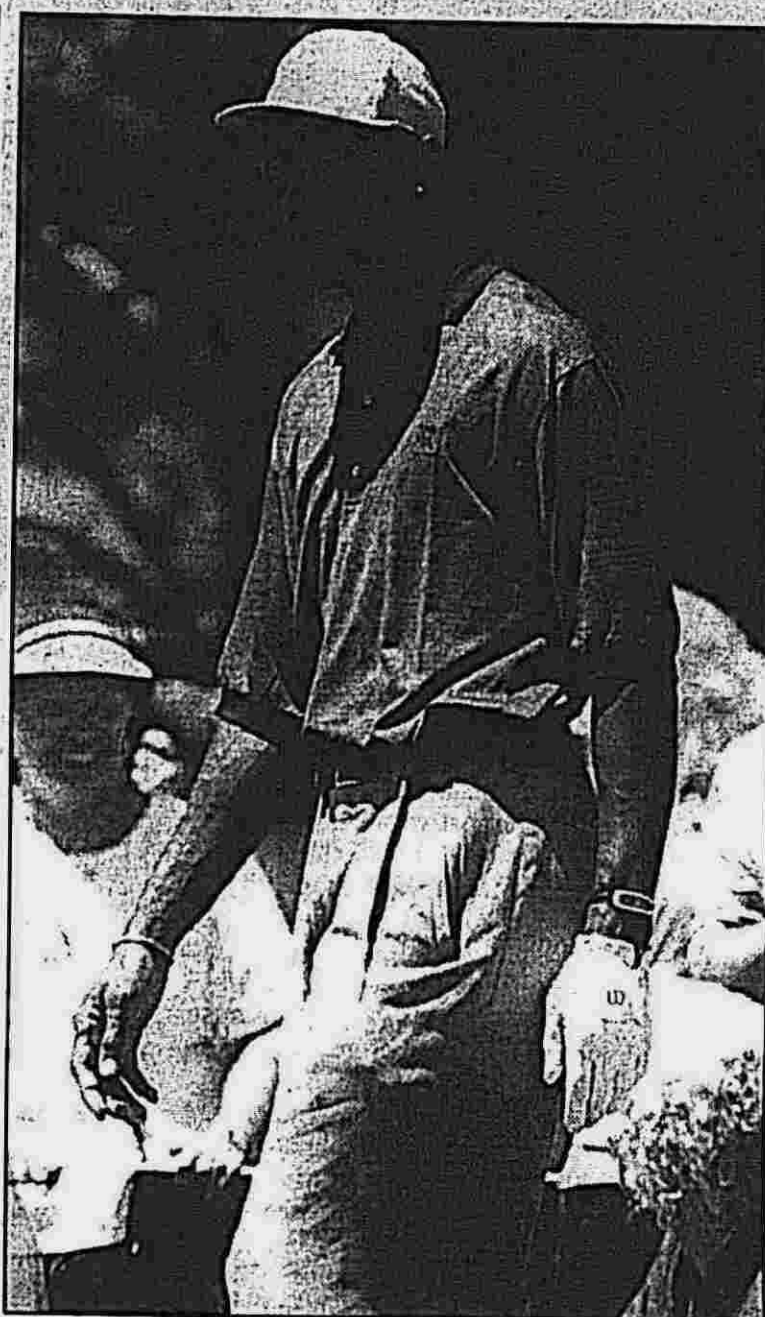

"What is in it for the residents? Will we have to pay for parking? There is also a safety issue—look at the police blotter and 90 percent of the calls are from Gurnee Mills and Six Flags Great America. Why will this be so different? We have gone away from the original pitch. I like our town's residential feel," resident Susan Kamman said.

Prism Development Company and Six Flags officials presented their plans for the 134 acre parcel. It is now being considered as a planned unit development with industrial and commercial zoning. Prism Development officials said the zoning conforms with the village's comprehensive plan. Destination hotels, a water park, retail shopping and other features will attempt to coax visitors into longer stays.

The development will be considered by plan commission again at a Aug. 19 meeting.

Details for the water park and employee housing for the park are further along than the Entertainment Village, aimed at keeping visitors for longer stays.

One resident said while he would like to go to such a place with his family, but he would not wish to live near it.

"The Entertainment Village would act as a catalyst for other developments and as a hub," said Jon Rodgers, principal of Prism Development Company.

Township OKs open space extension

Libertyville—Despite hearing a number of pleas to allow voter approval, the Libertyville Township board of trustees voted 3-1 to extend the existing open space bonds last Thursday night.

The move will provide between $30-40 million for the purchase of additional open space lands to add to the township's 1,400 acres that are currently held.

Purchasing those open lands, however, will probably be more difficult than originally thought as the Libertyville Township Property Owners Association, headed by Pat Connors and Jack Martin, said they will challenge the move in court.

"Our attorney contends that Libertyville Township is required by law to go to referendum," said Connors. "If this board passes this plan tonight our association will file a suit to pursue such legal action."

"The one reason, in an urban county, to buy open space is taxes," said township supervisor F.T. "Mike" Graham. "We either preserve it or pay for it."

Golf outing holds beanie baby raffles

Lake Villa—Three of the most currently sought Beanie Babies are being raffled to help raise money to send children to burn camp in Ingleside.

The raffle is one aspect of an Aug. 1 golf outing and dinner at Renwood Golf Course in Round Lake Beach which will also raise money to benefit the Illinois Fire Safety Alliance Burn Camp.

The Military Order of the Cootie Pup tent #81 and its women's Auxiliary and the Lake Villa Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary are sponsoring the golf outing and two raffles.

The golf outing and dinner is $50 per person, which includes the cost to play golf, a cart, dinner, and prizes. People who do not wish to play golf may attend the evening dinner for only $20. Checks should be made payable to M.O.C. #81 and sent to Kehrner, 389 Dakota Court, Round Lake Beach, 60073.

Golf outing tee times start at 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The steak dinner is served at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Lake Villa at 130 East Grand Avenue.

Tickets for the raffle also are available at the Lake Villa VFW 4308 Post on Grand Avenue.

Tickets for the Beanie Baby Raffle also may be purchased in Round Lake Beach at HP & Me Gift Shop, 629 Rollins Road.

The Illinois Fire Safety Alliance is a 503(c) not-for-profit organization in Mt. Prospect.

Subdivision upsets residents

Mundelein—Cambridge Homes' plans to build 63 homes in a country-like setting north of Route 176 and west of Lemon Road may ruin the country-like setting, according to surrounding neighbors.

Cambridge Homes wants to raze eight homes on 48 acres, 45 acres referred to as the Neel property, located south of Fieldcrest Drive and north of Park Avenue, and the remainder as the Linder property, south of the Robin Hood Farms subdivision site. The homes will be built on 28 acres of the Neel property, with the other 20 acres left as open space and wetlands.

However, nearby residents who live in Fremont Township are concerned the development will ruin the country-like setting that now exists. "This is basically quarter-acre lots in the middle of one to five acre lots," said Holly Robinson. Mundelein officials will review the annexation agreement with Cambridge again on Aug. 3, before potentially taking a vote at the Aug. 10 board meeting.

Armed robbery at Arby's

Wauconda—Police are investigating the armed robbery of Arby's Roast Beef, 488 W. Liberty St., which occurred just before 11 p.m. July 17, police said.

An unidentified man walked into the store just before it was closing, confronted two men in a back room with a semi-automatic weapon, and forced them to give him more than $900 from a cash register and office area, police said. No customers were inside the restaurant.

Police are continuing to investigate the armed robbery, the first of 1998, but have little to go on, as the victims provided a limited physical description, as the subject was wearing a mask and may have spoken with a false Hispanic accent, and could not provide a vehicle description, police said.

Dist. 3 has new superintendent

Beach Park—The principal of a nationally recognized junior high school in Rolling Meadows has been picked to lead Beach Park District 3.

Dr. Larry Fleming, principal of Plum Grove Junior High, will begin his job as Beach Park's new Superintendent Aug. 18. He received a three year contract with a salary of $96,000 per year.

Plum Grove received the Blue Ribbon award for Excellence from the United States Department of Education in 1997 under Fleming's leadership.

Cal Schneider, president of the board of education, said Fleming was selected from approximately 52 applicants to the Bickert Group, the Glen Ellyn based search firm the district utilized.

Fleming has a strong curriculum background. He previously served as director of curriculum and instruction in Wilmette and earned his doctorate in educational administration from Northern Illinois University.

Township should seek referendum for open space land

Libertyville Township Supervisor E.T. "Mike" Graham is trying to prove you can force feed taxpayers a plan and make them pay for it, by leading the charge to extend the existing township open space bonds.

The move, approved by the township board, July 16, will provide between $30 and 40 million for the purchase of additional open space lands to add to the 1,400 acres the township currently owns.

The problem with making additional funds available is three-fold. Many of the owners of identified parcels the township wishes to purchase, have told the board, they don't want to sell. Secondly, the decision approved by a 3-1 vote of the town board, has already led to the threat of a lawsuit, which contends the board must go to referendum to extend the bonds and finally, the vote only ensures money will be spent in an attempt to acquire open space lands, not that the township will acquire more land.

Supervisor Graham contends his election was a mandate from the voters to extend the open space bonds. Voters in the three-way race, however, didn't give Graham a blank check with which to pursue the noble cause.

To date, Graham's administration has spent more than $60,000 on studies and plans for the expansion of open space land and voters have not gained one foot.

Graham's ideology of saving open space is commendable. His methodology, however, tarnishes his good intentions.

The township board could save a large chunk of taxpayer money in legal fees, by placing the question on the ballot for voters to decide. And if time is of the essence, as Graham contends, placing the question on the ballot would be much quicker than dragging the issue out in a lengthy court battle.

Graham and his supporters, however, prefer to rest on their 1997 election results instead of risking that voters, who brought them to power on this platform, may now be disillusioned and not supportive of the extension of the open space district.

Libertyville Township taxpayers are the real losers here. Their tax dollars will most likely be eaten up in legal fees, while the price of open land continues to climb and children continue to wait for an empty field on which to play ball.

Let the voter's decide.

Core city's future tied to Rte. 53 plans

Central Lake County, and other suburban areas, are linked inextricably with the economic future of Chicago's inner city in a way that is becoming better understood by investors and others who have a stake in what happens in the city core.

While the flight from the city continues as a 50-year phenomenon, sociologists and economists long have documented suburbia's life-line tie to the metropolitan area through jobs and transportation. Now comes renewed interest in a landmark study by a Harvard professor that Chicago's urban core with 1.4 million inhabitants and $5 billion buying power is a resource worth saving—and utilizing.

Through a non-profit organization, Prof. Michael Porter emphasizes the waste of loss of opportunity when investors abandon Chicago's urban core as unprofitable. These are the same investors courted by politicians, developers and highway builders who nearly 10 years ago revived a long-dead highway construction plan—the extension of Rte. 53 to a point in central Lake County south of Grayslake.

A recently published study by Porter's team outlines how the public, private and non-profit sectors can benefit from restoring the inner city's viability. The fact that mostly blacks and Hispanics will benefit from core city redevelopment hasn't been lost on policy makers.

A renewed interest in Chicago's core will have a profound effect on the future of suburbia. Perhaps it is already being seen in media references to "if" the Rte. 53 tollway will be built, not "when." Lake County's grassroots political leaders are among the diminishing list of officialdom regarding the construction of the Rte. 53 extension as a foregone conclusion. It would be worth the effort to get better acquainted with the findings of Professor Porter.

VIEWPOINT

Visitors to China get taste of bigness

Napoleon O'Young probably never thought of it this way, but he has something in common with the tourist who hangs his hat at Pennsylvania Ave.

Both of them came away from a visit to China impressed with the enormity of the country, the forbearance of its people and the nation's place in the world order.

For O'Young, a scientist for nearly 30 years in agricultural research for Abbott Laboratories, a family trip to China earlier this year was a visit to the homeland of his parents, a return to her native land for his wife and a chance for their children to get a flavor of their heritage.

The O'Youngs, residents of Grayslake, toured China for 16 days. They recorded 12 hours of quality videotape, which was easy because Mrs. O'Young is a professional photographer.

So much of China is immense. Even the lunches are huge—13 courses. "You're happy to walk a lot to wear off those big lunches," joked O'Young.

Viewing a small portion of the 3,000 mile long Great Wall and riding on a barge on the Grand Canal in use for centuries are unforgettable experiences.

Think the U.S. has problems with culture clash? China has 59 distinct ethnic groups.

Government policy promotes tourism. Travelers are made to feel safe, except when they have to take a hop on an ancient Russian-built jet. One of the few reminders of a totalitarian government came when the O'Young's tour group was politely steered away from visiting a school.

If Americans think the younger generation is over-indulged, the O'Youngs came home amused with the knowledge that Chinese youngsters are being spoiled beyond belief. Communist leaders have fostered a "one child" policy for 20 years. Parents who don't want to pay to have more children, can foist all their love and resources on that single offspring.

History slips away

For 57 years, the fire district with headquarters in Halfday was known as the Vernon Fire Protection District. The district is the same, but it now has a new name, Lincolnshire-Riverwoods Fire Protection District. The new name better describes the area served, states Fire Chief Fred Kruger. The district's first chief was Frank Hoeltje, owner of a garage at Rte. 22 and Milwaukee Ave., where the first fire truck was housed.

Paper chase

Chicago's big newspaper let Secretary of State candidate Al Salvini know in no uncertain terms that he better not get too big for his britches with a page one story purporting to document the "furor" created by the sending of invitations to state employees for a big fund raiser in Springfield.

Careful reading of the article showed that the only furor was in the minds of the paper's editors. No one was quoted as griping about being invited, only "one disgruntled worker who asked not to be identified." What the article didn't mention was that former Gov. Jim Thompson spearheaded the event. Thompson also arranged private jet transportation from Chicago.

The article wasn't exactly a high point in quality journalism for the big paper.

Big band time

The Midwest's legendary Riviera Ballroom at Lake Geneva will be alive again with big band sounds Saturday, Sept. 26, as part of the cancer fund benefit 21st Annual Lake Geneva Classic Car Rally. We're mentioning the event now because an early deadline for advance tickets is approaching rapidly.

Tickets will be available for only $12 before Aug. 1 by mailing payment to Classic Car Rally, P.O. Box 732, Lake Geneva, Wis. 53147. Alums from such notable big bands as Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Les Elgart and Buddy Morrow will be featured as the Airmen of Swing, a nostalgic group patterned after the famed Glenn Miller Army Air Corps band.

Court ruling on chases right

The U.S. Supreme Court made a recent ruling that was correct, but may still have unfortunate consequences. It ruled in a unanimous decision that in high-speed police chases that the police are not liable unless there is a clear intent to cause injury. That means that there is no federal remedy where there is injury, even to innocent bystanders, unless it can be shown that the police officer clearly intended to cause physical injury or harm to the victim. It means that victims must resort to state courts to seek relief in such cases.

Although I have not read the court's decision and the written opinions offered by the justices, I can understand the ruling. To rule otherwise would be like saying to wrongdoers who choose to flee the police, just go ahead, you are within your rights, and you are protected no matter the consequences.

The ruling was the first ever given by the high court on high-speed police chases. There have been many innocent victims who have suffered death or crippling and permanent injuries as a result of high-speed police chases. Whether the ruling will bring finality to police liability from a federal standpoint or cause Congress to enact legislation that might curb the number of high-speed chases remains to be seen.

In the cited case, it involved a police vehicle chasing a motorcycle at speeds of up to 100 miles per hour in a residential neighborhood. The motorcycle couldn't negotiate a turn, the passenger on it was thrown off, and the police vehicle, trying to stop, struck the victim, knocking him nearly 70 feet and he was pronounced dead at the scene.

SEEING IT THROUGH

News accounts of the court decision didn't report what action by the motorcycle precipitated the police chase. That always plays an important part into whether high-speed pursuits are warranted, particularly in residential neighborhoods.

As one who has been involved in law enforcement, I can attest that police chases can be necessary to apprehend criminals. But, I can attest also that there have been some high-speed chases in many jurisdictions where death and injury resulted and could have been avoided.

How many times have you read about a high-speed police chase that had deadly results and you find too late that the person trying to elude the police was a very young driver who was afraid to stop because of not having a valid license or just afraid of what the police and his parents would do to him? Unfortunately, that and similar circumstances have happened too often.

High-speed police chases are always worrisome, and troublesome. Most police departments have strict policies to use every precaution to avoid such chases and to pursue as safely as possible when high-speed chases are necessary.

Traveling at extra-high speeds is dangerous even when expert drivers are behind the wheel. When high-speed chases occur, everyone along the way is at risk. Motorists may have their windows rolled up, the radio playing, and not hear police sirens. Motorists sometimes panic themselves when they think that speeding vehicles are approaching them. Everything can add up to danger, and that is why so many high-speed police chases end up in bloody messes.

I said that the Supreme Court decision was a correct one because to rule otherwise wrongdoers would think that they have the "green light" to flee from the police. What worries me, though, is that the decision may cause some police to believe that they can chase anyone they want, any time that they want, as fast and reckless as they want, and not worry about a thing.

In the main, the vast majority of law enforcement officers are responsible and understand that their primary responsibility is to protect the safety and security of society. The dangers of high-speed police chases to all of society are apparent to all and such chases should be used very cautiously.

If there is rash of high-speed police chases with deadly consequences, particularly to innocent bystanders, the issue could be revisited in the courts. Let's hope that common sense prevails and we have less, rather than more, high-speed police chases.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Helander produces alleged campaign fans

Lake County Clerk Willard Helander is still spinning from the spin put on the distribution of fans and emery boards designed to recruit election judges during the Libertyville Days parade.

Her Democratic opponent former Lake County Clerk Linda Hess has called for an investigation into the expenditure of county funds on fans and emery boards calling them "campaign materials." The items in fact bear the slogans to recruit election judges. Emery boards carry only the clerk's phone number and fans simply say: Call Lake County Clerk Willard Helander.

"Recruiting election judges is one of the jobs of the county clerk," Helander said.

She said she handed out the fans but wasn't wearing a name tag indicating she was the county clerk. Helander said approximately $20 worth of emery boards were handed out by a volunteer during the end of the parade route.

"This was definitely not a campaign item," she said.

Round two awaits.

Numbers, vision

Republican Secretary of State candidate Al Salvi is blasting the press for focusing on who numbers fundraising tickets. Salvi said most organized candidates number their tickets because of bookkeeping requirements of the state.

Salvi is calling on the media, namely the state's largest daily, to focus on which candidate has the vision and the plan to take the office of secretary of state into the next century.

Gubernatorial no show

Porter: Ravinia sight of Saturday fundraiser

Fan: What Helander handed out

Mundelein's Bill Husko. Husko is challenging first term State Rep. Mark Beaublen to represent central Lake County in the state house.

Husko kicked off his campaign at Mundelein's Gale Street Inn. Also a no show was Secretary of State candidate Jesse White.

Little interest

And speaking of visiting Lake County, Democratic U.S. Senator Carol Moseley-Braun, found her way to two stops in the heart of Lake County, Saturday, unfortunately, few voters found their way to the locations.

Moseley-Braun spoke to less than 20 at Prairie Crossing and about 25 at the College of Lake County.

An evening under the stars

Supporters of Congressman John Porter (R-10th) will be joining the northshore congressman for a night at Ravinia, July 25. For more information on the event contact Kay Rose at (847) 501-4789.

Fall receptions

Two state representative candidates have selected fall dates to energize their supporters and raise contributions. Tim Osmond will continue the sponsorship of outgoing State Rep. Bob Churchill's rock n' roll event Friday, Oct. 2, at Midlane Country Club, Wadsworth.

State Rep. Mark Beaublen (R-Barrington) will be feted Oct. 8 at Country Squire, Grayslake. Both are Republicans and heavy favorites to be elected.

Change village's name? Whynot?

There's a Monkey's Eyebrow, Ky., why not a Monkey's Eyebrow, Ill.?

There's a Whynot, Miss., why not a Whynot, Ill.?

Just tossing out suggestions for the folks in Round Lake Beach who want to change the name of their village.

Some movers and shakers don't like the area's image and want to distinguish themselves from their neighbors, Round Lake, Round Lake Park and Round Lake Heights.

Never mind that they share the same fire department, school system, public library and park district.

Round Lake Beach has been growing by leaps and bounds into a middle-class suburb. But some residents chafe at the name-change idea. The issue arose nine years ago when the population soared past 15,000. The mayor at the time, Carl Schrimpf, assigned a committee to send postcards to all residents, seeking their opinions.

"If the response is negative, we'll drop it," Schrimpf said. The response wasn't positive.

The news media jumped on the story, however. "It got on radio, television, all over," Schrimpf said. "Editors and reporters decided, 'Hey, this is something newsworthy.' I received phone calls from everywhere."

Among the suggestions were Rollins Landing, Oak Meadows, Fairfield Heights, Renwood, Pleasant Hills and Glen Hollow. Someone proposed Sleepy Hollow and one resident suggested Reagan.

Some of Schrimpf's friends suggested Carlstown or Schrimpfville. The mayor suspected they were just teasing him.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

ter De Witt Clinton, who as governor of New York in the early 19th century pushed the building of the Erie Canal. That enhanced the settlement of our Midwest.

Round Lake Beach could choose a catchy name that would make it famous in a quirky way, like Double Trouble, Tenn.; Pain, La.; Tightwad, Mo.; and Noodle, Texas.

The village may be excused if it is thinking bigger. Chicago started as Fort Dearborn and Waukegan as Little Fort.

Locally, Gurnee once was called Wentworth, Volo was settled as Forksville, Lake Zurich as Cedar Lake and Green Oaks as Oak Grove.

It took Libertyville five tries to get it right twice. First it was called Vardin's Grove, then Independence Grove, then Libertyville, then Burlington and then Libertyville again.

Mundelein bounced from Mechanic's Grove to Holcomb to Rockefeller to Area and finally to Mundelein in 1926, in honor of George Cardinal Mundelein who gave the village its first fire engine.

Here's a favorite yarn: When the explorer Louis Joliet decided to park his canoe on a bank of the Fox River near Green Bay, the story goes that he stepped out and immediately sank into water up to his chin.

"Deep here!" Joliet is supposed to have exclaimed. And DePere, Wis., was born.

There's also an interesting tale about Oconomowoc, Wis. It seems an Indian chief was hiking from Chicago to Oshkosh but tired along the way. "I can no more walk," he said, slurring his words a bit.

Hey, would I lie to you?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Voters have spoken, library must stay in Libertyville

To the members of the Cook Memorial Library District Board and especially Board President Joe Bean, the voters have spoken. The referendum was soundly defeated. It is time for you to embrace the idea of keeping the Cook Memorial Library in Libertyville.

It's real simple, the center of the Library District is Libertyville and that's where the library belongs. One central building to serve all. Not one main library and other satellite buildings scattered throughout the district sapping the tax payers money. Our pockets are not endless pits. Remember, we will decide what are the best and most acceptable ways to spend OUR money.

The voting public is educated and well informed. Please stop insulting our intelligence by sounding the panic button and insisting that this issue must be solved immediately. We all realize the current library is too small, but this issue does not have to be solved next month. So some books may have to be put in storage for a short time, it's not the end of the world. Once the best solution is found, it will gladly be approved by the voters.

If I may give a small piece of advice, every person I have spoken to about this issue loves Mike Kollman's proposal to utilize the Brainerd building as the new library. Stop telling us why it might not work and start enthusiastically pursuing the Brainerd building proposal. The bumpy road you're traveling now, might just smooth out a bit.

Hochschild will be missed

Having read your editorial (Educator Lacking in Staying Power), I find myself confused and truly saddened. Your comments about Dr. Joan Hochschild represent an opinion that is both uninformed and unsubstantiated. It is an outstanding example of the most serious problem we face today, not only in education, but in other phases of our community life.

That is, opinions that have a harmful, negative impact on the lives of public and private individuals, and bear no burden of proof or truthfulness. Their bases are half truths and ignorance of the facts.

Rather than "shedding few tears," the residents of District 97 might well mourn the loss of a superintendent who brought to their district, the highest levels of intelligence, education, commitment, devotion, fiscal responsibility, knowledge of curriculum, and an informed, well-conceived vision for the future. If they wished the finest possible education for their children, they have let a golden opportunity slip through their fingers.

Dr. Hochschild has been my esteemed colleague for 35 years, so I can attest to the fact that she is not an "itinerant" educator, as you stated. Throughout the past 30 years, in Lake County, she has been a beacon of knowledge and support for generations of children, their families, and all those who have been privileged to work with her. She has maintained strong personal and professional contacts with individuals and institutions, who continue to respect her, admire her, look to her as a role model and mentor, and value her as a source of encouragement and enlightenment.

During her five years as Superintendent of Grayslake Elementary, Dr. Hochschild dealt successfully with the double-pronged problem of rapid enrollment growth and very limited financial resources. Her long-range plan set the district on the road to financial stability.

Respond to citizens

Ms. Pilecky, co-manager of the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project, have you any idea of wisdom, power, knowledge and experience of the people confronting you at the June 9, meeting at your office?

Do you realize these people and the petitions that were turned over to you, as the representative of the Tollway Authority, are the reason 1 and 2 studies of Route 53 never got completed?

Let's stop wasting precious time and money and do what the citizens ask. Take care of widening existing roads. It will cost less money, havoc, and frustration and make for a happier environment in Lake County.

Voters should be heard

As Libertyville Township Supervisor ET. Graham charges forward with another of his self-proclaimed plans that will again dramatically raise taxes, why will he not put his plan to referendum?

It appears from everything I have read about Graham's folly number two, a substantial majority of the targeted property owners such as the Archdiocese, Lake County Winchester Farm, Abbott Park and many others all have asked to be removed from Graham's plan.

Obviously, there is no plan and no property, and no recreational plan to open up the open space for families and children in Libertyville Township.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Final part of a two-part series

Knowing your numbers: What's really happening in your business?

Last week I introduced the topics of accounting and financial management. I concluded that accounting is the language of accountants and that most small-business owners don't care to learn the dialect.

However, if you're going to be successful in business, you must understand the role accounting plays in financial management. Accounting is a process of recording financial transactions and summarizing the numbers into useful, easy-to-understand statements.

Unfortunately, most small-business owners don't find financial statements easy to understand. Some choose to ignore their statements altogether. Many people are too embarrassed to ask questions about their statements. Numerous others consider financial matters boring and simply focus their efforts on other areas of their businesses.

Problems often surface when the business comes up short on cash and no one can understand why. Panic ensues, and someone gets a call. The calling process may begin with an accountant, move quickly to a banker and finally involve a business consultant or turnaround specialist.

Perhaps studying the remainder of this article will help. If you need more guidance, send for the free information offered at the end of this column.

Financial Statements

Every business should generate three financial statements every month. These are a balance sheet, a cash flow statement and an income statement. The balance sheet is a summary of business assets, liabilities and the owner's equity or net worth. The total amount of assets (what the business owns) must equal liabilities (debt of the business) plus the owner's equity. The balance sheet reflects the financial condition of the business at a given point in time.

The cash flow statement measures the changes in the cash position of the firm from one period to the next. The cash flow statement is the easiest statement to produce, but is the least common statement to find in small businesses.

If you were to establish a single business checking account as I advised in part one, and if you conducted every business transaction through that account, you would have everything you need to produce a cash flow statement. Start with your beginning balance, add in cash receipts (deposits) and subtract out cash disbursements (checks) and you create the ending cash balance.

The last statement is the income statement, also commonly called the "profit and loss" statement. The income statement measures sales (revenues), expenses and the resulting earnings (loss) for a period.

The income statement has five main categories: sales, cost of sales,

DCFS plans 12-point day care safety

The Director of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services Friday announced a 12-point plan aimed at improving safety in state licensed day care homes and centers, speeding the licensing process for new applicants, and reducing the current backlog of facilities awaiting renewal of licenses.

The plan, which includes a 52 percent increase in licensing staff and the development of a new statewide complaint tracking system of licensed day care homes and centers, responds to calls from the day care community for faster licensing turnarounds, more frequent monitoring of existing facilities, and enhanced qualifications for licensing representatives.

"Efficiency is important, but the safety of the estimated 250,000 children in Illinois licensed facilities is paramount," said Director Jess McDonald, noting that background check requirements for all day care workers, as well as a dramatic increase in new licensing applications from welfare recipients seeking a career in in-home child care, are at least partly responsible for the recent backlog.

"The measures announced today will add more licensing staff, speed the licensing process and improve monitoring of the 13,000 day care homes and centers we currently license," said McDonald. "Service quality will also improve through increased training for DCFS licensing staff, better computer tracking of facilities that are up for renewal and monitoring visits, easier public access to licensing information about individual providers, and ongoing dialogue with day care advocates."

Licenses to operate a day care center or home must be obtained for any facility caring for more than three children, and must be renewed every three years. Annual monitoring visits ensure facility compliance with day care standards.

Improvements in the Department's day care licensing and monitoring system include:

- Hiring of additional day care licensing staff, raising the staff total from 145 licensing staff in 1997 to 220 staff positions in 1998—a 52 percent increase. Twenty-six new licensing representatives, supervisors and support staff positions were authorized last December, and another 49 positions were authorized this month.

The new positions are expected to be filled by September. The additional staffing gives each licensing representative a manageable caseload of new licenses, renewals, and investigations. All regions of the state will receive new positions, with particular weight given to Cook County, home to more large day care centers than any other area of the state.

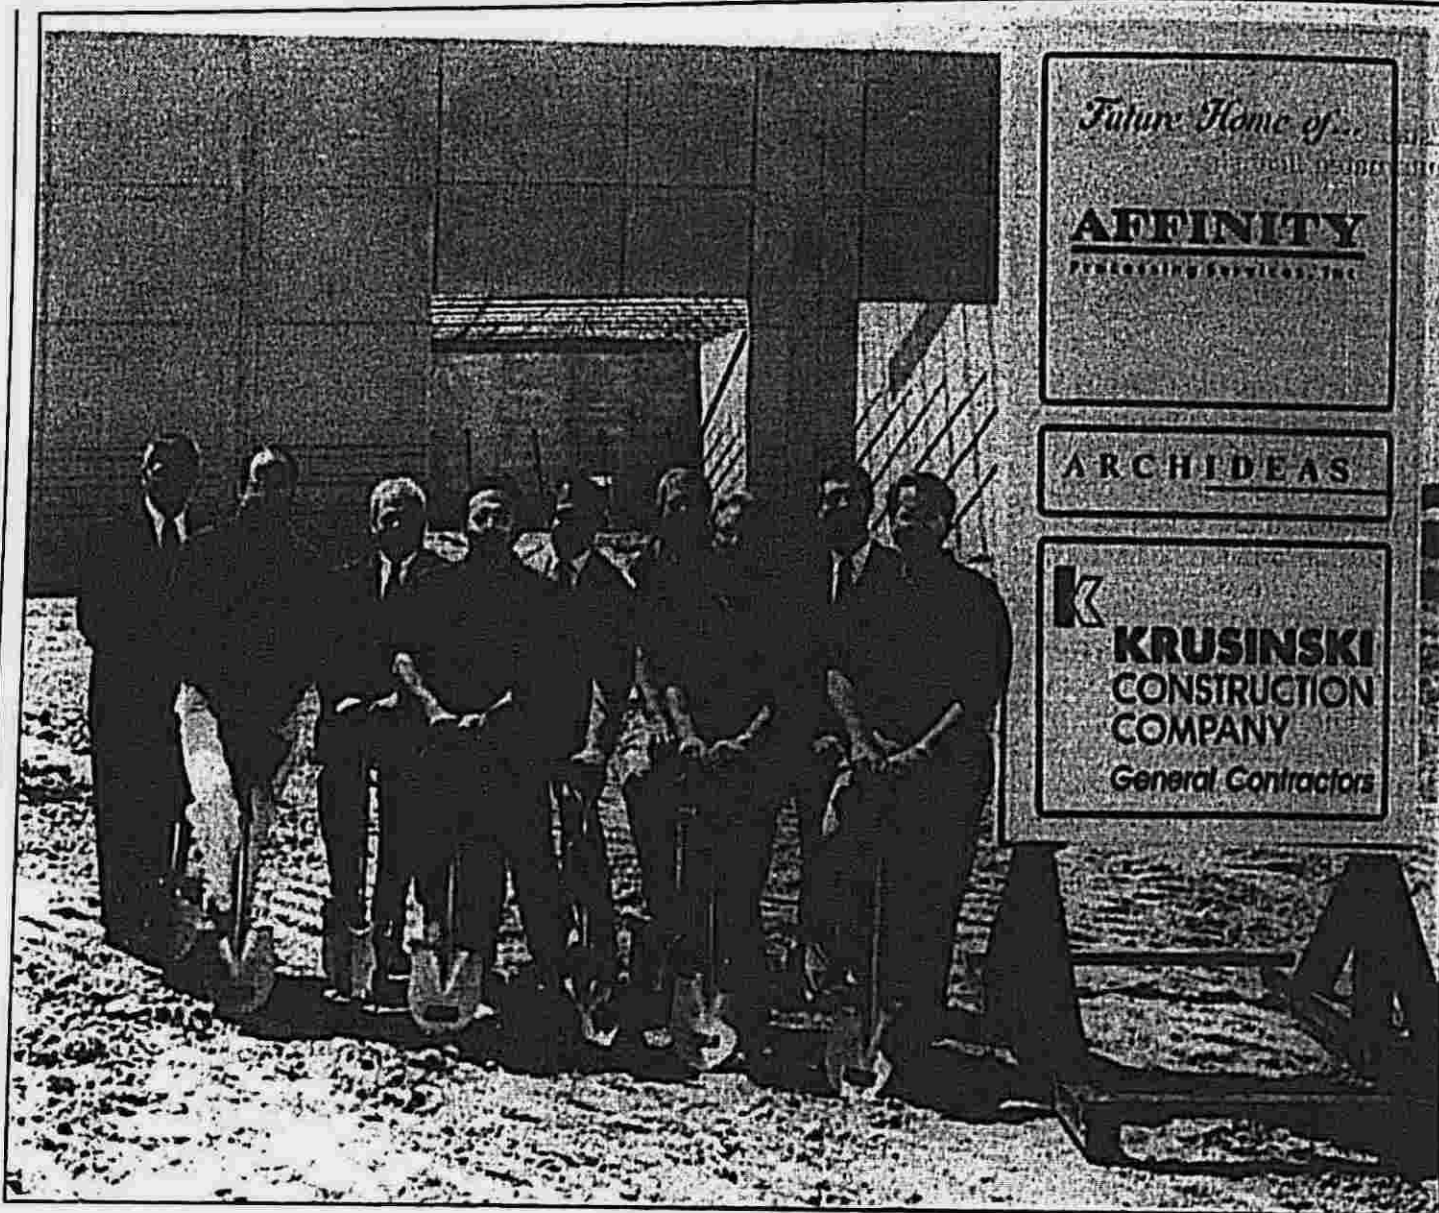

- Upgrading qualifications for day care licensing representatives, with an emphasis on early childhood education and experience. A revised applicant exam is already in use. There will be a phase-in period of these qualifications for existing licensing staff.

Representatives of the day care industry have agreed to work with DCFS to recruit qualified applicants.

- Establishment this month of a new automated statewide complaint tracking system.

Krusinski Construction breaks ground for Affinity Processing facility in Lake Zurich

Krusinski Construction Company broke ground recently on a new 40,000 square-foot office, production and warehouse facility for Affinity Processing Services Inc. Affinity's new facility occupies a four-acre site on Capital Drive in the Lake Zurich Corporate Center at Route 22 and Telser Rd.

Affinity sells direct mail printing and processing services to advertising agencies and direct-mail service bureaus. The facility, with a 10,000 square-foot office area, two interior truck docks and a clear height of 24 feet, is designed for 30,000 square feet of future expansion.

Scheduled for completion in September, the building features an interior designed around a high production printing room, which requires special cooling provisions and humidification controls.

"The site and building organization are based on maximizing views and interaction with the protected wetlands to the north and east of the property, while presenting a more formal image to the street to the west," explained Jeffrey D. Miller of Archideas, the project architect.

The west and south elevations will be articulated with a series of bay windows to create a human scale and interest in the facade facing the street. The east elevation features a more abstract treatment distinguishing the office portion and differentiating its function from the rest of the building. The entrance, in glass and accent color, will provide the transition between the office and warehouse, Miller said.

David J. Prioletti of CB Richard Ellis represented Affinity in the real estate transaction.

Krusinski Construction Company is a full service general contractor based in Westchester. The company works with major developers and national and local corporate clients on a wide range of industrial, distribution, manufacturing, office, retail and tenant build-out projects in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Haley heads Quality Project for Child Care Coalition

Child Care Coalition founder will work to improve the quality of child care for children in Lake County

Barbara Haley, former health facilities division director of the Lake County Health Department, has been named director of the Quality Project of the Child Care Coalition of Lake County.

Haley will develop and supervise the project to improve the quality of child care for young children in Lake County. The Quality Project is funded through a $200,000 state grant obtained by Senator Terry Link.

The Coalition will use the grant money to increase the number of licensed and available providers and to raise the qualifications of child care providers by offering opportunities for education, training and benefits. Other goals include educating parents so they can make informed choices about child care and forming partnerships with businesses to help employees meet the urgent need for quality child care.

Haley, a resident of Highland Park, established the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, a group of professionals in health, education, welfare and government who work together to promote quality child care. She facilitated the opening of the first intergenerational care center in Illinois and directed operations to establish eight hospital-based immunization clinics in Lake County. Haley also was a leading force in establishing Lake County Unites for VIP, Violence Intervention and Prevention, a community collaboration funded in part by the Illinois Violence Prevention Authority.

"The Quality Project," Haley said, "will be another cooperative venture for Lake County. We will draw together many resources to enhance the education and care of our young children. This issue is in the national spotlight now that we understand how much experience affects brain development during the first three to five years."

Haley holds a bachelor of nursing degree and a master of arts degree in health care administration. She specialized in pediatric nursing at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago and served as a head nurse and manager at Highland Park hospital.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake County's Quality Project will operate out of Suite 202 at 454 Central Avenue in Highland Park.

DCFS: 12-point plan for safety & licensing

1,495 complaints against licensed day care centers and homes, nearly 60 percent of which are substantiated.

- Establishment next month of a new automated licensing caseload tickler system that will notify supervisors and administrators each month about licenses due to expire that month, as well as monitoring visits that need to be conducted that month.

Some 3,695 day care licenses will expire in 1998. Currently, there are 1,163 day care facilities in license renewal status (391 centers and 772 day care homes). Another 1,642 applicants await approval of initial licenses (305 centers and 1,337 homes).

- Development and funding of a new Key Indicator System that streamlines the licensing renewal process for well-functioning day care centers, allowing licensing staff to focus more attention on centers needing more assistance to come into compliance with licensing standards. This new system is expected to be on-line by January 1999.

- Issuance next month of a revised Licensing Handbook and Procedures Manual. The handbook will serve as the basis for a new comprehensive training program for DCFS and private agency day care licensing staff, which will begin this fall.

- Establishment of an external "Center for Excellence" program, that will provide orientation and mentoring to prospective licenses, and ongoing technical assistance to day care homes and centers.

The changes are based on five years of work with the Child Care Development Task Force, the State Advisory Committee on Day Care and other groups, to improve the health and safety of children in state licensed day care centers.

The state's day care system is in need of technical assistance to improve quality programming. Many new applicants need to understand the fundamental health and safety requirements of running day care facilities, while seasoned providers would benefit from ongoing professional development to improve the quality of their programs.

- Establishment of a new statewide, toll-free "Day Care Hotline," effective January 1999, which will provide callers access to information regarding the licensing status, history, and complaint record of any day care facility. The 800 number will build on the state's current Child Care Resource and Referral (CCR&R) system.

- Expanding to three weeks the Department's current two-week core training program for new workers, with a curriculum emphasis on early childhood and child development.

- Revision last January of the Department's Licensing Standards for Day Care Centers, the first major revision since 1985.

The changes are based on five years of work with the Child Care Development Task Force, the State Advisory Committee on Day Care and other groups, to improve the health and safety of children in state licensed day care centers.

Under an agreement between the Department and the Day Care Action Council of Illinois, regular meetings will be held over the next six months to encourage input from the day care community on hiring, training, and the above improvements.

In Illinois, there are more than 10,000 licensed day care homes and 3,100 licensed day care centers. The Department receives more than 2,000 day care inquiries per month.

gross profit, operating expenses and net income. This is one statement I want to see each month. Small changes in income statement performance can make big differences on the bottom line.

Three Good Tools

Common sizing. This tool converts the dollar amounts of your income statement and balance sheet to percentages. You use one element from the statement as a base value and compare all other elements to it.

Trend analysis. This tool lets you spread your numbers (lay them out side by side in columnar format) and look for patterns or trends. For example, a three-year trend analysis of your income statement might indicate that sales are increasing, but gross profit margin is decreasing.

Financial ratios. Ratios compare one number to another. Miles per hour, miles per gallon and cost per square foot are all ratios. Financial ratios compare one factor of your financial statements to another.

The Maids honored for top award

Bruce Zimmerman, owner of The Maids, serving Gurnee, Waukegan, Libertyville, Grayslake, Vernon Hills, Round Lake and Mundelein, was named to The Maids International's Winner's Circle—from more than 150 franchise owners—for outstanding operational efficiency in sales, labor and close percent.

Zimmerman bases the company's success on high demand and on delivering a superior service each time a home is cleaned.

According to Research Alert, as reported in About Women & Marketing magazine, nearly one in five American homes are cleaned professionally.

"Busy homeowners don't want to spend their free time cleaning the house when they can hire a professional, trustworthy service," remarks Zimmerman. "We ensure our customers satisfaction by sending out a supervised, fully-trained team of four maids who follow a 22-step cleaning process each time they clean a home."

Setting the record straight on flood insurance

Did you know that, buildings in areas with the greatest risk of flooding, called Special Flood Hazard Areas, have a 26 percent chance of being flooded during a 30-year mortgage and that about 45 percent of our flood damage sites are not in a mapped floodplain? The Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) is taking on the issue of flood insurance during its second annual Flood Awareness Week to get the message out on the misconceptions about flood insurance, and the need to get flood insurance.

"Flood insurance is one of the easiest things to do to protect yourself against flood loss and yet, it is estimated that only 25 percent of the floodprone properties in northeastern Illinois are covered by flood insurance," said Ward Miller, Director, SMC. According to the Federal Emergency Management Agency's (FEMA) facts sheets on flood insurance, those most common reactions to buying insurance include it's too expensive. Lake County alone has approximately 3,392 policy holders with an annual average premium of approximately $400.

Another misnomer is that disaster assistance following a flood event will be available so one does not need to buy flood insurance. In fact, to qualify for disaster funds, the President must declare a major disaster and that more than 90 percent of all disasters are not Presidentially declared. Most forms of Federal disaster assistance in those cases are in the form of a loan that must be paid back with interest. Lastly, because you've never flooded before doesn't mean you shouldn't be prepared. SMC has identified over 350 flood hazards areas throughout the county. While there are several types of flood hazards, the potential for flood risk is more severe because there are more and more buildings, roads and parking lots.

The national Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) was created in 1968 through the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to provide affordable flood insurance to people who live in areas with the greatest risk of flooding. Everyone in a participating community of the NFIP can buy flood insurance. Of Lake County's 53 communities including the County of Lake, only four are not in the NFIP program. Those include Hainesville, Highwood, Indian Creek and Volo.

To clear up misconceptions about flood insurance, FEMA's "Myths and Facts About the NFIP" addresses some typical questions:

• Myth: Homeowners' insurance policies cover flooding. Unfortunately, many homeowners do not find this out until it is too late. Federal flood insurance protects your most valuable assets—your home and belongings.

• Myth: You can't buy flood insurance if your property has been flooded. It doesn't matter how many times your home, apartment or business has flooded. You are still eligible to purchase flood insurance, provided your community is participating in the NFIP.

• Myth: Federal flood insurance can only be purchased through the NFIP directly. NFIP flood insurance is sold through private insurance companies and agents, and is backed by the Federal government.

• Myth: The NFIP does not offer any type of basement coverage. Yes it does. Under NFIP building coverage, basements are insured for cleanup and items used to service the building, such as furnaces, hot-water heaters, air conditioners, utility connections, circuit breaker boxes, as well as the repair of structural damage to basement walls. Items in basement insured under NFIP contents coverage include clothes washers and dryers, and food freezers and the food in them. Improvements to a basement, such as finished walls, floors, or ceilings, as well as personal belongings located in a basement, are not covered in either NFIP building or contents coverage.

"Flooding can happen at any time. Flood insurance is the cheapest and best protection against losing everything," said Miller.

"The goal is get these homeowners out of harm's way forever," said Miller.

While the focus for these properties is acquisition, mitigation options for other areas will be recommended in SMC's draft Flood Hazard Mitigation Plan (FHMP). The plan which will be adopted by SMC and the county currently identifies over 350 flood hazards areas in the county. It is the most comprehensive list of its kind in the county and documents types of flood hazards by area. The plan once completed will recommend mitigation options that include floodproofing and the simple option of buying flood insurance.

"Flood hazards are an economic disincentive. The Plan will provide all of us with a road map for mitigation activities for the next 10 years," said Miller.

While the plan focuses on "old" problems, SMC's regulatory program focuses on reducing new problems that might occur from new development. The Watershed Development Ordinance (WDO) sets minimum countywide standards for the stormwater management aspects of new development. Those include rainfall runoff management, stormwater facility maintenance, soil erosion control, floodplain and wetland preservation, and water quality standards. By preserving the natural drainage system, costly public works solutions can be avoided in the future, said Miller.

Reaching a level of safety and comfort from the threat of flooding is SMC's goal. Being aware of the risks and being prepared is another. While spring is the traditional time for flooding, flooding can occur at anytime.

"Flood damage reduction efforts through the wet and dry years is important to Lake County's economic well being and quality of life. SMC is working to ensure that," said Miller.

LaCASA golf fundraiser deemed big success

The more than 75 women who attended the LaCASA-Zacharias Center's first women's golf outing, not only enjoyed camaraderie, but the event was financially beneficial.

The event at Bittersweet Golf course raised $25,000 to assist the non-profit organization to fight sexual assault in Lake County.

Those attending the golf event heard from WMAQ News Channel 5's Chief Meteorologist Shelly Monahan, the honorary chairperson for the event. She told of a brutal attack by a serial rapist she suffered 20 years ago on the streets of Spokane, Wash. She has since become a visible spokesperson for the prevention of sexual assault and child abuse.

"Shelly mesmerized and inspired every person in the room. She is truly a role model for women of all ages. Seeing how she overcame all the emotional and societal barriers to succeed in such a highly competitive profession shows that women can achieve anything with persistence and an upbeat attitude," said Ann Subry, event coordinator.

Monahan will be back in the area for a walk-a-thon to benefit LaCASA on Aug. 30. It will be held at Van Patten Woods at Sterling Lake in Wadsworth. The two-mile, scenic low-stress walk's proceeds will benefit LaCASA's county-wide sexual assault prevention programs.

The top individual fund-raiser will receive a one-year lease on a Honda Accord provided by Rosen Motors in Gurnee.

For more information on the walk-a-thon, dubbed, "Fast or Slow, Forward We Go", call 244-1187.

A bridge tournament was also held for non-golfers to benefit LaCASA. To learn more on becoming a LaCASA-Zacharias Center volunteer advocate, call 244-1187.

Collection notices and your rights

The mission of the Internal Revenue Service is to collect the proper amount of tax at the least cost to the public. To do this, we must ensure that all taxpayers file their tax returns on time and pay the tax they owe.

If you do not pay the full amount of tax you owe, you will receive a tax bill (notice). This bill is called a Notice of Tax and Demand for Payment and will include the tax due, plus penalties and interest that we have charged based on the unpaid balance of your account from the date the taxes should have been paid. This bill begins the collection process.

When you receive a notice of tax due from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), don't ignore it. If you believe your bill is incorrect, please let us know by calling the telephone number on the bill or by writing to the IRS office that sent you the bill. You may also visit the IRS office nearest you. Whichever method you choose, be sure to include or bring a copy of the bill and copies of any records or canceled checks that will help us understand what you believe is wrong. We will review the information and if your bill is incorrect, we will adjust your account and if necessary, send you a corrected bill.

If the notice you receive is correct and you cannot pay the full amount due, you should pay as much as you can and immediately call us, write us, or visit your nearest IRS office to discuss your account. To expedite resolution have a copy of the notice you received and your financial information with you. If you write to us, be sure to include a copy of the notice you received and, in your letter, print your name and the taxpayer identification number, tax form, and tax period listed on the notice.

EASING YOUR TAX BURDEN

By Robert E. Brazzil
IRS District Director

There are a number of ways you can resolve your tax problems. You can pay the taxes, interest and penalties in full; enter into an installment agreement; or make an offer in compromise—a way to settle unpaid tax accounts for less than the full amount of the balance due. (Offers in compromise have specific criteria and may not be available to everyone.) And, you should keep in mind that as time passes, penalties and interest (compounded daily) are accruing and being added to your tax liability until it's paid in full.

Generally, if you owe taxes, several bills (notices) are sent to you. If we do not get a response to these notices, the account will proceed further in the collection process. In other words, we may try to contact you by phone or in person. If telephone contact can't be made or the case remains unresolved, we'll have to take other actions. These could include issuing tax liens, levying financial sources, and giving the case to a field

When dealing with the IRS, you have the right to be treated fairly, professionally, promptly, and courteously by IRS employees. Publication 1, Your Rights As A Taxpayer, explains some of your most important rights as a taxpayer. It also explains the examination, collection, appeals, and refund processes. You will receive a copy of Publication 1 with your initial bill. You may also request a copy from an IRS employee at or before your first in-person interview or by calling IRS at 1-800-829-3676.

Remember, if you receive a notice, letter, or bill from the IRS, please don't ignore it. If you think the notice is wrong, or it's correct but you can't pay, contact us. We want to work with you.

Osmond Insurance new agency for Dunham and Chemung Mutual

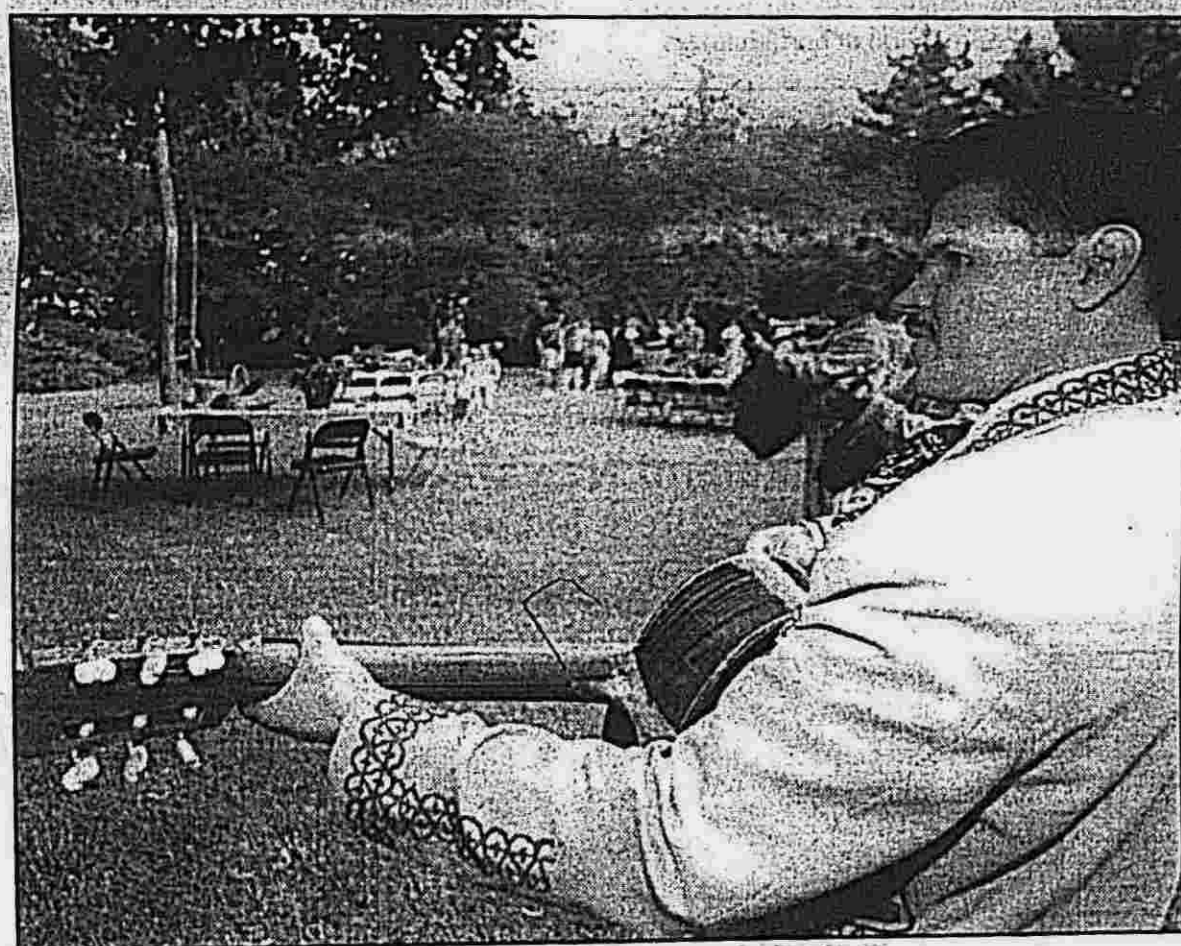

Timothy H. Osmond, CIC owner/president of Osmond Insurance Service, Ltd. in Antioch, is a new agency for the Dunham and Chemung Mutual Insurance Company, Dan Frost, president and CEO, announced today. Dunham and Chemung has been providing insurance protection and service on farm, home and rental property since 1882.

Osmond's father (Bernard N. Osmond) started the agency in 1954 with real estate and insurance services. Tim took over the company in 1976 and incorporated as the insurance agency in 1980.

Osmond has been involved with community services including two years as Antioch Township Supervisor, and past chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad. He is a candidate for the Illinois house of Representatives serving the 62nd District in the November election. Company insurance agents include Colleen Osmond CIC, Deborah DeRue CISR and Osmond CIC.

Other Dunham and Chemung agencies are located in Harvard, McHenry, Woodstock, Crystal Lake, and Lake Villa.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Common myths about variable annuities

When the popularity of an investment vehicle increases dramatically, it's bound to attract attention from the media. Along with that attention often comes misinformation and misconceptions.

That continues to be the case with variable annuities, whose annual sales have almost quintupled to more than $70 billion in the past five years.

After the recent capital gains tax cut, the media began comparing the tax benefits of variable annuities and mutual funds. Annuities grow tax-sheltered until you begin withdrawing your money. Then, you pay taxes on earnings and capital gains at your regular income tax rate, which can be as high as 39.6 percent. On the other hand, according to some reports, you pay taxes on mutual fund gains at a top tax rate of 20 percent. Or do you?

To answer this, you first must separate a few myths from reality.

Myth: Variable annuity investors will fall into the top income tax bracket of 39.6 percent when they withdraw their money.

Reality: Most annuity investors are not in the 39.6 percent tax bracket. In 1997, the top bracket applied only to taxpayers with taxable income of more than $271,050. But a 1996 Gallup poll found that more than 80 percent of annuity investors had total annual incomes of less than $75,000.

Myth: Most financial professionals tout growth funds, with a top tax rate of 20 percent, as the smart alternative to variable annuities.

Reality: In fact, most people do not invest exclusively in growth funds, meaning not all of their gains would receive the 20 percent tax rate. Any comparison of tax liabilities should show the implications of a more diverse portfolio.

Myth: All taxes associated with growth mutual funds are long-term capital gains and therefore receive the 20 percent tax rate.

Reality: On the contrary, mutual funds often hold many securities within their portfolio for 18 months or less, subjecting gains on those securities to short-term tax rates. If you own a mutual fund, even if you reinvest all dividends and gains, you still owe ordinary taxes on all dividends, and odds are that your year-end statement will show short-term taxable gains.

In fact, the average growth fund has a turnover rate of 95 percent, meaning the fund manager buys and sells almost the entire portfolio within a 12-month period. When a mutual fund manager holds a stock less than 12 months, the shareholder pays taxes at ordinary income tax rates. Gains on stocks held between 12 months and 18 months are taxed up to 25 percent.

Following are several other myths about variable annuities:

- Investors withdraw all their money in lump sums. (They don't.)
- Variable annuities are more expensive to own than mutual funds. (Not necessarily.)
- Tax deferral is the only reason people invest in variable annuities. (It isn't.)

The reality is that variable annuities and mutual funds each can play an important — and unique — role in an overall financial plan. Don't be misled by anyone trying to convince you of the evils of either variable annuities or mutual funds. Instead, work closely with your financial professional to understand the complexities and ensure the proper use of these investment tools. When appropriate, growth mutual funds and variable annuities can be invaluable ways to take greater control over your financial security.—By Noah Seidenberg

Still Is.

We're not a big impersonal corporation headquartered in a far distant city or even foreign country. We're a family. And, like you, we make decisions that suit our community... not necessarily someone else's. We think that makes a great difference in the care and service we offer the families who come to us.

Our Family serving your family to help you in your time of need.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following legal notice should have appeared in all Lakeland Newspaper editions July 17, 1998. It was printed in Libertyville News and was inadvertently omitted from the other publications. The error is regretted.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of the Condell Acute Care Centers on August 17 and 18, 1998. The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate the organization's compliance with nationally established Joint Commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, and the conditions under which accreditation should be awarded the organization.

Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to: Division of Accreditation Operations, Organization Liaison, Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, 1 Renaissance Blvd, Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181.

The Joint commission will acknowledge such requests in writing or by telephone and will inform the organization of the request for any interview. The organization will, in turn, notify the interviewee of the date, time, and place of the meeting.

Lortie out of jail, faces Sept. 8 trial

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

After further review, Dennis Lortie is out of jail.

Lortie, 19, was released July 16, one day after charges against him were reduced to involuntary manslaughter in the death of his father, and his bond was reduced to $150,000 from $500,000, said his attorney, Thomas Briscoe, of Waukegan.

"We are very pleased that the first degree murder charge had been reduced," Briscoe said. "The State's Attorney's office reviewed the evidence, and I give them credit for that."

The Lake County Grand Jury met July 15 on the case, and returned a more favorable charge, according to Stephen Scheller, Lake County assistant state attorney and chief of the felony review division.

"We felt it was appropriate," Scheller said. The charge means the act was committed recklessly, without intent, Scheller said.

"The charge still makes him responsible," he said. "There was not intent for Dennis to kill his father." Briscoe was pleased with the response, but said they will go further.

"We pleaded not guilty to the involuntary manslaughter charge this morning (July 16), and we are looking forward to defending it."

The trial was set for Tuesday, Sept. 8, before Circuit Court Judge Stephen E. Walter.

Lortie was arrested the night of June 26 at his home, 1428 Huntington Dr., after he called 911 to request an ambulance for his father, James P. Lortie, 53, who was not breathing.

The circumstances which led up to the death started around 9:15 p.m., when Dennis accused his younger brother, Ben, 14, of stealing money off his dresser, Scheller said.

"Dennis struck his brother in the back," Scheller said. Their father intervened and told Dennis to go to his room, but instead they started to wrestle, he said.

They fell to the floor, and Dennis put his arms around his father's neck in a choke hold for about one minute, Scheller said. He released after seeing his father's face turn blue, and called for help. The Lake County Coroner listed the cause of death as asphyxiation, Scheller said.

Dennis has no prior criminal record or history of drug abuse. He was an all-conference wrestler at Libertyville High School, and just completed his freshman year at the College of Lake County. He is also an apprentice carpenter for Carpenter's Union Local 250.

The Lortie family, which includes five children, has been staying with relatives in the area while they continue cleaning their home.

Mundelein Building and Zoning Director Bill Rundall said he has not issued a notice allowing them to move back.

"They are in the process of cleaning the house," he said. The family is recarpeting the home and repainting walls, he said.

Rundall spoke with Ann Lortie, the victim's wife, last week, and told her to keep in touch on a weekly basis until they are completed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following legal notice should have appeared in all Lakeland Newspaper editions July 17, 1998. It was printed in Libertyville News and was inadvertently omitted from the other publications. The error is regretted.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of the Condell Acute Care Centers on August 17 and 18, 1998. The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate the organization's compliance with nationally established Joint Commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, and the conditions under which accreditation should be awarded the organization.

Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to: Division of Accreditation Operations, Organization Liaison, Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, 1 Renaissance Blvd, Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181.

The Joint commission will acknowledge such requests in writing or by telephone and will inform the organization of the request for any interview. The organization will, in turn, notify the interviewee of the date, time, and place of the meeting.

This notice is posted in accordance with the Joint Commission's requirements.

Lortie out of jail, faces Sept. 8 trial

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

After further review, Dennis Lortie is out of jail.

Lortie, 19, was released July 16, one day after charges against him were reduced to involuntary manslaughter in the death of his father, and his bond was reduced to $150,000 from $500,000, said his attorney, Thomas Briscoe, of Waukegan.

"We are very pleased that the first degree murder charge had been reduced," Briscoe said. "The State's Attorney's office reviewed the evidence, and I give them credit for that."

The Lake County Grand Jury met July 15 on the case, and returned a more favorable charge, according to Stephen Scheller, Lake County assistant state's attorney and chief of the felony review division.

"We felt it was appropriate," Scheller said. The charge means the act was committed recklessly, without intent, Scheller said.

"The charge still makes him responsible," he said. "There was not intent for Dennis to kill his father."

Briscoe was pleased with the response, but said they will go further. "We pleaded not guilty to the involuntary manslaughter charge this morning (July 16), and we are looking forward to defending it."

The trial was set for Tuesday, Sept. 8, before Circuit Court Judge Stephen E. Walter.

Lortie was arrested the night of June 26 at his home, 1428 Huntington Dr., after he called 911 to request an ambulance for his father, James P. Lortie, 53, who was not breathing.

The circumstances which led up to the death started around 9:15 p.m., when Dennis accused his younger brother, Ben, 14, of stealing money off his dresser, Scheller said.

"Dennis struck his brother in the back," Scheller said. Their father intervened and told Dennis to go to his room, but instead they started to wrestle, he said.

They fell to the floor, and Dennis put his arms around his father's neck in a choke hold for about one minute, Scheller said. He released after seeing his father's face turn blue, and called for help. The Lake County Coroner listed the cause of death as asphyxiation, Scheller said.

Dennis has no prior criminal record or history of drug abuse. He was an all-conference wrestler at Libertyville High School, and just completed his freshman year at the College of Lake County. He is also an apprentice carpenter for Carpenter's Union Local 250.

The Lortie family, which includes five children, has been staying with relatives in the area while they continue cleaning their home.

Mundelein Building and Zoning Director Bill Rundall said he has not issued a notice allowing them to move back.

"They are in the process of cleaning the house," he said. The family is recarpeting the home and repainting walls, he said.

Rundall spoke with Ann Lortie, the victim's wife, last week, and told her to keep in touch on a weekly basis until they are completed.

Appearances are deceiving with off-the-rack glasses

These days consumers can buy take-home tests and devices to check for high blood pressure, diabetes and colon cancer. They can also pick reading glasses off the rack to try to solve their own vision problems. But like other do-it-yourself diagnostic aids, off-the-rack reading glasses can cause a person to miss or mis-diagnose a health problem, says the American Optometric Association.

Off-the-rack reading glasses are simply magnifying lenses mounted in frames. They generally come in about 10 different powers and the consumer tries them on until he finds a pair that permits easy reading.

These glasses are relatively inexpensive. But there is a risk in buying them without first getting a thorough eye examination to detect eye disease and determine the exact cause of seeing difficulties. Even among adults, blurred vision cannot always be attributed to the natural effects of aging.

Other disadvantages of these glasses are:

- The magnification of both lenses is the same. Most people, however, need a different lens prescription for each eye.

- They have no correction for astigmatism, a common vision problem causing blurred vision.

- They can cause headaches, tired eyes or other eyestrain symptoms because the wearer's line of vision may not correspond to the optical center of the lenses.

- They may seem fine when worn for a minute or two in the store but when used for an hour or more to concentrate on reading, needlework or other close work, they may prove unsatisfactory.

By having a thorough optometric exam each year, consumers can rule out or obtain treatment for an eye health problem that may be interfering with their vision, and prescription lenses can be custom-ground to the wearer's exact vision needs, as determined by the optometrist. Although they cost more than over-the-counter glasses, prescription lenses provide better and more comfortable vision.

SENIOR BRIEFS

Seniors can save when traveling

Older Americans who know how to take advantage of travel discounts from hotels, cruises and airlines can achieve savings of hundreds of dollars on each trip, say Gene and Adele Malott, editors of The Mature Traveler newsletter.

Seniors easily can keep track of discounts and other deals through this timely newsletter. For a year's subscription, send $29.95 to The Mature Traveler, Dept. 6, P.O. Box 50400, Reno, NV 89513-0400.

Hidden treasures can bring money

Nearly everyone, especially seniors, may be richer than they think. Most people own something that someone else wants and is willing to pay money for.

Trash or Treasure, by Tony Hyman, is a 576-page guide identifying buyers for everything from fine antiques to plastic jewelry. The book lists 2,500 categories of things people may own and introduces them to specialty collectors and dealers who buy them.

The book is available by mail only from Trash or Treasure, Box 2038-JE, Pismo Beach, Ca 93448.

Where have all the valedictorians gone?

Dear Dr. Singer, I saw something on the news this last week that really made me angry. Actually I didn't see it. I heard it in the other room so I didn't get all the details. I was wondering if you heard it? Someone, be it a Psychologist or a Educator, was talking about how they felt that it was a destructive thing to tell your child about how smart he or she is. They felt it was better to tell your child what a good person he or she is. First they do away with grades in school and now this. What is going on in this society when being smart doesn't matter anymore? I'd love to hear your thoughts on this. M.M.

Dear M.M.,

No, I didn't hear or see that one on the news. I'll comment on your general idea, however I would caution you that since you hadn't really seen it or heard it in it's entirety, that you be careful about how you are quoting what was said. Misinformation can be a terrible thing. If it was said, it's a very sad representation of the person who said it.

In general, I would believe that someone would have said something like that. It seems that our society has completely lost touch with what true self esteem really is. Many people seem to think that we need to protect kids from competition. Somehow, many people out there have gotten the faulty idea that if you ask a child to compete in any way, you are taking a chance on hurting that child so we have become a society that discourages that kind of competition and, levels out the playing field, if you will. My view is, that by leveling the playing field, they are also leveling this society. Many times, the pain of fine tuning after rejection is what brings out the perfect success in us. Many of us would never have reached our potential if we didn't fail a number of times first.

Our kids are the future of our society. True self esteem doesn't come from complete fairness from the beginning. It doesn't come from a stacked situation. Kids are very aware when they have gotten something because it was given to them. Sometimes that hurts worse than competing and losing. Imagine if we added the same level of quota and label to the sports arena. What if we said that certain teams had to win a certain number of times a year. What if we had to stop saying that a team was great or spectacular because other teams weren't. Pretty crazy, huh? Yet we do it daily with our kids.

I am reminded of the situation several years ago in which a local school decided to get rid of the valedictorian position. So, I guess in that situation, the idea was, instead of encouraging all kids to try and get to a position like that, we just get rid of that aspiration and make sure that everyone is even. It is ludicrous. Now, of course, I can hear the critics reading this. All of the people out there who are saying, "But what about the children who can't make it there." I cringe when I hear people say things like that. In 12 years I've met a lot of kids. Some who were very high IQ and some, not so high IQ. What stopped the lower IQ kids from trying, wasn't competition. It also wasn't their own IQ limitation (which I don't believe in-I believe that IQ can be raised.) It was the attitude of those around those kids. People who were convinced that this child couldn't reach the top. Well, guess what? The child listened and fulfilled that prophecy.

PARENT'S PLACE

Not all of us can be valedictorians. Not all of us can be Einstein. Try and imagine, though, if during the time of Einstein or Mozart we took this view that some of us have now. Einstein and Mozart both had sensorimotor limitations, however, both were pure genius. Today, we seem to be taking our Mozart's and Einstein's and making sure that they never struggle to fine tune their skills. What are we potentially missing here?

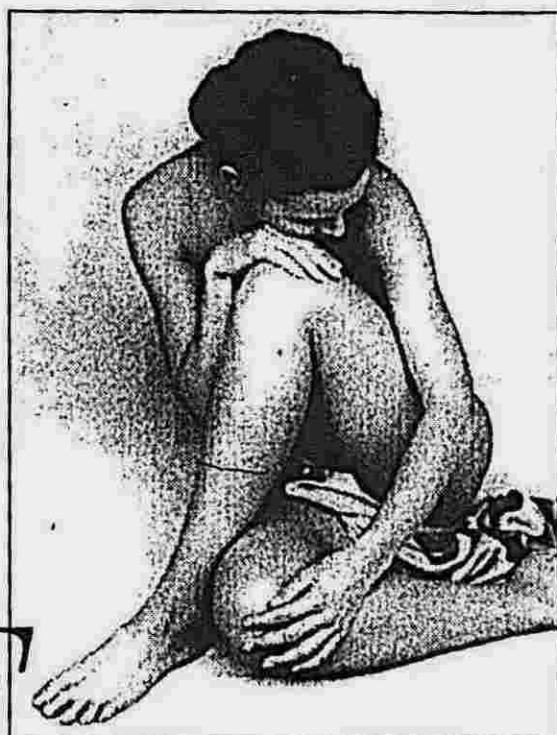

So, in answer to your question, if someone did, in fact, say that we should not tell kids they are smart, I wholeheartedly disagree. They can be both smart and good people. Smartness is possible in so many areas. It's not a blanket statement.

Thank goodness that there are still enough people out there that believe that kids will go as far as you let them. I am in the business of improving cognitive or thinking skills on an everyday basis. I know what I've seen. I know that many limitations can be improved significantly.

I'm glad you are out there! It makes me know that there are more out there that think like me!

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear ...Search,

I like to think of myself as an average guy who is both outgoing and somewhat intelligent. My problem is that I have a difficult time obtaining employment. I have had 13 jobs in 7 years. When I graduated high school I decided not to go to college, because at the time, I had what I thought was a good job with great upward mobility and good starting salary and benefits. While all my friends had opted for college, I was home earning a good living and being independent. All was doing well, and I felt secure enough to go out and get my own apartment and new car. I was hoping to register and start taking some college courses in the upcoming semester, until eight months later the company showed signs of a struggle and my position was eliminated at the first cut. I practically jumped at the first opportunity that came along so as not to lose the apartment and car.
That job lasted just over 3 months, but a buddy of mine got me a job instantly working at his company until they laid him off. I felt obligated to quit, I probably don't need to go on and on because the rest of my work history reads the same way. Over the past weeks, I have come to the realization that my friends have all passed me by. They are all into their own professions, with big salaries that make my head spin (and I thought I was comfortable), and here I am 7 years later, still in my apartment and paying for repairs on my car. Realizing now that I may have opted for the wrong path, I hope that you will take a look at my resume and offer some opinion as to what I might try.
Hope you can help.
S.B.-Libertyville

Dear S.B.,

Sometimes getting together with old friends can make us stop and take a look at our own lives in comparison, be they better or worse. You need to take stock in yourself first. You address yourself as an "average guy... somewhat intelligent", and I believe by the sound of your letter that you feel comfortable with that. What should it matter what everyone else is doing, as long as you feel good about what you do. If you don't...CHANGE IT! In looking at your resume, your problem does not seem to be obtaining employment, but rather retaining employment. So take a look at it from that direction. You are choosing one path that says "retail" operations, in positions that offer little upward mobility long, undefined hours and demand for weekdays and weekends. Find yourself a position which will allow you to work Monday through Friday...normal 8-5 hours, and follow the one thing you had to put off...register for some evening classes as your intentions originally were before you were side tracked. It will be very difficult for you to do while following the path of the retail operations that you have been with. If you take a look at your resumes and see the pattern of types of retail that you have been in, you will see that is all spells CUSTOMER SERVICE. Your people skills coupled with your computer software could land you positions within a corporate customer service environment. Just look upon this as a growth spurt. Though you may think the 7 years may have gotten away from you, truth is, it's never too late to forge ahead. Hope this helps.

Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland

Tip Of The Week

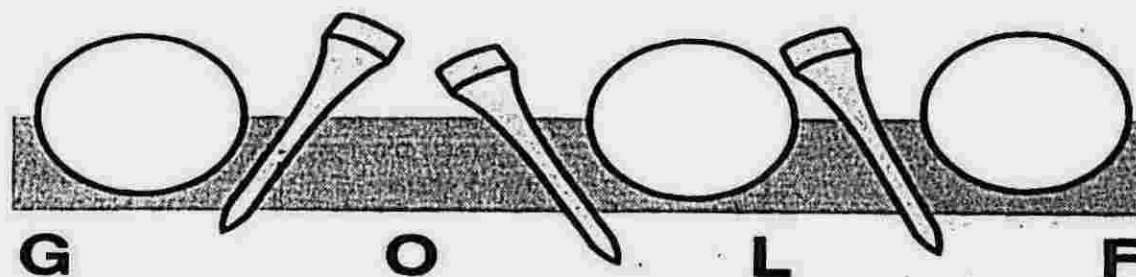

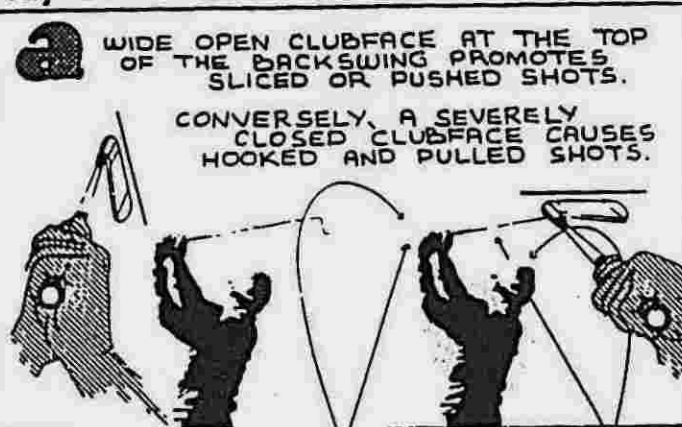

ON THE GREEN - Two Tips TO IMPROVE YOUR PUTTING

When putting, the ball needs to be directly under your eyes. To check this, assume your stance, & holding your putter loosely by the grip, let it hang from between your eyes. The putter should hover like a plumb bob directly over the ball.

Bad putters putt with their hands. Good putters putt with their shoulders. Be sure that you make your putting stroke with your shoulders. With no hand or wrist movement. The back of your left wrist should not change positions throughout the stroke.
